THE GRAND ARMY PARADE. MORN THAN ONR THOUSAND MEN IN

LINE OF MARUN.

It Was a Raw and Chilly Day. But It Could No Dampen the Enthusiasin of the Veterans, The City Generally Decorated -Details of the Big Parade This Morning.

This is a big day for the veterans of the late war in the city and vicinity. The Grand Army posts of this county are holding their first annual reunion here and the town is crowded with soldiers and their friends. As early as Tuesday afternoon Lancaster be gan to put en a holiday appearance, and to-day the decorations are prettier and more ex-tensive than they have been for many years. tensive than they have been for many years. On every hand the national colors can be seen, and the business places as well as many private houses present brilliant ap-pearances. At several points on the route of parade large flags hang suspended across the streets, while hundreds float from the different buildings. They bear the inscrip-tions "Welcome, Comrades," "Welcome Veterans," & The display of bunting, ever-greens, Grand Army badges, du, is very great. The weather to-day has not been of the sort to encourage the soldiers. Early this morning the clouds began to gather, and at times there were slight aprinklings of rain. times there were slight sprinklings of rain. The air is raw and chilly. It does not seem times there were slight sprinklings of rain. The air is raw and chilly. It does not seem to have any effect upon the crowd, however, as the streets have been thronged since early this morning. People have been pouring into the city by rail and vehicle, and all seem anxious to honor the herces of the late war. A heavy rain is all that would drive the crowds from the streets, and luckily that did not over. not occur.

The railroad trains running into the city The railroad trains running into the city to-day have all had special cars which were packed with blue-coated friends and visitors who were coming to the city to see the dis-play. All morning Posts, accompanied by bands of music, were seen moving about the city. The members of the two posts in this city were untiring in their efforts to see that their visitors were received and entertained their visitors were received and entertained properly. The posts were met at the different railroad stations by local committe emen, who es. North orted them to their proper places. North as posts were standing at different points along it firsts few squares for several hours. Col. Ten o'clock was announced as the hour for the parade to move, but there was delay in the arrival of some of the posts and it was halt an hour beyond that time when Bugler Potts gave the signal for the start. The posts formed in East Walnut street with the right resting on North Duke street and moved in the following order :

Col. Edward McGovern, chief marshal, Mounted aids-Dr. S. T. Davis, of Post Si; Adam Wiseman, of 226; R. B. Long, of 500; William Schwan, of 353; D. M. Moore, of 405; B. F. Smith, Major C. H. Fasnacht, A. Kullinger, George Huttoagle, John Miller and John Crawford. The Litits Post was late in reaching town, owing to a wreck on the Reading railroad, and they did not join the parade until it was almost half over. There was pictury of music of all qualities in town to day, and so many bands have not been seen in this city for some time. For some unknown reason the Liberty band of this city was not in line. The INTELLIGENCER was charmingly sere-

He thought that Mr. Par-nell in his speech had proved his case in re-gard to the fail in prices of Irish farm pro-ducts. He contended that the bill provided better machinery and a better method of answering the government's own question as to the necessity of relieving the Irish ten-ment of any royal commission. He believed

He believed that the landlords of Ireland, and not for that the landlords of Ireland, and not for the first time in their history, were making a serious mistake in allowing the bill to be rejected. (Irish cheers.) He regretted that Mr. Matthews in his first speech had not offered hopes of con-ciliation. It was generally admitted that there had been a heavy tall in prices since judicial rents were fixed. If the proposed deposit of 50 per cent, was too small the government could propose to raise the amount in committee, (Cheers.) Writer's Cramp. From Science, Writer's cramp is an affection which, until a very recent date, has been looked upon as in most cases incurable. Fortunately, however, for those who suffer from this disease means are now known to exist not only for its amelioration, but for its permanent cure, The difficulty is one which is not, as its name implies, confined to writers, It may occur implies, confined to writers. It may occur in any individual whose occupation brings into constant play one set of muscles. The method of treatment which has been found most successful consists in the application of gymnastics, combined with massage, to the affected muscles. The rubbing, and sometimes a gentle striking of the muscles with a monote har, together with regular move ments of the ingers or other defective part are continued for several weeks, during which time not more than one hour daily is Which time not more than one nour daily is devoted to these exercises. During ive years, Wolff, who has given special attention to this affection, has treated 277 patients. Of this number, 245 were writers; 32 were planists, yiolinists, telegraphers, and painters. 157 were cured, 22 improved, and 98 not cured.

neans exactly what he says. Strikingly Democratic and Forcible, from the Baltimore Sun.

The letter of acceptance of Lieutenant-Governor Chauncey F. Black, the Demo-cratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, is a strikingly Democratic and forcible exposition of the legislative and administra tive needs of the Keystone state at the pres sent time. Pennsylvania is a corporation-ridden, wealthy monopolists flourishing on every hand, while the artisan, the farmer and the laborer are plucked and impover-ished. The issues presented by Mr. Black are three in number-the passage by the legislature of laws to entorce articles 16 and 17 of the state constitution, the purpose of which is to secure to the people their equal and lawful rights upon the railroads of the state; the reform of existing legislation with a view to the removal of invidious discrimi-nations against laboring people; and, finally, the regulation of the liquor traffic by such laws as will protect the community from its ent time. Pennsylvania is a corporation the regulation of the liquor trathe by such laws as will protect the community from its abuses, without confiscating property by sumptuary provisions that "vex the citizen and interfere with individual liberty." On all these points Mr. Black is perfectly clear and explicit, so that friends and opponents can be perfectly aware what they are voting for when they support his candidature. Interesting and Incentions.

Interesting and Ingenious. From the Altoona Tribune, Rep Chauncey F. Black, the Democratic nominee for governor, is a trained journalist, and it was to be expected that his letter of accept-ance would be an interesting and an ingenious document. And so it is.
