THE LATE BISHOP SHANAHAN.

ARRANGING FOR AN IMPORING FO NERAL ON WEDNESDAY.

The Event Announced in the Lancaster Catho He Churches-Action of the Societies Attached to That Creed—The Distinguished Prelates to Attend the Observates.

In the three Catholic churches of the city the death of Rt. Rev. J. F. Shanaban, bishop of the diocese of Harrisburg. At St. Mary' St. Joseph's and St. Anthony's, the altars and pillars were draped in mourning and the sad event was announced at all the services. Prayers were offered for the repose of his oul, and it was stated that his funeral would take place in Harrisburg from the Pro-Cathedral at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning Invitations were extended to the local Cathe lic societies to attend.

Rev. Dr. McCullagh, of St. Mary's an-nounced the mournful coincidence that on the very day of Bishop Shanahan's death he had made arrangements to go to Lancaster to view the femovated and beautified St. Mary's. A requiem mass for the deceased was cole-brated at St. Mary's this morning at 8 o'clock and was largely attended.

Rev. Father Grotineyer, of St. Joseph's church, expected the bishop to be present at the dedication exercises of his church next Sunday. He announced that the dedication would not be interfered with by the death and that Very Rev. M. J. McBride, who has been appointed administrator of the diocese until a successor is appointed by the pope, will officiate at the ceremonies.

Among the numerous telegrams effering condolence was one received from Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, who will attend the funeral on Wednesday. Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, will sing O'Hara, of Scranton, Ph., will deliver the eulogy. Among the bishops to be present are Mullen, of Erie: Phetan, of Pittsburg: Gilmour, of Cleveland: Ryan, of Buffalo McQuade, of Rochester: Loughlin, of Brook Lyand Archbishop Corrigan, of New York. Previous to the mass the office for the dead will be said, and the remains will be deposited in a vault in the pro-cathedral yard. All the churches in the diocese over which the dead bishop presided will be draped for thirty days and the Cathelic schools will be s until after the funeral.

The body of the bishop is lying in one o the rooms at Sylvan Heights, facing the west His brother, Father John Shanahan, of Phil-adelphia, his sister and his niece, Miss Sulli-van, are at that place. The remains will lie in state in St. Patrick's Pro-Cathedral from 7 o'clock till 11 p. m. on Tuesday and on Wednesday morning from 6 till 2 o'clock.

At St. Stephen's Episcopa, church Harris-burg, Sunday evening, Rev. Dr. Keeling, the rector, took as his text the words: "He being dead yet speaketh." Dr. Keeling delivered a feeling address on the death of Bishop specially on Sunday afternoon to take act on the death of Bishop Shanaban. A com nittee of three was appointed to draft resolu None of respect, and they presented the fol-lowing, which were unanimously adopted : It is with profound regret that St. Michael's society has heard of the death in the prime of manhood, of Right Rev. Jere-miah F. Shanahan, bishop of the diocese of Harrisburg.

2. That we extend our sympathy and condolence to his relatives in their affliction.

3. That in Bishop Shanahan's death the Catholic church has lost one of its foremost advocates, the commonwealth of Pennsyl-

1. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Father McBride, the administrator of the diocese, and that they be entered on the diocese, and that they be entered on the minutes of the society.

5. That a committee of fifteen be appointed to attend the funeral as the representatives of St. Michael's Catholic Beneficial society.

The following were named as the committee to attend the funeral: Wm. J. Wid myer, Augustus Steinwandel, William Frees Edward Parker, H. L. Martin, Thos. F. McElligott, George Rohr, John Fritsch, Charles Nutto, John A. Coyle, John Hinkle, Fred Judith, George Fritsch, Leonard Gans and A. J. Klein.

The Knights of St. John also took appro-priate action on the death of the bishop and named the following as a committee to represent that organization at the funeral : Fr E. Shroad, Philip Windle, Hugh McGeehan, Charles Donnelly, H. L. Martin, Martin Dil lich, Joseph Diehl, John A. Bradel, John B. Bissinger, James J. Gillen, Jacob Fetter, John McGeehan, William Guerrinne, F. W. Rehm, Florence Rehm, Charles Zech, John A. Coyle, Thomas F. McElligott, F. A. Reiker, L. J. Wolbert, Augustus Steinwan-del, Valentine Scheid, Leo Houser, Anselin Kirchner, Joseph Wacker, and John Spang-

These committees will leave for Harrisburg on the newspaper train on Wednesday Officer Barnhold returned to Lancaste from Canton, Ohio, Sunday morning on Fast Line with John Rosenfeld, the young man who was arrested on charges of embezzlewho was arrested on charges of emberzie-ment and false pretense preferred against him in this city. The officer arrived in Canton at four o'clock on Saturday morning and re mained there until four in the afternoon when he left for the East with his prisoner. While in Canton Rosenfeld stopped at the Americus hotel a part of the time. He was registered there as J. R. Randali. He gave people to understand that he was buying horses, but he is not known to have made any purchases. During his stay in Canton he was married to a young lady of very good family in that city, whose acquaintance he had probably made on former visits.

Upon his arrival here Rosenfeld gave bail in the sum of $ 00 before Alderman Barr and MANUELS, Sept. 27 .- The old White Oak Reformed congregation renewed her youth during the past two days in the celebration of the looth anniversary of her founding. This congregation is one of the very oldest of the Reformed congregations in America. Though venerable with age, the church was youthful by reason of the efforts of the young spirit of the congregation which manifested itself in the decorations prominent every where. On either side of the pulpit, wreath of box-wood hung upon the wall with scriptural passages within them; on the front of the pulpit a similar wreath bore the inscrip-tion "Welcome," while the galleries also were adorned with wreaths. A profusion of flowers upon the altar and pulpit filled the room with fragrance.

On Saturday afternoon the pastor, Rev. D. C. Tobias, preached in the German language. In the evening Rev. D. W. Gerhard, of New Holland, preached to a large congregation. Sunday morning the church was filled with an attentive congregation. The devotional services were conducted by the pastor and Rev. Theo. G. Apple, D. D., president of Franklin and Marshall college, in English, and Rev. D. W. Gerhard in German. At 2 p. m. a missionary service was held. Despite the m. a missionary service was held. DR. SHUMAKER'S LAST SERMONS.

to His Congregation Dr. J. B. Shumaker preached his last ser nons as pastor of St. Paul's Reformed church, Sunday, and had large congregaions both morning and evening. His text in the morning was from the 139th psalm, 7th 8th 9th and 10th verses. In the evening the text was from the 17th chapter of Luke, and 33 verses. At the close of his sermon Dr Shumaker made a brief address, in which he spoke of the lively interest he had felt in the prosperty of St. Paul's church during the thirteen years he had been its pastor. He admonished the members to crush out any animosities that might exist among them, and to work heartily together with one sirand one purpose in furthering the work that the Lord had given them to do. The doctor said he would ever remember with the live-liest affection and gratitude the kindness and Christian support that had been extended him by the officers and members of St. Paul's during his pastorate.

At the close of the services nearly the entire congregation gathered around Dr. Shumaker, and many of them hade him good-bye. On Wednesday afternoon next at 2 o'cloc there will be a special meeting of Lancaster classis in St. Paul's church to formally dis-solve his pastoral relations with St. Paul's, and to dismiss him to the Trappe church, to which he recently accepted a cail. FELL UNDER THE CARS.

Talk With the Irish Leader, Novelist and Rule in Ireland.

Mr. Justin McCarthy, the great Irish poli-tical leader, novelist, and historian, arrived Saturday afternoon in the White Star steamer Britannic and went to the Hoffman house in New York where he will remain for several

Touching Irish affairs he spoke quite freely. He was not surprised, he said, at the deteat of the Gladstone home rule measure, but looked upon the large vote it got as a rather surprising evidence of English good will toward the home rule movement. The Irish people, he said, were far from being discouraged at the result, but were all the more hopeful. For his own part he thought that the achievement of home rule for Ireland was only a question of time, and a very short time at that. Two years, he thought, would bring it about. There was much interest in Iroland to know what Chamberlain would do, but whatever he might do Mr. McCarthy was sure what Chamberiam would do, but whatever he might do Mr. McCarthy was sure there would be no general Irish disturbance, There might be individual outbreaks, but he feared no serious trouble. Though the crops were bad and the condition of the coun-tre execution but fearers in a lateral way. try everything but favorable, he believed that the people fully understood what they had accomplished, that they knew that home rule was almost within their grasp, and that they had unbounded confidence in Parnell. As to Chamberlain himself, Mr. McCarthy spoke guardedly, yet not wholly favorable, and he believed that Hartington had not carried as many with him as has been thought, and that the number of the secsesionists would fall away when it was found that Lord Salisbury had not the places for them which many of them had conceived that he had.

Mr. Mathew Arnold's statement that it was a good reason for refusing home rule to fre land because so many Irishmen wanted it Mr. Carthy smiled at, He said that Mr. Ar and careful critic of literary work, but his opinions on political subjects were not seriously regarded in Great Britsin. As to the statement that American manifestations of sympathy with the cause of Ireland had pro-duced a bad effect, Mr. McCarthy said that the reverse was the case; that American sympathy had been very valuable, and that while it was known that it was the Irish Americans who had contributed chiefly in a financial way to the parliamentary fund, yet it was well known that the Americans themselves lend their moral support through the press and otherwise, to the same object, and that this had been of great value. Mr. O'Donovan Rossa, Mr. McCarthy said, was not regarded as a very formidable character on the other side of the water, and the Parliament House explosions were not attributed to him, but rather to home talent.

Mr. McCarthy does not believe that there will be any repetitions of these explosions, and certainly hopes there will not, as such acts of violence would be disastrous, he

As to the suggested suppression of the National League, he does not believe that could ever take place, as it would be sure and he has not the remotest belief in the reported statement that I rish members of Parliament will be expelled. Such a step could work no good to the opposition, and would only result in a more speedy precipitation of the issues now pending. As to an organized attempt on the part of the Irish people to avoid paying their rent, Mr. McCarthy did not believe that any such event would occur. The people, he said, understood the situation and what they had at stake too fully to embark in any such enterprise as that on to embark in any such enterprise as that of an organized basis, no matter what individ-uals might do. The suggestion in the queen's speech that a commission be appointed to in-vestigate the tenure and purchase of land in Ireland, Mr. McCarthy said, was only another way of the Tories to gain time and procrasti-nate in the consideration of the Irish ques-tion. As to his own recent defeat in Derry, Mr. McCarthy said that the case would come

Mr. McCarthy said that the case would come up for hearing in October before Mr. Justice O'Brien, who was an enemy of home rule, having been defeated by a friend of Parnell in his contest in Ennis.

Mr. McCarthy expects to remain in this country until February, and will deliver lectures during his stay in most of the large cities. The majority of these lectures will be on purely literary subjects, though the first one on the evening of October I at the Academy of Music in New York will be on "The Cause of Ireland," and this lecture will be repeated in several other cities. While he is there he will remain at the Hoffman house. A banquet will be tendered him by the Parnell fund committee and by the Lotus club nell fund committee and by the Lotus club before he leaves. Mr. McCarthy was born in Cork, Nov. 22.

1830, and was for seven years, from 1846 to 1853, connected with the Cork Examiner and was afterwards an editorial writer on the Northern Times, at Liverpool. In 1860 he was a reporter in the House of Commons for the London Morning Star, of which he was subsequently foreign editor, and in 1864 chief editor. In 1866 he came to this country, and lived for the better part of three years in New York, returning to London in 1871. Besides taking an active part in politics, he has been a most industrious writer both of fiction and of history, and his recent services in Parliament in behalf of Ireland have placed him in the front rank of those who, with Mr. Parnell, have led the gallant fight, now pend-ing for Irish independence and self-govern-ment.

READ OUT OF THE PARTY.

PETERS. GOODMAN OUSTED PROM THE COUNTY CHAIRMANSHIP.

The Cause of This Decision Was His Stening a Call For a New State Convention. Black Scores His Old Associate, Heartily Endorsing Wolfe. A special meeting of the county committee of the Prohibition party was held in G. A. R. hall this morning, the object being to consider the troubles that have grown out of the recent call for a state convention to repudiate the nomination of Chas. S. Wolfe as the Prohibition candidate for governor. P. S. Goodman, chairman of the county ommittee, called the meeting to order and Rev. Nicodemus of Robrerstown, offered prayer.

Mr. Goodman stated the object of the meet-

Mr. Goodman stated the object of the meet-ing. He said it had been called by members of the committee, and he would not dispute the legality of the call. As he had been called to account for his action in calling a state convention it would be indelicate for him to occupy the chair at this session, he asked that Joseph H. Brosius take the chair, which was agreed to.

which was agreed to.

The call for the meeting was read.

Mr. Black said he sent a note to Mr. Goodman asking whether he was a party to the call for the proposed state convention.

"Mr. Goodman answered, "yes, I am party to the call, can't leave the shop to-day; will see you to morrow." After some conversation and explanation between Mr. Goodman and Mr. Black, the latter offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the act of the chairman of this committee, Mr. Peter S. Goodman, in signing a call for a state convention to meet in Harrisburg, Sept. 30 inst., for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for governor in opposition to Hon. Chas. S.
Wolfe, the candidate of the Prohibition party of Pennsylvania, is disorganizing and mischievous and incompatible with the faithful discharge of the duties entrusted to him at latter offered the following resolution:

discharge of the duties entrusted to him as hairman of this committee, and we request his resignation.

Mr. Goodman took the floor and made personal explanation of the matters which led to the call for the state convention. A main object for his action was because he thought Mr. Wolfe's action relative to Mr. Patton was unfair and unjust. Mr. Good man ended his explanation by denouncing as untrue the inuendo made in certain quarters that he had been bribed by the Republican party; he said he would vote for all the can-didates except Mr. Wolfe.

Mr. Black called Mr. Goodman's attention to the fact that he had not said whether he would or would not resign his position as chairman of the county committee Mr. Goodman said he would resign as soon as the good of the party required it.

It was suggested that as Mr. Goodman had resigned, it was not necessary to press the adoption of Mr. Black's resolution. Mr. Lefevre, of Strasburg, said that loyalty to the prohibition cause of the state required that decided action should be taken by this committee in denunciation of Mr. Goodman's Mr. Black's resolution was read again, and

Mr. Black offered the following resolu

Resolved, That the conduct of P. S. Goodman, member of the state committee of the Prohibition party of Pennsylvania for Lan-caster county, in signing a call for a state ecovention to nominate a candidate in opposition to the nominee of the Prohibition party is incompatible and distoyal to the duties he assumed in becoming a member of the state committee, and we hereby rescind Mr. Goodman's appointment to the state committee and declare the same rescinded.

Mr. Black made a long speech, recounting the troubles recently thrown into the ranks of the Prohibition party by Mr. Goodman and his friends. Mr. Black's speech was a most vigorous one, and he lashed Goodman and his friends most mercilessly, and was applauded again and again.

Mr. Goodman took the floor and made a defense of his course, which was received in si lence.

Mr. S. R. Grabill made a long speech in which he tried to make it appear that Goodman and Prof. Patton had from the first been hostile to Mr. Wolfe, and that their object was to crush him: but they had overreached themselves and committed political suicide. He compared them to Haman, who having of Goodman, Patton and their coadjutors poured oil upon the troubled waters by advis ing conciliation, charity and good will towards them. He believed they had re-pented of their error and that they were true 'rohibitionists.

Mr. Lefevre urged stringent action. He would have thought more of the repentance of Goodman and Patton if it had been made before their revolt had proved a miserable failure. He read a note from Mr. Black to Mr. Patton, in which Mr. Black asks him if he had signed the call for the state conven-tion. Mr. Patton answered that he had not signed the call, but was in hearty sympathy

After some further discussion Mr. Black's resolution rescinding Mr. Goodman's posi-tion on the state committee was passed unan-

THE PENNSYLVANIA CANVASS Gen. Heaver's Speech in Pittsburg - Dem crats Quietly at Work.

Harrisburg Dispatch to N. Y. Sun.
The active campaign of the Republican party for governor was opened in Pittsburg Saturday night, Gen. Beaver and Gen Logan having been the speakers. It is ex Logan having been the speakers. It is expected that from this time until the election both sides will be active. The Republicans profess to be confident of success, but the fact that they are resorting to every expedient disproves their claim. They have appealed to Blaine to make at least three speeches and have been importuning Senators Frye, of Maine; Harrison, of Indiana; Sherman, of Omo; Hawley, of Connecticut, and Allison, of Iowa to come and help them. Blaine has consented, but the others have not yet given any promises.

Beaver's speech excited nothing but ridicule. A Republican state senator, who listened to it and who arrived here this evening, said it was a flat failure and that he listened to it and who arrived nere this eve-ning, said it was a flat failure and that he ought not to be permitted to appear on the stump again. He read his speech from manu-script. It is presumable that this was in obedience to the order of Quay and Cooper These managers have very little confidence in Beaver's discretion, and it is believed that they limited him to certain thoughts and they limited arm to certain thoughts and made him submit his manuscript to them before delivering it. The candidate seemed to realize the humiliating attitude it placed him in, for he apologized in a bungling way to the audience for the departure from his

In imitation of Gov. Black's letter of accept ance Gen. Beaver in the outset divided the issues of the pending state contest into classes under distinct heads. The first of these, the general said, and, of course, in his mind, the most important, is that this is a nation. Upon this point he argued laboriously and long. There has been no dispute raised on this sub-ject, and there would be no way to settle it by the election of a governor. But Beaver was probably instructed to discuss points on which there were no disputes, and he which there were no disputes, and he thrashed away on the notion with great zeal and energy.

No Democratic meetings have been held yet, but there is a great deal of quiet but effective work being done. Reports from all parts of the state present the outlook in a most favorable light. The head of the State Grange Patrons of Husbandry was in this city last night. He had just returned from a tour of the subordinate granges. He say there is a remarkable strong movement fa yorable to the election of Black among the farmers. It is not confined to any particular farmers. It is not confined to any particular locality, but is uniform throughout the state. It is attributed to the position of the Democratic candidates, on the question of the enforcement of the neglected articles of the constitution. The discriminations by railroads affect the agricultural interests most seriously. One-half the entire population of the state are engaged in agriculture, and it has been determined among them to search has been determined among them to asser hemselves this year. Democratic Enthusiasm.

From the Philadelphia Times.

The enthusiasm which prevails in the Dem cratic ranks throughout the state is indicate by the increased number of visitors at the committee head quarters. The most cheering recent occurrence was the call of Senato Wallace's son, who had a long conference with Chairman Hensel. He was authorized to with Chairman Hensel. He was authorized to say that the ex-senator would reach Clearneid on his return from Colorado within a few days and would be then at the service of the committee. It is Mr. Wallace's intention to take an active part in the campaign. He will begin by speaking in the Academy of Music, in this city, on October 9. What other points he may favor with his cloquence will be arranged after he reaches Philadelphia. The fact that the exsenator will take a hand is regarded as a most senator will take a hand is regarded as a mos encouraging sign of the united work which the leaders of the party propose to put in for the ticket. Representative Scott, of Erie, has not yet been heard from on the subject, bu his own race for Congress will strengthen the ticket in the northwestern counties.

Ex-Representative Mutchier also called and had a talk with the chairman. Mr. Mutchier had charge of Mr. Wallace's inter-ests before the convention. He will also take a prominent part in the campaign. There can be no cause for dissatisfaction with the ourse of the Wallace managers. There has been a joint agreement between the two state committees not to pay taxes of delinquents. Therefore all voters must pay their own taxes to entitle them to vote or local arrangements must be made. None of the committees' funds will be expended in that way. In discussing this subject it was concluded that one would about offset the other.

RICKETTS AT GETTYSBURG.

Qualled Not,

From the New Era, September 25

Just as the sun was disappearing in the red west and the soft, grav shadows of twilight were gathering like a ghostly army, the defenders of Cemetery Hill saw emerging from behind an eminence near the town a long line severe shocks. of isontry formed for assault. Onward the column moved with the precision of a parade and all the steadiness of a holiday spectacle.
The line was formed of the brigades of Hays and Hope, led by the famous Louisiana Tigers. The moment they came in sight, they faced the test of death. Slevens opened on them with every gun; Weidrick and Rick-ett's joined in the chorus. The slaughter was immediately terrible; men fell dead before the iron storm at the rate of a dozen minute. The guns of Ricketts were charged with canister, and they fired every fifteen seconds. Stevens' battery, enflading the Confederate line, wreaked furious destruc-Confederate line, wreaked furious destruc-tion upon the storming column, which, through it all, in the face of the very hell of war, kept on their upward way. As the Tigers came within musket range of the crest of Cemetery Hill, Howard's infantry, hidden behind the stone wall, poured volley after volley into the faces of the wild-hearted and maddened men. But the eyes of two armies were on the Tigers; they carried the guerdon of fame that they had never failed in a charge. They could not never failed in a charge. They could not halt now, the hour of their hardest trail. Over the stone walls they went at a bound. TAPPED FROM THE WIRES. Mrs. Parnell, now in Liverpool, is uncer-ain whether she will ever return to America.

Over the stone waits they went at a bound. Stevens was obliged to cease firing, for fear of killing friends. Wiedrick is unable to withstand the shock; his supports and his men are swept back together before the force of that human tornado. Rickett quaits not; the full strength of the storm, falling on his devoted men, falls in vain. His left piece is taken; the Tigers are within the cage. The remaining guns are still served with admirable discipline and courage, drivers and officers taking the courage, drivers and officers taking the places of the dead canoniers. A struggle takes places for the guerdon; it is in the hands of a Tiger; Lieutenant Brockway seizes a stone, hurls it at the head of the sol dier, which tells him to the ground, and in a moment the Tiger is shot with his own musket. The wildest confusion—a bedlam of terror—now ensues. The raplam of terror—now ensues. The rapidly-gathering darkness makes friends and foes indistinguishable. The men at the batteries are being overpowered by their desperate and maddened assailants, but still they clung to their guns; with hand-spikes, rammers, and stones they defended their position, shouting to one another: "Death on our own shate soil rather than give the enemy the guns!" The moment is most critical; the fate of the issue is near at hand. At this instant Carroil's brigade rushed in to the rescue; with wild shouts they burst upon the almost exhausted foe. They waver, they turn, they petreat in confusion. Rickstis! the almost exhausted foe. They waver, they turn, they retreat in confusion. Ricksts' men ily to their guns, downlosshot them, and fire deadly parting salutes at the defeated Figers. Their charge is over; they have been beaten. Nearly twelve hundred of their seventeen hundred are left dead and dying. It has been indeed a bloody half-hour's work. They pass down the hill, out into the darkness, and are seen no more in history.

Frederick Fegely, a young Reading man, committed suicide Sanday by shooting him-self through the head. He was married in June last to Mary C. Reed, who is but four-teen years of age. The girl's parents only consented to the marriage on condition that Fegely would not take his wife away until Fegely wonton not take his who away than she was 18 years of age. For some time past Fegely had been endeavoring to get the con-sent of his wife's parents to his going to housekeeping with his wife. This was re-fused on Saturday and it led to the suicide.

CHICAGO DRESSED BEEF.

THE PLEURO-PREUMONIA AGITATION WILL NOT HERT IT.

o Says Phil Armour, the Big Chicago Packer, The Heeves For the Chicago Supply Purchased From Other States and Not Tainted.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—When the proposition was made by a Chicago firm of butchers to kill the cattle being fed at the distilleries where pieuro-pneumonia exists, they agree ing to put on the market only the carcasses o such as were not diseased, was made public, there was a great cry from the butchers and stock yards men that such action would practically ruin Chicago dress ed beef trade abroad, their argument being that the facts would be distorted until it would be generally believed that the health authorities of Illinois had sanctioned the sale of animals which had died of disease. Mr. Phil Armour on the point in question said to Linited Press reporter this morning: "I slightest degree. Our demand for canned goods is supplied by cattle from other states all around which are brought in and slaughered fresh every day. I do not think it will affect the European trade. Speaking for my own trade I feel confident that this little matter cannot reach us; everybody knows how our business is done and how our supplies of

MORPHINE AND LAUDANUM.

the Silent Majority on Sunday,

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.-Two well-known citizens of this city died yesterday, and it is supposed they committed suicide. R. H. McCann, president of the McCann & Sherwood Insurance company, has been in poor health for some time and had been in the habit of taking laudanum to induce sieep. Friday he took a large dose of the drug and was unconscious so long that his wife sent for a doctor, who soon brought Mr. McCann to. Yesterday he took about an ounce of laudanum, sank into a stupor shortly after-ward, and never recovered. It is declared that he had for some time been brooding over financial troubles.

The other case was that of Lawrence J. J. Nissen, an attorney, who had been a resident for over io years. He was found in his office yesterday forenoon stretched on a lounge, near which was a bottle labelled "morphine." Deceased had an extensive practice. The members of his family refuse o say anything about the affair.

WRISKY DEALERS OBJECT. They Do Not Want the Indians of the Northwest Placed Upon Reservations,

St. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 27. — Messrs. Wright and Larrabee, of the Indian commission, which has been arranging treaties with the Indians of the Northwest, are in the city for a few days. They report a most determined effort on the part of the men interested in the sale of whisky to Indians to prejudice them against the commission. The theory is that so long as the Indians can be kept outside of reservations and open to the advances of the whites they can be led to part with the money they make by the sale of rice and blueberri for whisky. At White Oak Point the Indians were found n a most demoralized condition, and so en tirely robbed of the means of subsistence that they would eat the bodies of horage had died of disease. The men were see ingly lost to moral sense, and the wome were made articles of merchandise.
