AUTUMN WORK ON THE FARM.

What Can Now Be Done to Improve the Land and Implements.

From the Country Gentleman.

We have urged on former occasions the great advantage of drawing out and spreading manure in autumn, so that rains will carry down the enriching and soluble parts into the soil, and diffuse them more intimately than could be done with any harrowing. Some of the best farmers in the country have assured us that manure thus applied in autumn is worth at least twice as much for the succeeding corn crop as when drawn out and spread in the spring.

In order to obtain a strong, early growth of grass in spring, the pastures should not be closely grazed late in autumn. If any owner will examine his fields in spring when the grass begins to grow, he will find the new growth six inches high in fence corners, or other places where there was a good covering in autumn, while the grass is scarcely an inch high on the places where the pastures had been gnawed short. All that is gained by such close grazing is more than lost in the late and diminished pasturage in spring and it would be more economical to buy feed if necessary, than to spoil the autumn pastures in this way. For meadows, the loss is still greater if they are worked down by the grazing of animals upon them.

While a diversity of treatment must apply to the various soils of the country, and to the different crops grown, will be always in order—and which, if it does not always benefit because not needed, will never do harm. This is underdraining. Land obviously too wet in spring, will always and in all places be improved greatly by it, the increase in crops usually paying for its cost in three years. On land with sufficient natural drainage, it will of course do no harm and no good. But there is a great amount of land supposed to be dry enough naturally, that is only dry on the surface, while a little below, it is soaked with water. This is the kind that especially requires underdraining, and when too wet for the operation in spring should be done in the dryer season of autumn.

The proper care of farm machinery is always in order, at all times of the year. The cost of wagons, plows, harrows, reaper, drills, rakes as well as the smaller implements, such as hoes, spades, forks, etc., constitutes one of the heavey expenses of farming. This cost is often greatly augmented by needless exposure to the sun and rains, and by want of cleaning and oiling. Nothing wears out a machine faster than allowing dirt and sand to enter journals and other working parts; and hoes and spades are greatly reduced in value and efficiency by rusting, and by soil adhering to them. Where this care has been omitted in the busy portion of the season, the matter should now be taken in hand, the wood work thoroughly cleaned, and the metal portions rubbed bright. Those who can procure crude petroleum will find it the best kind of oil to use, as it penetrates the pores of the wood, and is an excellent preservative. Any oily substance rubbed over metallic surfaces will prevent them rusting when not in use. Convenient and ample sheds should always be provided, so that wagons, plows, and all heavy machinery may be easily driven under every night, or as soon as done with, and thoroughly cleaned at once, or on the first rainy day. Suitable hooks should be provided on the walls of the tool-house, for hanging spades, forks and hoes, and every one having its own place may be quickly found when wanted. Let it be borne in mind that rust and decay, if not guarded against, will cost more in the end than the original price of the machinery, and cause a loss of many hundred dollars in the long run and in various ways.

Early growth and early vegetables are greatly desired by all who take the trouble to plant gardens. The work next spring may be greatly forwarded by putting the ground in fine order this fall. Prepare it by making it clean and mellow, and little additional work will be needed as soon as the winter frost thaws out, if it is thoroughly drained beforehand. Plenty of manures, well mixed, will keep the soil light, and if it is clayey, a thick coat of sand will help wonderfully.

Late ripening weeds should be cleared from pastures and fence corners, and consigned to the brush heap for burning. Burdocks and wild carrots have not yet discharged all their seeds, and should be gathered and burned. Briers, suckers, and other small growth may be grubbed up and added to the brush heap. Farmers who are careful in this respect, will enjoy real satisfaction in seeing all their fields and fences smooth and clean, and clear of all defacements, and they can conduct the work of the farm to superior advantage if free from all such annoyances.

"A Word to the Wise is Sufficient."

Catarrh is not simply an inconvenience, unpleasant to the sufferer and disgusting to others—it is an advanced outpost of approaching disease or worse type. Do not neglect its warning, its brings deadly evils in its train. Before it is too late, use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It reaches the seat of the ailment, and is the only thing that will. You may dose yourself with quack medicines till it is too late—till the stream let becomes a resistless torrent. It is the matured invention of a scientific physician. "A word to the wise is sufficient." Tu,F&w

The brightest star in the medical firmament is Red Star Cough Cure.

Jas. S. Murphy, M. D., Company's Shops, N. C., writes: "I sell a great deal of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, for every one who tries it likes it."

"There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy." Of course! Why, those old duffers suffered horribly with aches and pains, and didn't and couldn't know that Salvation Oil would cure.

Miserable and sleepless nights are unknown when Dr. Hand's Colic cure soothes baby to sleep without stupefying it with opium. Price, 25 cents.

MEDICAL.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

Beware of Scrofula.

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofulous sores for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum

Is one of the most disagreeable diseases caused by impure blood. It is really cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

William Spies, Elyria, O., suffered greatly from erysipelas and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now says: "I am entirely well."

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B Stanton, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

"	Expenses of Management	12.3 Per Cent.	16.6 Per Cent.

And in order to expose the true inwardness of the Northwestern's PROGRESSIVE DIVIDENDS, we quote from the Insurance Commissioners of Pennsylvania Life Reports for the year stated:

NORTHWESTERN.

	Insurance in Force.	Premium Income.	Dividends Paid Policyholders.
1876	$ 67,438,191	$2,565,805	$825,459

1885	110,710,861	3,785,045	778,593

Comment on the above record is unnecessary.

But in order that the falling off in dividends may not be attributed to the Northwestern's TONTINE FUND, would add that this fund aggregates $63,339.25.
