LANCASTER, OCTOBER 15, 1886.

The Colored Voters Restive.

The colored people are in a fair way to discover before long that the Republican party, which boasts of its efforts to free them, is only concerned for them so long as they will consent to bind themselves in a new and much galling slavery than that of bodily bondage.

The Chamberlain's Spirit.

The Chamberlain's Spirit, the able Democratic paper of the Cumberland valley, is reminding its Republican rival, the Opinion, that four years ago the Opinion said Beaver was "guilty of the lowest among crimes."

The Failure of Wooden Ties on Railroads.

The failure of wooden ties on railroads to stand the stress of an winter, and the dreadful drain their replacement makes upon the forests of the country, have been frequently adverted to.

Col. F. D. Grant's Visit to the New York.

Col. F. D. Grant has sent to the New York Sun a check for $25,000, the amount of money the Sun had paid to H. Times & Co. for embalmment of the body of Grant.

On the other hand while the Democratic party has not posed as the especial and only friend of the negro, it has shown in many practical ways its friendship for him.

In every Southern state colored Democrats are found in the legislatures, nominated for and elected to their places by white Democrats, and treated as men by men with the consideration which their character and ability combined have deserved for them.

After many years of effort to secure recognition from the Republican party the new and vigorous Prohibition party have nominated one of the most conspicuous and eloquent colored ministers in Pennsylvania for the office of congressman-at-large.

That he will command a large vote from the colored men of the state is already certain. These men are tired of being footballs for party managers to kick about at their will and the election on the second of November promises to show that they know their real friends—the men who have demonstrated their willingness to recognize them.

Labor's Voice.

It is useless for the Republicans to attempt to deny the inimical position into which they have been logically forced relative to the labor problem. They will raise a big cloud of dust on Monday to try to make the people blind to the issues, but the scheme is too transparent to have any effect.

Pennsylvania has upon her statute books many laws enacted solely for the purpose of intimidating the wage-workers—laws that were passed there at a time when capital was in a position to tread upon oppressed labor, and what is more, by votes of Republican legislatures.

The Board of Trade Booming.

Last night's meeting of the Board of Trade proved beyond a doubt that the enterprise has grown beyond its nursing days and is fully able to walk by itself. Before long it will have assumed an aggressive front, and Lancaster will be found moving forward on the road to prosperity where its many natural advantages entitle it to free toll.

There is no reason why this city should not be as good a site for manufacturers as any in the state, and nothing but the conservative tendency of our people has permitted other towns to grasp the industrial prizes that were ours by right.

This is pre-eminently the agricultural county of the state, and for that very reason it should also be a manufacturing centre. The excellence of our markets and the small cost of living make this town a pleasant one for the poor man, while the unrivalled school system and the sociable character of the people make it equally attractive to his family.

As was suggested by a member last evening when discussing the projected silk factory, "no man who would live in Lancaster for ten years could leave it."

This question of what to do with ex-presidents has long puzzled this country, but Mexico seems to take hold of the subject most vigorously.

A special from El Paso reports that the ex-President of Mexico, Manuel Gonzalez in an interior town of Mexico, Gonzalez served as president from December 1, 1880, to December 1, 1884.

This colored woman's year proposes to exercise some discretion in his ballot.

The sulphur water from the coal mines at Lykens and several other points pours into the creek along the railroad, and has, and has never yet extended farther than the middle. This impure water is as clear as crystal while that not tainted is much less bright.

The fish occupying the part of the river where this mine water flows must either move to the other side when it comes or perish. Millions of fish have been killed by this poison, and sometimes the stream is very thickly dotted with their carcasses.

The flow of mine refuse occurs about once annually, usually in midsummer or autumn. There has always been much indignation among fishermen on account of this dumping of refuse into the stream, but there is no remedy. The supreme court has just decided that coal companies and others cannot be held answerable for mine water turned into natural channels.

The Chamberlain's Spirit, the able Democratic paper of the Cumberland valley, is reminding its Republican rival, the Opinion, that four years ago the Opinion said Beaver was "guilty of the lowest among crimes."

He is the man who has held office ever since 1868, by negro votes won by laying claim that if he was not elected the black man would be sent back into slavery.

In Pennsylvania, where the colored element has long more than supplied the average majority, no negro has ever been nominated for a state, a congressional, a senatorial or a legislative office by the Republican party. Worthy men of this race have made themselves candidates, and have pushed their claims with conspicuous ability. But not one has been nominated.

In one of the Philadelphia districts, where almost one-half of the voters are colored men, one of the ablest men in their ranks was recently defeated simply because he was black. The same experience came to a prominent colored man of Dauphin county. He was defeated for nomination in spite of the fact that the members of his race were almost unanimously for him and in spite of his ability and party service. He had a black skin, and men with black skins may vote with the Republicans and help to elect their ticket, but they are not entitled to any consideration when honors are to be distributed.

On the other hand while the Democratic party has not posed as the especial and only friend of the negro, it has shown in many practical ways its friendship for him.

In every Southern state colored Democrats are found in the legislatures, nominated for and elected to their places by white Democrats, and treated as men by men with the consideration which their character and ability combined have deserved for them.

When President Cleveland nominated Matthews, of Albany, to a conspicuous and profitable office in the District of Columbia, the Republican Senate combined to secure his rejection. They were able to do this because of their very decided majority in that body; but this did not keep Grover Cleveland from nominating him the moment Congress was out of the way.

The same president has awarded the diplomatic and consular positions in Liberia and Hayti to deserving, intelligent and ambitious colored men.

After many years of effort to secure recognition from the Republican party the new and vigorous Prohibition party have nominated one of the most conspicuous and eloquent colored ministers in Pennsylvania for the office of congressman-at-large.

That he will command a large vote from the colored men of the state is already certain. These men are tired of being footballs for party managers to kick about at their will and the election on the second of November promises to show that they know their real friends—the men who have demonstrated their willingness to recognize them.

That the Republican party will meet with very decided losses from this source may be assumed as a settled matter.

It is useless for the Republicans to attempt to deny the inimical position into which they have been logically forced relative to the labor problem. They will raise a big cloud of dust on Monday to try to make the people blind to the issues, but the scheme is too transparent to have any effect.

The Thesia, labor organ, hits the nail on the head when it says:

Pennsylvania has upon her statute books many laws enacted solely for the purpose of intimidating the wage-workers—laws that were passed there at a time when capital was in a position to tread upon oppressed labor, and what is more, by votes of Republican legislatures.

There is no reason why this city should not be as good a site for manufacturers as States circuit court, commissioner for the Ninth district, in place of Amos Stephens, of the city. The choice will be recognized as fitting and proper.

ABRAHAM S. HEWITT has consented to accept the temporary nomination for mayor of York city, subject to the confirmation of the ticket that will be made up by the nomination of Mr. Hewitt was endorsed by the County Convention. The committee of One Hundred nominated Theodore Roosevelt for mayor.

MRS. TAYLOR, the divorced wife of the Colorado ex-senator, is quietly with her son. She has developed very good business tact, and has taken such admirable care of the $50,000 which her husband left her that she is a millionaire. Her husband's other hand has been gradually going down hill. It seems to be the height of this woman's ambition to get her husband back and to be able to set him up again financially.

An Inexpressible Cat. From the Madison (Wisconsin) Democrat.

Said a son of Erin yesterday: "Your remarks on the cat remind me of a cat that I once owned. It was a very good cat, and I loved it very much. It was a very good cat, and I loved it very much. It was a very good cat, and I loved it very much."

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup should be kept in every family. A slight cough, if unchecked, often the forerunner of consumption. It is the most wonderful medicine for colds, coughs, and all the ailments of the throat.

Symptoms of Consumption. PORT ORANGE, FLORIDA, N. J., March 17, 1884.

My business is that of sharpening knives, and I am much engaged in the work. About three years ago I began to have a bad cough, with considerable indigestion and pain in my chest. My physician advised me to use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and I had a very good result. I had a very good result. I had a very good result.

When the cough is removed with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, it will be found that the lungs are in a very good state of health. It is a very good medicine for colds, coughs, and all the ailments of the throat.

Good Results in Every Case. D. A. BROADBENT, wholesale purveyor of hardware, has been afflicted with a severe cold that settled on his lungs. He had tried many remedies without benefit. He had tried many remedies without benefit. He had tried many remedies without benefit.
