CAWLEY TRIES TO CRAWL OUT.

A MIDSUMMER SENSATION AT THE LANUASTER COUNTY J 411.

atal Young Man Who Shot His Sweetheart Gets Tired Behind the Prison Bar And Plans an Escape Over the Garden Wall.

After a full of many months the officers of the Lancaster county prison were startled yesterday towards evening, when it was discovered that one of the convicts was missing. The attempt to escape was unsuccessful, however, and to day the convict. Loring V. Cawley, is undergoing punishment for his bold effort to gain his liberty.

Cawley is only about 20 years of age, and was arrested and sentenced in December 1884, for an assault with intent to kill Mamie Benson, in Centre Square. It will be remembered that he followed the girl from her work and when she was crossing the Square, in early evening, he shot her, ran some disance and then attempted to kill himself. When the case was called for trial he plead guilty and was sentenced to undergo an imprisonment of two years and six months in the county prison. With the commutation off he would have been released in January.

Lately Cawley has been employed in the warp room of the prison with four other convicts. He was at work in that room at 3 o'clock, and that is the latest he was seen. At 4:45 when Officer Miller, the corridor man, put the prisoners; in the cell, Cawley was among the missing. Keeper Burkholder was at once notified and he ordered a thorough search to be made for the missing convict. All the officers engaged in the search, and for a time not the slightest clue was obtained. Finally Cawley's coat was found on the roof of the carpet department close to a skylight. After all other places had been thoroughly searched, a small passageway between the arch of the main corridor and the roof was gone through by Watchman Eaby. In this passage way, about the centre of the building, conchest behind a chimney Cawley was found. He was at once compelled to get out from his hiding place and to go to his cell. Cawley was waiting until dark to make his escape, which he could readily have done. From where he had secreted himself he could have gone to the water tank, from there to the wall and let himself down on the outside of the

BEADY FOR BUSINESS.

After Cawley was taken down stairs he was searched, and on his person were eight keys of various sizes, a small spirit lamp, a padlock and a match safe. It is wore three shirts, two pairs of pantaloons and two pairs of stockings. The passageway was very close and hot, and when Cawley was discovered he was almost suffocated. He said he could have stood it until dark, when he expected to get away.

get away. He evidently intended to let himself from the roof of the prison to the outside and to do so he had secreted two balls of carpet chain. This chain was fastened to two hooks, which he evidently made in the prison. It is sup-posed he bent the hooks during the tempor-ary absence item the warp room some time ago, on which occasion fire was required in the room.

Under his regular prison suit was a citizen's suit, which beyond a doubt was furnished by outside parties. In his cell were found lot ters received from outside parties, which did not reach him through regular channels. He claims that the letters came to him through the hands of Rev. Swenk, the moral instructor, and that he sent letters to his friends through the same channel. AN EPISTLE TO BURRHOLDER.

In his cell was also directed a letter to Prison-keeper Burkholder, in which he stated that he intended to escape, because his

There was a meeting of the Gladstone ministry at Lord Granville's house in the eve-ning. It was purely informal, but it was de-cided to assist Lord Salisbury in obtaining supplies. The Liberal ministers have de cided not to shape their factics until the Queen's speech has been read in Parliament. The Duke of Argyll declines to take office. Mr. Chamberlain, through Lord Hartington, has promised Lord Salisbury a qualified has promised Lord Salisbury a qualified support. Lord Ashbourne has been entrusted with the work of dratting a scheme for the reform of Irish administration. A private committee, including Lord Hartington, Mr. oschen, Sir Henry James and Mr. Chamberlain will co-operate with Lord Ashbourne. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Lord Randolph Churchill and Lord Salisbury are preparing a local government bill for Ireland. Sir Michael Hicks Beach accepted the post of chief secretary for Ireland with reluctance and under pressure from Lord Salisbury, who held that the Irish office during the coming session would be the most importan after that of the premier. Lord Randolph rtant Churchill's set regard the appointment as the Sheiving of Beach and as a triumph for the younger militant Conservatives. Both the Liberal and Conservative clubs question the vision of the appointments. The Parnellites are incensed at the selection of Heach for the chief secretaryship as they recall his recent speech in favor of coercion.

Lospon, July 29.-The appointment of the Hon, Fred'k Arthur Stanley, as secretary for India, has been confirmed. The Right Hon. Henry Cecil Ratkes will probably be appointed home secretary.

Mr. Biair gave notice that at the first oportunity he would call up the vetoed pen sion bills according their order on the calendar. The Senate at 11:30 proceeded to the consideration of the House joint resolution to spply the surplus of the treasury to the payment of the public debt.

Mr. Allison opened the debate. He spoke of the importance of the subject and how i opened up the whole financial question of the government, but hoped that at this late stage of the session the discussion would be closely confined to the distinct points involved.

Managers of the modified surplus resoluion say that its passage by a small majority of the Senate is very certain, but that a large number of Democrats can be secured on a motion to lay it on the table until next ses sion, and that the debate may show the adisability of this action.

The House passed a bill appropriating $00,-00 for the erection of a public building at Jefferson, Texas, and immediately went into committee on the whole upon the Senate amendments to the general deficiency bill,

THREE STATE CONVENTIONS.

Ohio Prohibitionists, New Hampshire Repub lienns and Vermont Greenbackers.

CANTON, Ohio, July 29.-Seven hundred delegates assembled in the state Prohibition convention this morning. Prof. J. W. Sharp, of Mansfield, was made permanent chairman, and Charles Faicott, of Ashtabula, secretary. Chairman Sharp delivered a red - hot and ringing Prohibition address. The platform of the con-vention will be reported late this afternoon. A special committee framed the Dow law clause, which will be thoroughly carified, except the local option section. The liquor traffic generally will be denounced : civil service approved and a reduction of the alaries of the county officials suggested. Woman's suffrage will not be mentioned, big breach existing on the latter topic. Representative Smith, of Morrow county, (of Sunday closing bill fame) will be nominated for secretary of state. CONCORD, N. H., July 20 .- The Republican state committee held a largely attended meeting last evening and called the various conventions. Ex-Secretary Chandler urged the nomination of strong candidates and advocated having the party take a position in favor of prohibition as well as taking advanced ground on the labor question.

At half-past ten the remains were borne out of the Worth ouse to Trinity chapel close by. Fully 4,000 people were assembled in the vicinity of the chapel.

The pall-bearers were as follows: Mayor Trace, Secretary William C. Whitney, E. Ellery Anderson, Judges Allen, Truax and Andrews, District Attorney Martine, Police Justice Power, Richard A. Cunningham, lilbert M. Spier, jr., Surveyer Beattle and Allan Campbell. The church was crowded to overflowing with personal and political friends. At the conclusion of the services at the church the coffin was placed in the hearse and followed by the pall-bearers, members of the family, and representatives from the various delegations, was borne to the Grand Central depot, where a special train conveyed the party to Woodlawn. The body was buried with Masonic ceremonies.

He was a bachelor, and his father, nother, and sister survive him. He was born in Boston on December 14, 1848. His mother was an Ogden. His father, Cephas G. Thompson, was an artist. He had one brother, Edward, and a sister, Cora, both older than himself. The brother was a captain in the army, and died five years ago. Mr. Thompson has since supported his brother's four children. When he was five years old his father took him to Rome, and they were there six years. The son met Julian Hawthorne there, and they were friends there-after. On returning from Italy the family set-tled in New York. Young Thompson went to the old Twentieth street school, taught a the time by Prof. David B. Scott. He was graduated in 1863. FORT WORTH, Tex., July 29.—Reports re-ceived from all over Northern Texas show that the Cutting case is the absorbing topic of con-versation. Texans are itching for war. Local military companies are drilling in nearly overy town in the state and the war feeling in universal.

Yesterday a telegram was received from El Paso, which afterwards proved to be a canard, stating that Cutting had been taken from jail and shot. The report spread like wildfire. Knots of men colle discuss the situation. Some of the best citiens acted like wild men, and were ready to start for the front at once. This warlike feel-ing throughout the state can be only accounted for by the fact that Texas merchants who have any dealings with Mexico, have been invariably mailreated and besten in their transactions. There are many Mexi-cans in Texas, but all of them are of the lowest class, and are looked upon as worse than negroes, DETROIT, Mich., July 29 .- Two new cases f smallpox have been reported to the board of health, both of small children. There are several cases of smallpox quarantined in the city, and the health department fears a serious epidemic as soon as the weather becomes cool. Their fears are increased by the fact that there have been a large number of expos ures from each one of the cases. The gravity of the situation is not lessened by a very an mated quarrel in the board of health which has resulted in the resignation of the health officers, and the absence of any pest house which can be used to isolate cases.

The testimony taken then showed that he was a very bad boy, but the court at the solicitation of parties interested held him under ball to keep the peace. He did keep the peace for the length of time required by the bond, but shortly afterwards he tried to kill Miss Henson. Mr. Gar-land has returned the bill with a report that is apparently a "straddle," It is said that the attorney general has decided that the bill is constitutional, but he recommends that the president consider carefully the expediency of allowing the measure to become alaw. He draws attention to a discrimination against sed to sumptuary laws and to the theory government upon which they rest. It has believed in free appetite as in free trade. It has denied the right of the state to determine what the individual should eat or what he what the individual should eat or what he should drink or to impose restrictions upon the traitle which should enter into the sup-ply of his wants. A condemnation of all sumptuary laws involves a rejection of every measure for the regulation or limitation of the liquor traitle. It means the same degrees of freedom in that trade as in every other legitimate trade. We should be glad so see the Democratic party uniting with the Re-publican party in favor of the submission of a prohibitory amendment; but as it denies the right of prohibition and opposes any such restriction, it can not be expected to consent that it should be submitted to the test of a popular vote. or allowing the measure to sectimize an entropy of a lowing the measure to a discrimination against one industry in favor of another, and so em-phatically points out the danger which he insists lurks in the measure that a veto is apparently the only course left for Mr. Cleve-land.

Years of experience with the work of the New York legislature on this question have equipped him for the handling of this matter without any advice from outsiders. I think that he will yeto the bill. The threats from New York dairymen will have no effect upon him, and he will not hesitate when he has once made up his mind." popular vote. The rigorous application of the same prin-ciple would compel it to declare against high license or any license at all. It would be a great public advantage if the Democratic party would recognize the growing sentiment in favor of high license and would openly take position in favor of such a measure. Many of its representatives have done so. Several of its leading organs of opinion are urging the coming convention to make such a declaration. The Republican convention would have made a more complete expression as once made up his mind."

dectaration. The Republican convention would have made a more complete expression if it had coupled the trial of high license with the submission of prohibition, and its omission leaves the only ground which the Democratic party can take in the direction of temperance. We hope that it will occupy this ground. It would be a wholesome and gratifying sign if both parties were constrained to bow to the rising sentiment which demands sateguards against the evils of intemperance. Parts Dispatch to the London Times, The painted windows in the Scotch Church, Rue Bayard, have been maliciously de-stroyed. About 60 pieces of iron an inch square were thrown against the glass in the night with such force that some were found near the pulpit, at the other end of the church, night with such force that such while the shattered glass was scattered over the gallery, the seats, and the floor. The windows cost about 6500, and were given by Americans in memory of friends who had died in Parns. In the deed of sale last year the American Episcopalians reserved the option of removing the windows and replac-ing them with others—a right which has now become valueless. The Rev. Patrick Beaton, of No, 12 Rue de Presbourg, writes me: "There is no reasons to believe that the Scotch are unpopular in Paris. It is probable that the miscreants guilty of this sacrilegions out-rage knew nothing and cared nothing as to the owners of the church. A BLOODY PRIZE FIGHT IN KENTUCKY

The Weish Giant and a Fittsburger Have a Mill and the Latter Brutally Punished, CINCINNATI July 20.-About thirteen miles back of Covington, in the Old Com-monwealth, occurred last night one of the most vicious and brutal prize fights that have been witnessed in this locality in years. The principals were Pat Leary, from Car diff, Wales, who has been in this country but three months, and Joe Ridge, of Pittsburg. The latter was brought to this city but a few days since for the sole purpose of meeting

Leary. Time was called for the first round at minutes to 11 o'clock. The men stepped into the centre of the ring and shook hands and then went at it, hammer and tongs. Vicious and hard blows were dealt by both men, and for three minutes they fought how ill he was. fiercely in their small quarters. The round closed without any decided advantage gained by either. Leary was bleeding slightly at the nose.

In the second round both mon began with hard tighting, Leary seeming to get the worst of it. Toward the close he struck jury by to-morrow evening.
