LANCASTER, OCTOBER 25, 1886.

Information for Cooper,
The chairman of the Republican state committee has issued the following circular letter:

Our campaign is under splendid headway,
not only through the great sections traversed,
but also in the minds of the people.

We are pleased to know that brother Cooper thinks that his machine needs to be kept going vigorously to elect Beaver, and that he has imperative need of five thousand dollars.

We do not know with how much knowledge of people and things brother Cooper should be credited, but as an old and experienced chairman of the state committee probably he should be deemed to have at least a fair acquaintance with the men of the state;

Mr. Cooper needs sorely to be advised that politics and business are two very different things,
Mr. Cooper may have a suspicion of this from the business entanglements of his candidate for governor with the Bellefonte Iron company.

We regret to disappoint brother Cooper's hope of fifty dollars from the Penn Iron company, but we are sure that there is no chance of a movement to that end by the "wicked partners" in the majority.

Difficult Riding.
The internal revenue authorities at Washington have decided that the Bellefonte Iron company is right in claiming, to the collector of the district, that the orders which they issue for the use of their employes in their dealings with their store are "store orders" and therefore not taxable as circulating currency.

just been confirmed by our supreme court,
the probability is that the orders are lawful.
But the trouble to Beaver comes from the fact that store orders are not, in the popular estimation, admirable things, and that they are not in accord with the spirit of the law which requires that the hire of labor should be paid in money.

Recognizing this, General Beaver's managers hastened to deny that his iron company's orders were store orders;
and hence the confusion into which they are thrown by the contrary decision and by the relief which General Beaver's business company obtains from the tax upon the orders;
which they would have had to pay if they had been, as General Beaver's political company claimed, equivalent to a circulating currency.

The Under Currents of the Canvass.
As the day of the Pennsylvania election approaches, evidences of the under currents of popular sentiment in the great battle of constitutional sanity and municipal reform will be coming more clearly to the surface.

There is no doubt whatever that there is a deep-seated feeling of distrust prevailing in the minds of quiet citizens and honest men concerning legislative inactivity and corporate espionage over the enforcement of the railway clauses of the supreme law.
Thirteen years have come and gone since the stringent drafting clauses of this instrument were made solemnly part of the compact between the people and their rulers.

The means and appliances used by these demons of legal destruction are known to the wayfaring man.
This influence proceeds in an organized manner and by vigilant continuance of secret means—which never slumbers and is always alert to maintain a pre-arranged control of any coming legislature.

Practically we are no longer reform in commercial restrictions and discriminations that we were during the pre-constitutional period, and the highway of lawlessness is trod triumphant by a power that, in addition to the desecration of the law, adds organized robbery and continuous depletion of the industrial, commercial and agricultural interests of the commonwealth.

The state Presbyterian synod at Pottsville has condemned the heterodox teachings of Andover theologians on the new doctrine of "Probation after Death," championed by many of the great lights of the church.

PHILIP ALEXANDER, proprietor of the drug store, has issued a circular letter to his customers, in which he says: "I have been informed that certain unscrupulous persons have been circulating the report that the name of the proprietor of the drug store is Philip Alexander."

JULIAN HAWTHORNE has been stretching James Russell Lowell on the interview, and has published the confessions of his victim in the New York World.
The poet is so honest in his confession that he has frank avowal of personal vanity, and his island only arose to play a part of the first rank and one of the greatest living masters of prose.

fat. He asserts that the speeches delivered by the prince and those that the late Prince Leopold required so much reputation from, written for them by a well-known writer.
He has a high regard for the queen's ability and strength of character;
and of Mr. Gladstone he says that much of his power is due to the sincerity of his convictions.

PERSONAL.
EDWIN BOOTH'S recitals in St. Louis last week were a little over $1,000.
GLADSTONE was terribly stung by wasps by falling a tree at Harward on Saturday.

The Candidates Confident.
Hon. Chauncey C. Bask, Col. R. Bruce Ricketts, Maxwell Stevenson, Hon. J. Simpson Africa, William J. Brown, George H. Hoffman, of Philadelphia, William N. Neel, of Harrisburg, and Hon. H. Milton, of York, arrived at Allentown Saturday noon.

RECEPTION AT PHILADELPHIA.
On Saturday night the candidates were accorded a reception at the Young Men's Democratic association of Philadelphia.
Democratic candidates upon the postulant governor to tell those assembled what he thought of the outlook. Mr. Bask spoke as follows:

Mr. J. Bronnen, candidate for auditor general, was next introduced. He said: "My experience in going through the state leads me to believe that the republican party is scattered and disorganized. I believe with the next government of Pennsylvania Mr. Bask, the republican party ticket will be elected providing Pennsylvania does her duty."

LYONS SOAP.
A safe, all colored or highly perfumed soaps should be avoided as dangerous.
They rely upon their appearance and odor (which disguises rank materials) for their sale.
The whiteness and the odor of the Lyons Soap are natural to it, and are due to the excellence of the material used.

A WORD OF WARNING
There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Lyons," they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine.
Ask for "Lyons" Soap and insist upon getting it.
