Theries W. Fricker was put on trial for subersiement. According to the common-resith's testimony Fricker became an agent for J. O. Hacker, a manufacturer of cigars at Ephrats. He was furnished a full line of mappies and while acting as agent for Hacker be disposed of 51,600 cigars, for which he should have received $727.50, less the com-mission of $5 per case. Fricker sent to Hacker $117 and never accounted for the balance, making an embezziement of $610. Mr. Hacker went over Fricker's route and learned that he had disposed of the cigars at $650 and $10 per thousand, being about one-half the price he should have received for hem. Several witnesses from Birdsboro and Noristowa testified to buying cigars from brickers at the shove prices and paying him or them.

At the conclusion of the commonwealth's at the conclusion of the commonwealth's settimony counsel for defense raised the question of want of jurisdiction, claiming that the transaction between Hacker and Frieser took place in Reading, the goods de-livered and soid in Berks county, conse-quently if there was an embezzlement if was in Berks and not in this county. MORE RECKLESS BLASTING.

A Stone Crashes Through the Roof

Pennsylvania Depot. The men who have the contract for blast ing out the rock on the spot where the new hotel is to be built, near the Pennsylvania railroad, seem to care little for the lives of people. The papers of this city have often alled attention to the fact that the blasting at this place was too heavy and too carelessly done. The roofs of a great many houses in the neighborhood have been broken by stones failing upon them, and a num-ber of people have escaped from be-ing struck by large stones only by a few inches. Many persons have visited the contractor and asked him to be more careful, but instead of complying with their careful, but instead of complying with their wishes he appears to make the blasting heavier. The police have also notified him, but no attention whatever is paid to them. A few days ago a gentleman was waiking out East Chestnut street on his way home. While on the pavement at the stone wall just opposite the new hotei site, a blast was put off. A stone was hurled toward Chestnut street and it struck the man's hat, knocking it off his head, but he escared without any it off his head, but he escaped without any it off his head, but he escaped without any injury. On Wednesday the blasting was again very heavy. About four o'clock a heavy charge was sent ofl, and a stone larger than a peck measure was carried over the hotel of Fred. Waliz. It struck the roof of the railroad passenger station, through which it crusbed, failing on the floor in front of the restaurant and making a hole in the roof almost as large as a wheelbarrow. Smaller stones were thrown all around the neighborhood and other roofs were damaged while many per-sons made narrow escapes. At the time of the blasting there were several hacks standing on the Chestnut street side of the station. The horse of Edward McGeehan frightened and ran into an express wagon: the hack was upset and an express wagon; the back was upset and badly broken, while the express wagon was generally damaged. Had the shot been fired two hours earlier when the station was filled with passengers, as it always is early in the afternoon, nothing have prevented a terrible ccident.

This morning Mayor Morton called on Mr. Kendig, who is doing the biasting for the new building. He told him that there was a great deal of complaint from citizens about the careless manner in which they were blowing the rock, and folks were afraid of blowing the rock, and folks were afraid of injury to themselves as well as their proper-ties. Mr. Kendig said that the cause of yes-terday's stone throwing was owing to the pe-culiar kind of rock, which is soft in some places and hard in others. He promised to be more careful in the tuture, and said that they had but a few more blasts to make. The mayor warned him against making any more blasts like that of yesterday.

legular Correspondence of INTELLIGENCER COLUMBIA, Aug. 13 .- It will be remem bered by the readers of the INTELLIGENCER that Dr. Alexander M. Craig met with an ac cident at the mouth of the Columbia bridge, about one month ago, which laid him up about one week. This morning the doctor was the victim of a similar experience, and his escape was even more wonderful than at the time mentioned. Accompanied by his oldest son, Dr. Craig was driving along North Front street. Approaching from the direction of Walnut street was a team of Jesse Wolfe, in charge of a son of Mr. Wolfe. The horse took fright at a passing engine and ran down Front street at a furtious pace. The street at this point, between the railroad tracks and the pavement, is about twelve feet wide, and there is a heavy grade leading to the tracks. In this narrow space Dr. Craig made an effort to turn out. Seeing a collision was inevitable, both he and his son jumped and landed without injuries. A moment later and the big dray collided with the light phaeton, knocking the front wheel off, break-ing the shafts and overturning both carriage and horse. The shock was terrific. The runaway passed the wreek and was finally caught on Locust street. The victim of the accident is cortainly gaining a wide experi-ence in the runaway line and if he continues in the same ratio the Lancaster County Medi-cal association may expect a clinic with runaway teams as a theme. He is Amazed at the Charge That He is an Embernier

The sensational story started by two of our contemporaries on Tuesday that Oliver Leed, a young man who had hitherto borne a good character, had skipped for the West, taking with him the funds of some secret societies of which he is treasurer, is a good deal spoiled by the return of the supposed runaway. Mr. Leed's friends give the following information

Leed a friends give the following information as to his whereabouts: James H. Swain, liveryman, says Mr. Leed called at his place Wednesday after-noon and hired a team to go to a wedding; and for the first time he learned that he was charged in the newspapers with being a de-faulter and absconder. Mr. Swain says that Leed has frequently hired teams from him and paid for them. On last Sunday he called and paid for them. On last Sunday he called at the livery to pay a balance of $6 that he owed. Mr. Swain was not present, but Harry Biack, who was in charge of the livery, says that he told him he was going West for a few days on business, but would be back on or before Wednesday to attend a wedding. He mentioned the names of the parties, but Mr. Black does not re-member them. Having been absent a few hours Leed returned the team in good order. When he hired the team to go to the New Complaint Against Rote On the 10th of August the store of J. L Weitzel, at Wrightsville, was broken into by thieves and robbed of a large quantity of goods. Among the articles found in posses sion of Peter Rote, one of Jake Ruzzard's gang, were some rings, a mouth organ, and pasteboard box, which Mr. Weitzel identifies as having been stolen from his store. Alder-man Spurrier has also some other articles found at Conestoga Centre, near where Rote, Buzzard and Gerlitzki were seen. Complaint was made against Rote for this robbery, but it will be a long time before the York authorities will get an opportunity of trying him. The cases against him in this county will send him up for a long term of years.
