THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

COOPER MAKES A FRANTIC APPEAL TO THE IRON MASTERS.

ing Issue For the Election of a Governor, The " Leading Industries" to be Bled For Money to Elect J. A. B.

The following circular has been sent by Chairman Cooper to the iron masters and other manufacturers of the state : HEADQUARTERS REP. STATE COMMITTEE, I CONTINENTAL HOTEL, ROOMS 6 AND 7, IST PLACE &

Риплаверния, Јшу 23, 1886. Dictated. My DEAR SIR :- It will be observed from the enclosed that the Republicans of Pennsyl-vania have taken advanced ground relative to protection, and, as instructed, the stat committee will make this the leading issue. The Democracy have made four efforts since 18.74 to force a dangerous reduction o the tartif, and failed because of a practically solid Republican opposition, and the loss sustained by workingmen, manufacturers and farmers from these attempts to establish their free trade policy has been alarmingly great. The most telling retuke that can be given, and the best security against the dan-ger of such free traders, is in the election of a lepublican Congress. The state committee will labor earnestly to Secure the return of a Republican protectionist to the United States Senate, and a gain of as many Republicans to Congress from Pennsylvania, as possible—an effort common to all the protective states. In this we hope to entist your cordial cooperation, and invite any suggestions relative to the compaign that may occur to you as an interested and practical business man. If the leading industries of the state aid us in all practical ways during this campaign, the protective issue will be safely solved and good results will be issued.

Very truly yours, Thos. V. Cooper, Chairman,

BLACK ON THE STATE CAMPAIGN. The Lieutenant Governor Sure That the Dem-

Harrisburg Dispatch to the Times.

" You will find the Democratic party," said Lieutenant Governor Black to an interviewer, united on all state issues, and I beg you to observe that it is a state canvass upon which we are entering. The convention will be harmonious, because there will be no differences of opinion upon principles about which to divide. There will be the usual open contest for nomination, because, unlike the Republicans, with us the people ment beforehand is hardly possible, but when they are made the nominations will represent the prevailing sentiment of the party, duly ascertained, and they will be sustained by every Democrat in the state."

"Do you think there is a wide-spread belief in the party that it will be victorious the state this year. You will find this per-vading moderate Republicans, only less extensively than it does the Democracy."

"What will be the issue upon which the party will conduct its campaign '

"Ask that question of any Democrat and he will give you the same answer that any and every other Democrat gives—Democratic doctrines do not change with the change of the wind. The convention will no doubt declare, with no lack of seasonable emphasis, in favor of state regulation of carrying companies, in favor of redressing the many just grievances of the manual industries and in nequivocal condemnation of sumptuary laws. I presume it will take these positions because they are Democratic and the party never took any other ground, or supported men who did.

"What about the nominees?"
"The nominees? Why, they must necessarily be men who represent those principles, otherwise they would not command the Democratic vote." You believe that the party will be successful this fall, do you not ""

"Yes, I do verily believe not only in the possibility, but the very great probability of success in November. Such success would not be a merely partisan victory. It would imply only the determination of the independent voters to secure the release of labor pendent voters to secure the release of labor and business from corporate and ring mo-nopoly, to compel both legislation and ad-ministration in the interests of the produc-ing classes and to continue the blessings of honest state government which they have enjoyed since the victory of 1882."

Lieutenant Governor Black declined to discuss his presents for the Democratic nom-

Gen. James A. Beaver was a gallant soldier but the bosses have outgenerated him and at the mercy of the railroad ring, which de-ness the constitution and discriminates against the farmers, shippers and business men of the state. When the convention refused to pass the resolution enforcing the 16th and 17th articles of the constitution, he should have declined to accept the nomination for gover-nor. He never should have surrendered to the ring. Thousands of Republicans and Democrats who would have been glad to have voted for him had not the convention tied him up, will now be obliged to withhold their support. The question to be decided this fail is not whother a Republican or Democrat shall be elected, but whether the constitution

From the Uniontown News It is to be hoped that the Democratic state convention will take positive grounds on the liquor question. The submission plank of the but it is a mighty effort to straddle a most im-portant issue. When the question comes up it should be met fairly and squarely without dodging to the liquor men or winking at the Prohibitionists. Prohibition cannot prohibit any more in Pennsylvania than it did in other states where it has been tested and proved a failnas been tested and proved a lan-ure, Prohibition puts a premium on law-breaking, and it deprives the citizen of a God-given right. Prohibition aims to destroy millions of dollars' worth of property for which it refuses to pay, and, in short, Prohi-bition promises much and can give little or nothing. If the state convention, in its wis-dom, should decide to go before the people honestly and carnestly in layor of high license honestly and earnestly in layor of high license that will drive out of existence the many dens of vice and pollution that thrive under our present system, it will receive the hearty applause of the li quor men of the state as well as of all practical liquor reformers.

From the Philadelphia Times. The Democratic state convention will prob ably avail itself of the only side of the liquor national convention of the party declared its the citizens and interfere with individua liberty," and the last state convention de-clared against "sumptuary legislation" and in layor of "regulating the liquor traffic and providing against the evils resulting there-from, by a judicious and properly graded license system."

from, by a judicious and properly graded license system."

With this already defined attitude of the party on the liquor issue, it would seem logical that it will now advance with the rapid progress of public sentiment on the question, to the only practical position in harmony with its past deliverances by demanding a high license system, such as has stayed the surges of impracticable prohibition in Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and other states. It is not an issue that is likely to control the election of a governor, but it is a practical issue that is reasonably certain to assert itself in the next legislature and shape the future policy of the state on the vexed question.

on the vexed question.

The friends of the license system are unwisely slow in accepting high license as the only practicable method of resisting earnest but always ineffectual prohibition.

It seems, according to the Harrisburg cor respondence of two New York newspapers that a meeting of "leaders of the Democracy" was held in that city on Saturday to nomi nate a state ticket; and they agreed that it

Union Leader says:

The Republican convention of recent date ofters: The repudliated ticket; Quay for United States senator; a Prohibition straddle, and a shameless, cowardly dodge of the only live state issue pending, that of the enforcement of the demands of the state constitution against railroad monopolies. He who does not see in such a situation not only grounds for Democratic hope, but with proper Democratic hope, but with proper pendenters.

not see in such a situation not only grounds for Democratic hope, but with proper Demo-cratic effort, an almost certainty of Demo-cratic success, has read the most insignificant signs of the times to poor purpose. But if Democracy is to win the masses must nominate. This is indispensable. The slightest attempt at boss dictation must be instantly resented and overthrown. Those leaders or would-be leaders who have indi-vidual wrongs or suppossed wrongs to redress leaders or would-be leaders who have individual wrongs or supposed wrongs to redress must redress them elsewhere than at the Democratic convention. Leaders' jealousies and quarrels must be settled between the leaders and not brought into the councils of the party to distract them and endanger victory. There must be no toleration of candidates who are simply candidates to prevent sometody else from being. There must be no consideration for those who simply seek personal vindication or alm to shift responsibility. * * * Were every leader in the party to die to-morrow Democracy would still live and be strong. It is the party of the masses. The masses must control it. the masses. The masses must control it. The masses must nominate.

Electing Delegates in the State. The report that the Westmoreland Democratic county convention instructed its delegates to support Mr. Wallace for governor is untrue. While the resolution passed declared that he would be "an acceptable candidate." it expressly declared against instructing the delegates.

The Democratic standing committee of Cumberland county met on Saturday to elect delegates to the state convention, every member in the county, excepting three, being present. M. C. Herman, S. C. Wagner, Joseph Wolfe, Philip M. Boyer and S. M. Huston were elected delegates. A resolution was adopted indorsing Chauncey F. Black for governor and instructing the delegates to you and use all benerable means to secure vote and use all honorable means to secure his nomination. The meeting was harmonious and enthusiastic.

The Brooklyn correspondent of the Sporting Life says: In the early part of the Louisville game McTamany, Brooklyn's able centre fielder, sprained his ankle in trying to reach the home plate, and the accident seemed to demoralize the team. The lujury is a serious one, and it may be some time before McTamany will be able to play. His loss will prove a great drawback to the team.

AN EARLY MORNING FIRE. The Double-Story Brick Dweiling 430 and 43:

About half past two o'clock Sunday morn-ing, Charley Lee, when on the road home, discovered fire in a shed in the rear of the double two-story brick dwelling house Nos. and endeavored to extinguish the Hames but they gained too rapidly on him and he then ounded an alarm from box 62, to which engine companies Nos. 1 and 2 responded.

they arrived and in addition there was great trouble in getting a supply of water and the consequence was the fire had gained so much distance from the frame back buildings of the houses. In it were stored articles belonging to Matthias Steinwandel, the owner of the burnt property. The flames spread to the frame back building and then to the brick house. No. 430 was occupied by John Book, whitewasher, and No. 432 by Harry Broom, a carpenter by occupation. These families were awakened as soon as the fire was discovered, and they lost no time in getting their furniture out of the houses. It was removed to the houses of neighbors who also gave the owners a temporary shelter.

There was an insurance of $800 on the building in the Home Mutual insurance company.

Through somebody's neglect the plugs in the neighborhood of the fire were not opened for a long time, and when they were opened for service at the fire it took some time for the mud to be forced out, all of which was vaiable time lost. At best the supply of water s limited in that part of the city, there being out a six-inch water main in that street. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendary, as fire was not used for some time in the building in which it orginated. Atthough happening at an hour when the streets were almost deserted, the alarm at-tracted a large number of people. The ruins were visited yesterday by a large number of citizens.

SUICIDE OF GENERAL VAN ALEN. One of Newport's Most Prominent and Wealthy Citizens Dead.

Yew York Dispatch to the Times

General James H. Van Alen, who left Eu ope a few days ago for his home in Newport, s dead. He committed suicide. General Van Alen was one of the best known men of Newport. He left that resort four weeks ago in apparent good health for a prolonged stay in Europe. It was but a few prolonged stay in Europe. It was because months ago that he returned from Europe with his grandchildren. The dead man was a great favorite with the business portion of the Newport community, he being a plain, every-day sort of a being a plain, every-day sort of a man, who went there to reside a few years ago. He cared but little for society, although te had plenty of money and social influence

He purchased a large portion of the real estate at Ochre Point owned by the heirs of the late William Beach Lawrence and erected he had been superintending the erection of a palatial granite villa for his son 3. J. Van Alen, a son-in-law of William Astor, of New York. His son had been abroad for some time, but returned about two months ag and rented the Breeze cottage, the father in the meantime returning to Europe. The villa of General Van Alen is occupied this villa of General Van Alen is occupied this season by E. D. Stokes, of New York, who pays $4,000 rent.

The general never showed any signs of mental derangement and all his friends are unable to account for the rash deed. He was passionately fond of his grandchildren and was more than a father to them. They seemed to be under his personal charge, he as well as his son being widowers. The son's wife died in Newport a few years ago and it will be remembered that Astor was never reconciled to the marriage of his daughter to young Van Alen, who, by the way, is a young man of unimpeachable character and with millions at his back. He is very popular in society and was noticed on the polo grounds Saturday afternoon in company with Miss Bancroit, granddaughter of Banwith Miss Bancrott, granddaughter of Ban-croft, the eminent historian. He drove into the polo grounds with his four-in-hand, little realizing at the time what terrible news was in store for him. He came to New York to meet the steamer Umbria, on which his father was returning very unexpectedly. He knew that he was ill, but never dreamed that it was anything serious. The death will cast shadow

LOST HIS KIGHT FOOT.

The Accident That Happened to a Ten-Year Old Boy. Charles Kiehl, aged 10 years, met with an accident on Saturday eyening, by which he will be a cripple for life. He lives with his erville and left his home a few minutes after o'clock to go to the tower for the evening paper. He was standing on the north track of the Pennsylvania railroad near the tower, and noticing an east bound freight train ap preaching he stepped to the south track, but did not observe a west bound freight train approaching. The engine of this train struck him and he was thrown to the track. The wheels passed over the right foot and ankle. As soon as possible the train was stopped and young Kiehl was removed to his home. Dr. George R. Welchans, the railroad company's George R. Welchans, the railroad company's surgeon, was summoned and soon arrived at the scene of the accident. He administered to the boy and upon the arrival of the family physicians, Drs. S. T. and M. L. Davis, they took charge of the boy. When reaction set in late in the night they amputated the boy's leg above the ankle. The operation was successful, and there is every indication of the boy recovering from his injury.

On Sunday morning about 9 o'clock as Daniel Myer, residing on the farm of Gray-Mechanicsburg, was driving with his wife and daughter on the New Holland turnpike, near Milton Weidler's tavern, his horse took fright and commenced kicking. After breakfright and commenced kicking. After oreasing in the dashboard of the carriage the horse ran off. Mr. Myer was thrown from the wagon and the wheels passed over him.
Mrs. Myer and her daughter remained in the carriage and Mrs. Myer taking hold of one of the lines pulled the horse to one side of the road where he fell, and before he could regain his feet, she and her daughter jumped from the carriage. The horse as soon as he regained his feet, started on down the pike, running as far as Bareville, where he was captured in front of Reidenbach's tav-ern. Mr. Myer was not very badly hurt, and his wife and daughter escaped injury, though they were greatly scared. Neither the horse nor carriage were much hurt.

The fifteen-year-old daughter of Peter Wag ner, living in Arch alley, met with a a serious accident on Saturday. She was going on an errand to Poplar street, and in passing a house on which slaters were at work, was struck on the head by a piece of slate. A gash several inches in length was cut in the head. She was taken to Wormley's drug store, where the wounds were dressed.

A BOY SHOOTS HIMSELF. seriously Hurt While Exploding Cartridge

With An Axe, On Sunday afternoon about half-past three clock, near the Midway hotel, on the New Holland pike, two boys-Walter, son of Jacob Morrow, aged 8 years, and Abie, son of Abraham Buckwalter, about the same agewere amusing themselves by exploding 22calibre cartridges by laying them on a stone and tapping them with an axe. At one of these explosions the ball from the cartridge these explosions the ball from the cartridge struck young Morrow in the right side of the abdomen, and penetrated the body in the direc-tion of the hip. Dr. C. Weidler, of Mechan-icsville, was sent for, and probed for the ball without finding it. The doctor does not think the wound a necessarily dangerous one, though this will be more fully developed in a few days.

The secident will have a tendency to make people more careful in bandling these dan-gerous cartridges. The older boys who have guns or pistols are in the habit of carrying the carridges in their pockets and sometimes give them to the small boys, who, thinking them harmless when outside of a gun-barrel explode them by any means that come handy. In this case the Morrow boy says he found the cartridge in the barnyard at his home, where some one had carelessly dropped it.

A CRANK SEERING LOGAN. He Wanted the Senator to Turn an Electric

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.- Yesterday afternoon a well-dressed, gentlemanly-ap-pearing man was found prowling around Gen. Logan's house. He refused to believe the servant's statement that the general was absent from home, and finally becoming very much excited, drew a revolver and threatened to kill some one. He was arrested and taken to the station house where his language showed him to be a man of education, although evidently insane. He gave his name as Charles Edward Harris, a native of West-chester county, New York. He gravely ig. formed the police officials that the Bell Telephone company had magnetized him in some way and that he was completely at their mercy. He had written Gen. Logan, he said, invoking that gentleman's aid in freeing him from his persecutors. The letter had not been answered and he had come to Washington to see about it. He will be detained at the station until his

CHICAGO, July 26.—The wife of Cy Janes, the well-known gambler, was robbed in a very daring manner last evening. She and her husband, accompanied by several other persons, were coming from supper, Mrs. Janes walking a few feet ahead of the rest of the party with a Mrs. Ackerman. As they were passing an alley near the Leland hotel a man, who looked like a negro but who is believed to have had his face blacked, suddenly seized Mrs. Janes from behind. As she turned the man caught her finger as though to tear from blow, nearly knocking her down and tore from her the hand satchel carried on her arm. Having secured this, the thiel darted down the alley pursued by Mr. Janes, who followed him as far as Van Buren street, when the thief escaped in the darkness. The satchel contained a gold watch and chain worth $478, and a number of pieces of ewelry and about $6,000 worth of diamonds, besides keys and numerous other articles. The deed was done so quickly that people on the street near by were not aware of what had occurred until they saw Mr. Janes chas-
