COLUMBIA, Aug. 7.—When the employes of the three reling mills of Columbia went set on a strike for an advancement in their regular to a strike for an advancement in their regular to correspond with the prices paid in the Patiedelphia mills, the heaters employed in the fullshing department of the Columbia reling mill, did not go out. These men were in sympathy with the strikers, but they would not leave their furneces until they had worked out the customary notice. It is a rule in rolling mills when an employe quits work for one week's notice to be given to the management. The heaters had given this notice to the managers of the Columbia rolling mills and had intended to work until to-day, but they did not finish the work of the week. The heaters were waited on by a committee, who requested the men to stop work at once. This request has been complied with.

Martin, his hired man, to whom the horse belonged. hired man, to whom the horse belonged. With Officer Barnhold they drove to McGovernville where they identified the team. The buggy and harness were owned by Mr. Garber. When the thieves stole the team they drove it through a large field of growing corn, and when it was recovered some pieces of corn were found clinging to the running gears of the vehicle. The team was abandoned at McGovernville about 2 o'clock on Thursday morning. It is believed that the persons who had it became frightened at the approach of another team, when they stopped at the toll-gate, and fied leaving the stolen property behind.

Narrow Escape from Death,

A young man named George Dorwart, driver of one of the Reading railroad freight ns, had a narrow escape from death yesterday. He loaded six cases of tobacco at the warehouse of Skiles & Frey and in crossing the gutter at the corner of Orange street and Marion alley was joited from the wagon. He fell under the wheels and one of them passed over his legs. Strange to relate no bones were broken, but Mr. Dorwart is very over to the way or a total way and can be street way. sore to-day and can scarcely move. This is the same point where young Kissinger met his death some years ago, under exactly similar circumstances. With a heavy wagon and a ton of tobacco on the wagon it is a mystery how he escaped with so slight in-julies.

Secured a Canadian Patent.

Through W. R. Gerhart, patent solicitor, Christian Bruckart, of Salungs, this county, who had a patent issued to him a short time since for his improved animal trap, has also en granted a Canadian patent for the same device, bearing date July 30th, 1885, and numbered 24,602. The trap is particularly effective by reason of the great strength of the jaws which grasp the animal, and of the spring which operates them, and because it can be set equally well in either a vertical or horizontal position, and operated by pre-ing or pulling on the bait plate.

AN ADROIT LARCENT. A Careless Market Man Loses Thirty Dollers in

An Artistic Manner. This morning an adroit thief stole a pocket-book containing about $30 from Mr. Abraham Strickler, an attendant at the Northern market. The market was nearly over, and Mr. Strickler counted out the money from the drawer in his market stand and placed it in his money purse, laying the purse upon the stand instead of placing it in his pocket. Mr. Strickler turned his head for a moment to attend to some other matters and when he came to look for his purse it was gone. An adroit thief had taken it. There is no cline to

An Important Ejectment Sait, J. Hay Brown, attorney for Frederick F Heise, to day entered an ejectment suit in the court of common pleas against Alexander M. Wilson. The property for which suit is brought is a lot of ground on North Third street, between Chestinut and Walnut, in the borough of Columbia. Piantifi claims to have an interest in this and many other properties in Columbia that originally belonged to the Helse estate, and the above suit is entered to have his rights tested.

Owing to the threatening weather of the morning and the rain intervals all day the picnic of the employes of the great steel and orks of Steelton, booked for park to-day, was not as large iron works as had been anticipated. Neverthless about twenty carloads of people, more than a thousand in all, came down the Lebanon Valley railroad and to the park this morning. Despite the rain they have been having a good time, boating, swinging, tunching, and anneading in all the amounts of this engaging in all the amusements of this popular resort.
