LANCASTER, NOVEMBER P. 1886.

The Treatment of Beasts. The arrival of cold weather is always ac mied with proof most positive of the stural selfishness of men in their dealings th the brute creation. How many horses will wait for hours ablanketed for a master toasting his toes y the fireside of a friend; how many ns will sit on the limbs of trees in the open air when the mercury is down ar zero and their feet and combs are on, while their owner is enjoying a super of eggs on toast. Dogs that have given are sport in the hunting field, will shiver nd moan for many a night in the corner of a stable yard or an open kennel. Man s very slow in finding out that other animals have feelings worthy of consideration, out even from his selfish point of view it ust be evident that horses, dogs and hickens can be made more healthy and therefore more valuable by kindness.

Blankets that buckle over the breast lter and straw in winter-quarters tight and light, are the rights of horses, dogs and ns; though the latter may forego the blankets. This matter of cruelty to imals is not a trifle only worthy the atntion of cranks, but should and does claim the careful attention of every true seman and every one who knows the value of animals.

A man who draws a kemble rein so tight that the horse looks as though he had swallowed an umbrella, is not worthy of the care of a borse. In the handling of cattle there is a vast amount of unnecessary cruelty that reacts upon man in a manner that is daily becoming more plainly evident and calling for remedy. Vast herds of cattle are shipped long distances by rail, and the provisions for their comfort are so bad and they are so roughly managed that it has been shown by the American Humane association, whose ninth annual report is before us, that from six to ten per cent. of them die; many are rendered unmerchantable and the hides and meat are greatly injured. The injurious suspicions of Ameribeef in foreign countries are largely due to the barbarous method of handling the live stock.

The act of Congress providing that cattle shall be unloaded and watered, fed and rested, every twenty-eight hours, unless carried in cars where this may be done, is disregarded by many, and the miserable beasts trample and gore each other fearfully. The meat of these animals sold in Eastern markets can not be as healthly as that of cattle that have not passed this terrible ordeal.

Another piece of unwarranted cruelty is the sawing of the horns of young cattle, a very painful operation and one that is not approved by the leading cattle men, as the sposure of the mucus membrane in the rn to the cold air is very bad for the cattle. It can be readily shown that care of animals always pays in the long run, and with those who have no kindly feeling for the brute creation it may be possible to overcome selfishness by appealing to

The Flow of Gas.

The report from Pittsburg of the trouble that has come to the consumers of natural gas from the sudden failure of the usual supply, will cause the somewhat envious people of regions not favored with this natural light and fuel to exclaim: " I told you so." It has been the constant prophecy, since natural gas has been discovered and utilized so largely for fuel and light, that its benefit would be transitory since the supply would in time become exhausted. Few persons have cared to deny the probability that some time or other the natural supply of gas would be useless, but the companies that pipe it and the people who use it believe that this day will not soon come, and that before it does they will have a rich benefit from nature's gift to them. After it has gone, if it goes, they expect Providence or their ingenuity to take care of them. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof, is their sensible motto, and they freely use their gas and freely give their compassion to less lucky

If it was universally believed that the supply of natural gas was permanent or that it would even last through this generation of men, there would be nearly a universal exodus of the heavy consumers of fuel to the regions that produce it; unless the railroad companies can so reduce the cost of coal transportation as to put the Eastern ufacturer more nearly on an equality with the Western in the matter of fuel than he is just now. It is the uncertainty to the continuance of the ges supply that keeps many industries to their anchorage in other regions. The ingas consumer is shown to be subject offers a very serious objection to the fuel. What the marufacturer needs above all things is a steady supply. He cannot afford to use a cheap fuel that may fail him, and not only e op his works but ruin his product in proco s of manufacture. Natural gas, to be a nufacturer's fuel, must have steadiness

The MIR is the Coconnut. The strike of the pork packers at Chicago throws twelve thousand men out of employment, and naturally gives the police force a great deal of work to do. This usual efforts of the strikers will be employed to keep new men from taking their places, and the state troops that have been sent to the scene are no doubt needed to aid the police in their preservation of the

The packers have resolved to employ no men hereafter who belong to labor organizations. If they keep to their resolve the strike is likely to be a large one. But the public can never know how honestly such declarations are made on the part of employers. We are inclined to doubt the sincerity of this one because it declares what the employers know very well they cannot do. The packers of Chleago cannot keep their men out of labor organizations and very well know it : and when they say they are going to do it they give good cause for the suspicion that they are playing a game. They say in New York, among the speculators, that Armour, who is the chief of the packers, is doubtless making his profit out of the strike on the short side of the stock market, and quite probably incited it for the pur-The devices of this class of men to hoodwink the parties that may line their pockets are of every kind. And it is not unusual to incite labor disturbances that they may profit by them. Jay Gould is supposed to have worked the great Southwestern strike for his profit, and the Chicago millionaire butchers are not too good for a like plot. When their profit will let them get down from the lofty stand they have taken, the strike will be over and their people will get about all they want.

Lancaster's Chrysanthemum Show. The opening of the chrysanthemum exhibition in Lancaster to-day marks an epoch in local floriculture. No Pennsylvania towns have attempted a show of this nature except the big cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburg, and Lancaster's exhibition fairly rivals those at the points above named.

The love of flowers is implanted in every soul and a pretty plant will bring a smile to the face of poverty and cheer the occupant of the sick room like an angel guest, The beauty and purity of the flower have s mething of the celestial about them, and their tendency is to soften the asperities of life. It is, therefore, not only a beautiful, but a morally healthful act to encourage their cultivation.

The evolution theory is well manifested in the development of the chrysauthemum. which was once a comparatively neglected flower, and which by cultivation has become one of the idols of the fashionable world. Enthusiastic florists say that the development of this " queen of the autumn " is still in its infancy.

The Lancaster exhibition is solely one of chrysanthemums, and it is such a one of which all the people of this town ought to be proud. They should encourage it by frequent attendance that it may not be said that in this large forward step in local floriculture its projectors shall have spent time and money in vain.

Ir looks as though Van Wyck and Riddleberger will hold the balance of power in the

Perhaps the meanest insult ever offered to the Democrats of this city was given them by their own organ, the INTELLIGENCER, the day after the election, when it declared many of them were bought and "the price paid ranged from a drink of bad whisky to a ten-dollar bill." The imputation contained in that sentence is not more a compliment to e party than it is to cer members.-New Era, Nov.

The INTELLIGENCER has no apology to make for what it has said about the vote purchasing at the recent city election. The crime was committed in the most open and shameless manner. Our Pharisaical contemporary well knows it, but dares not say so. There was a time when the New Era was ready to go into a non-partisan plan to stop the wholesale corruption at our city election. Now it can find nothing better to do than to belittle a journal that points out the evils and demands a remedy? Why is Junges Gordon and Magee's success at the polis on Tuesday last in Republican districts, is a flattering vindication of the wisdom of their selection by Governor Pattison.

THE arrest of Alfred, alias Thomas and J. Richardson Parke, in Philadelphia, the other day for counterfeiting patent medicines, puts a stop to a villainous scheme of making money. They were accustomed, on the plea of needing new labels for solied ones, to obtain new slips which they would put on bogus compounds. Their detection was an excellent piece of detective work.

THE impressions that prevati abroad of the ways of American politics and the relative importance of New York in them is far from correct, but at the same time it is readily understood. The sale by foreigners of blocks of American stocks and securities during the last week can only be attributed to siarm at the immense vote polled for Henry George in New York, and when we remember the fact that a very targe majority of the holders of securities abroad are people who believe in monarchy and look upon an approach to Socialism as the doom of all republics, it is easy enough to understand their paule when they see the metropolis of America so nearly carried into that whiripool, The fact that in Europe, and more particularly in France, the fate of the nation depends upon the people of the metropolis leads foreigners to apply the same rule to America, and the great importance of the vote of New York in the present even balance of parties goes far to confirm their conclusion. The sagerness with which the securities were snapped up in the American market is the best refutation that we could give them, and It is a matter for congratulation that the condition of the money market made it possible for the capitalists of New York, where the danger was imagined to be greatest, to show their confidence in the strength of our gov-ernment and contempt for the little cloud that had frightened European royalists.

THE loss by fire in the United States in the month of October aggregates $12,000,000. An alarmist multiplies this figure by twelve and then gravely announces that the "presen system of insurance will not stand a loss of $144,000,000 per annum, and we might well make up our minds to pay more or save more, torthwith." In the mat ter of fires, October is one of the worst months in the year, and the figure reached in 1886 is one of the highest but to reach the total annual loss by multiply. ing that amount by twelve is not justifiable

HERE are some figures that the Bay state will not very proudly exhibit while Mr. Cleveland is sojourning in that commonwealth. In 1850 the total population of Mas-sachussetts was 901,514 and the number of prison inmates was 1,236, or a criminal to every 804 inhabitants. In 1810 the population was 1,783,085, and the number of criminals of supply in addition to its other great virtues. And it might as well cease to flow as to flow too unsteadily to furnish a stable fuel.

was 3,639, or a proportion of one criminal to 487 inhabitants, showing that in thirty years the criminal class of Massachussotts had doubted relatively to the growth of the whole population.

FRANK LAWYER, Democrat, has been re-elected to Congress in Chicago by a majority of six votes. SENATOR KENNEDY'S grave in Philadelphia will be marked by a beautiful monu nent in a few days. McGill's majority for governor of Min-pesota is 2,314. Once the Republicans could easily command twenty times that figure. QUAY is now avowedly in the field for United State senator. The Philadelphia Press says Calvin Wells had no thought of it. Agassiz, dying, said, "Write upon toy tomb but one word, 'Teacher.'" His ambi-tion craved no higher praise than to be the acknowledged teacher of his race. Nor is there loftier place. MR. B. K. JAMISON, the Philadelphia banker, has forwarded to Dom Pedro, em-peror of Brazil, a handsome bronze medal bearing a likeness of President Cleveland. It was made at the mint.

WILLIAM M. SINGEBLY, of the Philadel phia Record, it is said by the Wilkesbarre Sunday Lender, will marry Miss Carrie Diet ick, who has been one of the recent suc-cesses of the operatic stage in "The Little Texaco."

A FEW STATE ITEMS

The failure of natural gas at a place it Pittsburg and in Meadville, caused shivering citizens to resort to coal and wood. The case of Weaver vs. the Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley road for damages to the former's property in East Pikeland town-ship, Chester county, has been compromised for $2,450 and costs.

The backbone of the strike among the iron-workers of Coatesville is broken. Two of the largest firms, Messrs C. E. Pennock & Co., and the Coatesville Iron company. granted the advance of $4 per too. The mills of Huston & Sons and Worth Brothers are yet shut down. Daniel Harrison, of Polistown, and his three little children drank, as a cure for colds, what was supposed to be boneset tea but was jimson weed and soon were taken deathly sick. They are in a critical condition. The Lehigh Valley's proposed new line to the West is chartered under the name of the Seaboard & Atlantic railroad, and one of its advantages over all other routes is that it can be built without a tunned. The programme was that if the South Pennsylvania railroad were not built those interested in that scheme would join the Lehigh Valley in building the route from Ashland, but it is now stated that the Lehigh Valley people have found others who will join them and that the road will certainly be built, even without help from the South Pennsylvania capitalists.

Planning a New Story

From the Philadelphia Press Mr. Henry F. Keenan, the novellet, passed through town a day or two ago on the way to his writing den in Scranton. Although he says there isn't more than $12 a week even
