Tilden and His Contemporaries.
It was a mournful coincidence that those two great statesmen of the Revolutionary and formative period of our institutions, Thomas Jefferson and John Adams, died on the same day; and that the semi-centennial of the Declaration, which they had done so much to have adopted and ratified, Clay and Webster died within a few months, and Calhoun scarcely two years earlier.

Mr. Tilden was the least robust and most popular of all these distinguished men. He believed in the force of an idea; and he was a student and scholar. Possessed of large means, he was able to promulgate his thoughts very effectively; and his peculiar mode of expressing the literary faculty in politics was the notable characteristic that will distinguish his public career when it comes to be more fully studied.

His life. Besides his acute intellectual faculties, his study of fundamental principles and historical causes, Mr. Tilden's career was distinguished by untiring industry. His physical breakdown, at an earlier period in life than happens even to most public men, was owing to his laborious work in former years, without recreation; and when his work is summed up it will be found to have extended over fully half of our governmental existence.

Council for Councils. Select council has very unreservedly refused to grant to the police department the additional sergeant asked for day duty at the station house. It was an entirely reasonable measure and Mr. Borger, who took the responsibility of casting the deciding vote against it, ought to justify his action if he can.

The Mexican Problem. Congress will make a great mistake if it adjourns without passing resolutions on the Mexican question. The question is not one of a particular case but of principle; can we permit foreign powers to try American citizens for offenses committed upon American soil?

In Base Ball Circles. The games of ball in the League yesterday were: At Philadelphia: St. Louis, 4; Philadelphia, 3; at Washington: Chicago, 10; Washington, 4; at Boston: Boston, 1; Detroit, 1; at New York: New York, 1; Kansas City, 4.

What Will He Do About It? Gen. James A. Beaver, the Republican candidate for governor, is placed in a very unenviable position by the unanswered exposure of the Philadelphia Times that he is violating the law of the Commonwealth.

According to that law it is made a misdemeanor for any person, firm or corporation, to issue for the payment of labor any order or other paper whatsoever, unless the same purports to be redeemable for its face value in lawful money of the United States, bearing interest at legal rate, made payable to employer or bearer and redeemable, within a period of thirty days.

Gen. Beaver is off in California; but Chairman Cooper, who has his conscience in charge and the key to the padlock of his lips, and the Philadelphia Press, his organ, which pretends to print the news, are always with us.

Mr. Tilden's Legacy. The conference committees of the two houses on the fortifications bill have agreed to disagree, and to report to the Senate and House that they find it impossible to frame a bill that will meet the approval of both.

GENERAL BOTLANDER was reported to the French war office several years ago to be a good officer, active, valiant, intelligent, but badly brought up. This is both a truthful exhibit of the hero of the recent startling duel and of the polite character of the French people.

Honest Tom Hannagan's Find. Thomas Hannagan, this morning found a parcel of money. The owner can have it by calling at the INTELLIGENCER office and proving property.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourton, Ind., says: "Both myself and with one or two of my friends, we have been engaged for some time in a study of the life of the late Rev. H. R. Cochrane, D.D., of Lancaster, Pa."

Excitement in Texas. Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Coffey, who was so helpless that he could not get up, and who had been everybody said was dying of consumption.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION. The professors in our various agricultural and industrial colleges recently held a conference at Purdue University, Indiana, at which the important problems in technical education were discussed.

But the young men are not alone in their aversion to the study of agriculture. The feeling seems to be shared by their parents. Farmers send their sons to the land grant colleges, but they have been rejected for the course that omits agriculture.

CHARLES WOLFE said last evening he was confident the Prohibition vote in the state would not be less than 50,000, and he thought it would be 75,000 in final result. He said he would be glad to see the Prohibition cause succeed.

A Creaking Hinge. Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and unimpaired by rheumatism, the disease afflicts without causing the most excruciating pains.

Rheumatism, after being troubled with it for years. In this chronic disease, which is not cured by any other means, I have found relief in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
