LANCASTER. OCTOBER 7. 1886

An Offensive Nomination.

W. B. Roberts, who is better known under the designation of the "torpedo" candidate, has been fixed upon as the Republican nominee for Congress in the Twenty-sixth district. This result has not been reached through the action of the Republicans of Crawford, Butler and Mercer counties which make up the district. These know the man so well that his candidacy for Congress only provoked ridicule. But Roberts has a great deal of money, and this enabled him to cause a deadlock in the district, which the Republican state committee has just decided in his favor.

long disregarded.

This Roberts is the same man who was repudiated by the Republican state convention for the place of congressman-atlarge. The offensiveness with which the fact that he was the possessor of "boodle" was thrust upon the convention was too much for even its strong stomach, and the ambitious oil millionaire found himself slaughtered in the house of his friends.

All know that Roberts' nomination for Congress was obtained in return for a big campaign subscription. After that is se cured the state committee will bother little about him. The Democrats and independent voters of the district have a good man for whom to cast their votes, in Norman Hall, an old Lancaster man. It is safe to predict that Roberts' money will not suffice to elect him to the place that his ambition covets. For this is a year when the laboring man is going to do some very intelligent voting.

Nuts For County Commissioners. The convention of county commissioners of the state, now in session in Harrisburg. have outlined enough work to keep them going the balance of the year. They want to revise the present inequitable system of taxation that all admit prevails in their counties. They desire to get at some mode cting the enormous increase in manty expenditures. They are anxious to find out the best action to take on the question of dismissed cases before aldermen and justices of the peace. They want to know how to get away from the abuses of the law that pays assessors of election districts by the day. They ask for information as to whether they are justified in employing additional counsel when in their judgment the district attorney is not able to prosecute the case, the last question having been brought up by some commissioners remarking that the people in their counties were in the habit of electing just such lawyers to the position of district attorney whom no one else would employ.

All these are important questions and Governor Pattison suggested another timely reform when he advised that a uniform method of keeping books be adopted throughout all the commissioners' offices of the state. To take wise action upon these projected reforms will require time and deliberation.

It is a matter of note that in the three committees named, those on revision of tax laws, general legislation and uniformity of practice under existing laws, Lancaster county is unrepresented; and yet Lancaster county is third in the state in population and first in the United States in agricultural resources.

The Color Line at Richmond.

If the Knights of Labor in Richmond would devote less time to theatres and more to labor matters there would be no trouble over the color line. The people of Richmond, in common with a vast number of their countrymen, do not approve of the social mingling of the races and an inherited feeling that will take generations to change leads the citizens of that town to resent anything that looks like an ussertion of race equality.

No matter how wrong the customs of the people of Richmond may be in the eyes of their guests, the latter should respect them by silence; just as in Mecca they would respect the superstition of the Mohammedans, knowing that anything that they might say or do would only arouse anger. Time will settle the color question, and discussion of it North or South can only serve to arouse angry feelings and deepen prejudice.

It is a matter, for profound regret that the New York delegation of the Knights of Labor has succeeded in dragging the labor congress into an aggressive position, on a question of far less importance than any one of the many now before it. The ialistic tendencies of this New York faction and their talent for provoking disorder bode no good to the cause, and the emagogues who lead them should be promptly disciplined.

As Was Expected.

The report of the commission to make in-spection of the Philadelphia postoflice bears out the assertion that there was an organized conspiracy among the Republicans in and out of the office to embarrass the new dministration. According to the Philadelphia Times, the "inspectors were unfavorably impressed with the conduct of as of the old employes.
