LANGASTER CITY'S VOIERS.

A Large Number of Names On the List Who The registration of voters in the city of ter, as appears from the books filed in the commissioners' office, is very large; in fact there are at least one thousand more names on the list than there are voters. They are distributed among the wards as follows:

All the county books have not been filed and the total number of voters in the boroughs and townships cannot be published until next week.

That the above number of voters in the city is not correct is evident to everybody. The estimate of population of a city is five persons to each voter. This registration would indicate a population of 37,725, which is at least 7,000 more than a census would show.

The Quarrel With the Republicans Relates to the Present, Not the Past.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 4 -- General Near Dow said to a reporter yesterday that Mr. Blaine, in his Dover speech as in every other delivered by him during the pre-ent campaign, misses entirely the points made by Prohibitionists whose quarrel with the Re-publicans is not as to the latter s doings in the oast but as to what they refuse to do now. For the past 24 years no progress has been made in extinguishing the liquor traffic in Maine. Republican officials ignore the law and Republican legislatures refuse to make it effective. The keepers of Portland's hundred groggeries, although often up before Republican judges, are permitted to escape unharmed and without impediment to a continued vio-lation of the law. The ground of quarrel is missed not only by Mr. Blaine, but also by all other Republican orators. Honors to Gen. and Mrs. Logan. CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 4.—(11 A. M.)—At 10:30 o'clock this morning while the sun was shining brightly and the sky was cast with flying light blue and white clouds, a terrific spout of small blue and gray water hardened stones fell. These crushed through the sky lights of the News an Courier job printing rooms, frightening the compositors and sending them scamping out into the streets. A great crowd collected, and the stones, which average from a haif to an inch thick, and which were mostly in failing, were picked up, some of them by the United Press reporter.

This new turn in the earthquake fright gives renewed vigor to the excitement.

When We Demoralize the Stomach

By excesses or Imprudence in eating, we can not hope to escape the consequences for any great length of time. The most robust digestion must succurab to abuses of that important function. But supposing that we have been foolish enough to enterble the stomach, is the damage irreparable? By no means. The dyapeptic has only to do two things to insura his ultimate recovery. First, he should adopt an easily digestible diet. Fecond, he should no with regularity and persistence Hostetter's stomach bitters, the leading gastric lavigorant of the age. The multiform symptoms of dya pepsia, and the almost invariably attendant disorders, billousness and constipation, will assuredly nease to posseque the sufferer if the history advice is attinded to. Who that has suftered the torments that chronic indigestion inflicts will neglect to take advantage of a remedy which, if the most positive evisence of the medical profession and the public is to be resolved with due credence, is an absolute specific for the complaint. When We Demoralize the Stomach
