A Cowardly Act.

Albert H. Bard, brakeman on crew No. 27 of the Pennsylvania railroad, was the victim of a dastardly act, while on his train coming to Columbia. The train was running at a very high rate of speed and was a short distance east of Eagle station when Bard no-ticed two men sitting on a coal car some dis-tance ahead of the box car where he was ridinnce shead of the box car where he was rid-ing. Without anything passing between Bard and the men, he was suddenly struck near the right eye by a large piece of coal, huried at him by these men. The force of the biow was so great that the brakeman was thrown to the top of the car, and serious results were prevented by taking hold of the brake wheel. The result of this dastardly act was a very severe gash cut above the right eye. The in-the set Jury received medical attention upon the ar-rival of the train in Columbia.

A Slight Fire.

An alarm of fire was raised in town about 12:45 o'clock, this morning, which brought out the entire fire department. The alarm out the entire fire department. The alarm was started by the burning of the coke shed at the Columbia agricultural works, on Com-merce street. The flames had gained very little headway when they were they were put out by the application of a few buckets of water. The cause of the fire is not known, but is supposed to have been of an incon-diary origin. It was reported that a spark from a locomotive was the cause of the fire, but the distance is too great for a spark to do If the distance is too great for a spark to do feet square. Teemer, and Hamm, who arrived Monday night, took a spin over the course yesterday and pronounced it the best they have seen this year. In an interview Teemer said his being unwell occasioned his defeat by Gaudaur. Referring to Hanlan, Teemer said he was too dissipated even to recover his old position. Even if he did strengthen up he and took ninety-four people from this city. It was expected that this number would be increased somewhat by the time the train reached Wrightsville. The excursion was much smaller than it was expected to be, but this can easily be accounted for, as the rail-road company will sell tickets to this resort at very chean rates over the Fourth of July was too old to improve. Teemer says he is ready to row any man in the world for $2,500 aside and put up the money at once. He offers to bet $100 that Hanian will not go to England to row Beach. A Double Murder.
