Prederic Bryton This Evening.—This evening Frederick Bryton will appear in the opera house in his play "Forgiven," which has made such a great hit everywhere. Mr. Bryton is described as a remarkably handsome man, as well as an actor of very great power. His part in the piece, John Diamond, was written especially for im, and in all that he does he is finished and artistic. "Forgiven" is a romantic drama in bur acis and abounds in thrilling situations.

TANGLED LIVES!

"Relentless fale that tangles up the lives of men and unkes the inuceant suffer with the guilty "-Act IV.

A play of strong human interest, illustrating society and bohemian life in New York. The man idea of the plot is new to our stage, and deals with the marriage law of New York and other states. The moral is pare and upholds the church ceremony of marriage. The story is mensely interesting. The afractions are strong and natural. A good vein of comedy relieves the emotional scenes and dramatic climaxes. A play of this epech. Its teachings will benefit every man and woman of the nineteenth century. ADMISSION - D.
