In shape these garments are sil short on the tournoure, fitting snugly on the back with a beit underneath to hold them in pizce. Variety is given by the fronts, which may be long, "Guare cornered, pointed, or else quite short, yet longer than the back. The sides are most varied, being rounded smoothly over the shoulders—not full and high—and forming either wide square sleeves, close elbow sleeves, sling sleeves, doman points, or else regular coat sleeves, that are narrower than home sleeves, but are not nearly so graceful. Braided passementeries the color of the vel-vet, and in designs following the outline of the garments rather than in straight borders will be fashionable trimmings. When fringes of jet or of chemile are used, they are offen of great depth, and are separated to finish off the different parts, perhaps to droop from the sleeves, or in the back on the tournurs, and not on the sleeves, forming finally a great tassel althe end of each pointed front. spoonfal of sait and a couple of beaten eggs, a tea-spoonfal of sait and a couple of tablespoonfals of lukewarm melted butter. Set the batter in a warm place to rise. When light butter your muffin rings, turn in the mixture and bake on each side a light brown. Brown Betty—Pare and slice half a dozen or more according to their size, of the best cooking apples; grease a pudding dish, cover the bottom and sides with grated bread and a few little bits of butter. Then put in a layer of apples and sugar, repeat alternately bread, apples and sugar, repeat alternately bread, apples and sugar, repeat alternately bread, apples are cooked soft. Eat cold or warm, according to taste, with cream. Velvet Cream—Dissolve nearly half a box of gelatine in a tea cup of white wine, one pint of cream, and the juice of an orange. Sweeten the cream to taste, and when the gelatine is dissolved put unto the corange juice the cream, then pour the wine into that. The cream should be warmed before the wine and gelather. Sair it frequently until dissolve the latter. Stir it frequently until it begins to thicken, then pour it into moulds to harden.

A New Batter Pudding-Mix the yelks of three eggs smoothly with three heaped tablespoonsful of flour; thin the batter with new milk until it is the consistancy of cream; whisk the whites of the eggs saparately, stir them into the batter, and boil the pudding in a floured bag for one hour. Before it is served, after turning out of the bag, cut the top quickly in cross-bars, and pour over it a small jar of strawberry or raspberry jam, and send quickly to the table. Eat with wine sauce.
