LANCASTER, JULY 6, 1886.

A Good Exhibit. One of the strong points which the Re olican stump orators and newspapers have been in the habit of making for their party's administration of public affairs is reduction of the public debt, and the generally healthy condition of the federal sury. As we have often shown, the too rapid reduction of the debt, by payments in excess of the sinking fund requirements, is not in itself an unqualified blessing; and this circumstance, in connection with enormous treasury balances, may often indicate a false and fallacious system of finance, which overtaxes the people and draws too heavily upon the resources of the present eration to carry a burden that posterity might reasonably be asked to share. But, as the laws of finance and taxation have been unchanged since the Democratic administration came in, it is gratifying to see that it has fully measured up to the task of their faithful administration.

The New York Herald's careful Washington correspondent points out that from July 1, 1885, to July-1, 1886, the public debt proper was decreased by $44,612,286, and the cash in the treasury increased by $51,485,479 so that the real decrease in the debt, deducting from it the net cash in the treasury, was in fact $96,097,766. In same year the clear gold and gold bullion were increased by $36,494,853. When the Cleveland administration came in, March, 1885, the net balance in the treasury stood at $8,764,590. After sixteen months, on July 1, 1886, it stands at $75,191,109. On March 4, 1885, the debt. less cash in the treasury, stood at $1,505. 711.813. On July 1 it stood at $1,389,136,-383, which shows a net reduction in sixteen months of Democratic treasury administration, and during a period of very hard times, of $116,575,430. On March 4. 1885, the treasury had net or clear gold, $126,358,042. After sixteen months, on July 1, it had $150,793,748. " The danger of a redundant silver coinage is not over, but under Democratic management the treasury has gained so largely in gold that, while the requirements of the sinking fund have been fully met, and the extinguishment of the national debt has gone on, the treasury is at this time in a condition to meet any extraordinary demand which may be made on it by reasons of possible gold shipments to Europe by calls of three per cent. bonds."

Sound Minds in Sound Bodies.

It is said the proportion of suicides in America is about eighty to the million of population, about half the rate of Germany and France, and the crime is far more frequent among the wealthy and well-to-do than among the poorer and more industrious people. In this fact appears to lie the secret and its remedy; for it usually occurs with men and women of poor health and nervous temperament and doubtless arises from the failure to exercise the muscles of the body and to maintain the physical health necessary to support a sound mind. The people who labor most with their muscles have to endure great privations often, and suffer from hunger, cold, and such a lack of opportunity for pleasure that it is a common, though false maxim, that "none but the rich enjoy life"; but as their reward they have minds which if not trained and 'powerful are at least healthy, and they are not driven to insanity and suicide by the misfortunes that the luxurious rich could not endure.

It is high time that our men of business or professional life should give more attention to the laws of health. They have been violating them for generations by the neglect of bodily exercise, and are reaping the reward in the rapidly increasing prevalence of insanity and its child, suicide.

"Poor's Directory, of Railway Officials with these the pulpit has to deal and it has a tremendous task before it. Among sciand Railway Directors for 1886," is the stand-ard publication of that sort. The current entific rationalists and atheists, suicide is most prevalent; but there is an evil that issue, from Poor's Railroad Manual, No. 70 lies nearer home and is more easy of relief. Wall street, New York, is the most compre the neglect of physical health by the hensive work of the kind ever published, neglect of bodily exercise; not of the limbs and is invaluable to railroad and general business interests alone, as many people seem to think, in walking, but in the development of the whole body, symmetrically with the mind.

Misrepresenting the Case.

Some of the Republican newspapers that are ignorant, and others that are simply malicious and mendacious, keep hammering away at Gen. Black for refusing to grant a pension to a slave woman whose slave son was a soldier. One of our contemporaries is hardy enough to say that " under the pension laws she is entitled to a pension at his death, and accordingly applied for it." This is simply not true. Under the pension laws she is not entitled to a pension; and as Gen. Black is sworn to administer the law as it is, and not to change it as his heart and sympathy might move him, he would be a scoundrel and a perjurer if he took the course which he is blamed for not taking. In their z-al to make a partisan point the organs will, of course, pay no attention to this nor to the fact that in this decision Gen. Black is following the opinion of his Republican predecessor, Gen. Dudley.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Hypocrisy is the compliment that vice pays to virtue. Imitation is the compliment failure pays to success. The name—not the character may be complicated by civil dissension, but of Benson's Capcine Plasters is imitated by unscrupulous parties, who make and try to sell plasters variously called "Capsicin," "Capsicin," "Capsicine," "Capsicine" "Capsicine" plasters, with the manifest intention to deceive. So cunningly and boldly is this done that careless people are doubtless sometimes beguiled into buying such articles in place of the genuine. Happily the number who follow this vocation uccreases every year through the refusal of reputable dealers to handle the initation goods, meanwhile becautious. In the middle of the genuine is ent or poroused the word "Capcine," and on the face cloth is the "Three Seals "trademark. Ask for Benson's—then examine. One Benson is worth a dozen of any other kind. A QUESTION ABOUT

Brown's Iron Bitters ANSWERED.

The question has probably been asked thou sands of times. "How can Brown's from Butters care everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does eare any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe IRON. Physicians recognize from as the best restorative agent known is the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more than the profession of the hows concussed in portant factor in successful nedical practice. all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly.
When taken by men the first symptom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscles then become rapid and marked. The cyes begin at once to
