ker, who at that time owned the farm that now belongs to George Hoffer, in Rapho township sold the farm to his son John L. Brubaker. At that time a mortgage was given on the farm for $4,000. Twenty-one years ago, John L. Brubaker sold the farm to Samuel Gerber, sr., and at that time the mortage was paid for in full, in the presence of John Gerber and Samuel Eusminger, sr., of Manheim. For some reason or other Brubaker never had the mortgage released, cancelled or satisfaction entered for in the recorder's office where it was on record. Time passed and the farm passed into the hands of Gerber's son and sonsold the farm to the present owner, Geo.
Hoffer. It was not until the present new tax law went into effect, which requires assessaw went into enext, which requires assess-ment of all mortgages, that Mr. Hofter was first informed that there is a mortgage on his farm. Rev. Brubaker is dead these many years and Samuel Ensminger, whom we are informed was to lift the mortgage for Brubaker, is also dead a long time and so is Samuel Gerber, who paid the mortgage. This fact with the great length of time make matters specially complicated Mr. make matters specially complicated. Mr. Hotfer naturally did not feel very easy, who had paid his farm in full, to find an unsatisfied lien against it of $4,000. He at once engaged Major A. C. Reinorn, as his attorney, to look up this matter. The facts were at once found out as given above, and no dental was made by the Brubaker heirs, no denial was made by the Brubaker heirs, that the mortgage had not been paid, yet although they did not want to try and collect it another time, still we are informed that they were not exactly ready and willing to release and lift the mortgage. This made it necessary to have a rule of court taken out and the heirs had to be served with a notice by the sheriff, to appear before court on a certain day, to make objections if they by the sheriff, to appear before court on a certain day, to make objections if they have any, why satisfaction should not be entered and the mortgage made void. No objections being thus raised by any of the heirs, last Thursday in open court, it was orderered that the mortgage be made null and void. This is the first and only case of which we ever heard, of a mortgage after it was paid, to be left a lien for more than twenty wars. Such a neglect is a criminal offense.

HE MARRIED A CHILD.

an Eleven-Year-Old Girl Enticed From Her Friends and Wedded to a Wood-Uhopy Friends and Wedded to a Wood-Uhopper, Mrs. Isabella Green brought to Middle town, N. Y., Wednesday evening, Mary E. Johnson, who will be 12 years old this month, and who, she said, was her daughter. She said the girl was abducted from her home in Sullivan county, and married to a wood-chopper, 21 years old, named John Corwin. The girl last Christmas was placed in the home of Doctor Bonestet at Sumin the home of Doctor Bonestet at Sum-mitville, Sullivan county, and while there Irene Bell, a widow, and a relative of the child's father, induced her in April to run away from Benestet's house. The child was seeluded in an unfrequented place. On April 13 the Bell woman with young Corwin and little Mary appeared before Justice Evans at Burlington, and they were mar-ried, the girl asserting that she was 16 years old.

Mrs. Green says that after hearing of the lilegal marriage of her daughter she went to Sullivan county to get her. She found Cor-win and the child living together as man win and the child living together as man and wife at Mrs. Bell's house. This morning Mrs. Bell and her friends were in Middletown trying with the assistance of a lawyer to get the child away from her mother. The girl, however, preferred to remain with her mother.

The child says that Mrs. Bell induced her toget to parties against by Bonester's risk to go to parties against Dr. Bonestet's wishes. Bonestet told her if she went out at night she would have to leave altogether. She did go out, and left the dector's house and went to live with Widow Bell, where Corwin boarded. Corwin made love to her, and Mrs. Bell took a band in the love-making, too, and induced her to receive Cor-win's attention. She told the child that after leaving Dr. Bonestet's her mother would kill her if she returned home. Believ-ing what Mrs. Bell told her, the child says she preferred marriage to returning home, and accordingly went to Justice Evans' and was married to Corwin. They lived at Mrs. Beil's, the child earning her board by doing housework, and Corwin paying his from the proceeds of his later as wood chopper. She avs Corwin has treated her kindly, but she wants the marriage annulled.

Cowin was arrested on papers prepared by Justice Powelson, of Middleson, but Justice Evans discharged him before Mrs. Green could appear against him.

Wreck of a Milk Wagon,

Nearly all dealers in lacteal thuid have a wagon with horse attached, and by this method drive through the fireets and serve their customers with what is supposed to be milk and cream, with an uncertain percentage of aqua added. We have had to chronicle from time to time numerous accidents to the milk dealers caused by breakdowns, collis-ions and runaway horses. Mr. August Strantz, milk dealer, thought he could Strantz, milk dealer, thought he could avoid accidents by having a wagon without a horse, he himself to be the molive power to pull it along. So he bought a small wagon and got along swimmingly until this morning, when as he was descending the steep hill back of Schoenberger's park the value of his wagen herbers. berger's park the pole of his wagon broke and the vehicle bounded forwarded, knocked Mr. Strantz down, ran over him, turned a double somersault, sent the milk cans rattling and rolling down the hill and didn't stop till it got to the bottom, where it rolled itself all up in a little heap and awaited the arrival of its owner. Mr. Strantz was soon on hand, repaired his wagon as well as he could, gathered up his pails and pans and kettles, saved what little milk was left and served in to some of his customers at a later hour than usual. Those who did not get their supply for breakfast this morning will know the reason why. Mr. Strantz has but a limited number of kine and don't keep a pump.

The following dispatch from Omaha, Neb. to the New York World relates to 'Bert' Elliott, a young man from York, who was graduated from Franklin and Marshall college a few years ago and was well known in Lancaster:

Two years ago Nellie, daugher of Senator

Pugh, of Alabama, was married to Altert

Elliott. The couple came to Omaha and resided here some months and then went to council Bluffs. During the time they lived in Omaha and Council Bluffs, it is said, the wife was treated brutally and well-nigh starved to death. Her husband, it is also said, by force and confinement prevented her from communicating with her father. A few days ago the wife accidentally obtained an audience with George Wright, of Council Bluids, to whom she told her story and applied for Twenty-one years ago, Rev. Henry Bruba-Mr. Wright telegraphed to Senator Pugh, who had been unable to find any clue as to the whereatouts of his daugher. On Wednesday the wife's brother arrived in Council Bruffs and obtained admittance to his sister's house. With a drawn revolver he advanced upon the husband who escaped through the back door and came to Omaha. Young Pugh has left for Alabama, accompanied by his sister and her little girl.
