

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING. TERMINATION FUND DUES FIXED AT $3 AND $5.

The Trustees Ordered to Secure a Room in the Central Part of the Town to Be Open Daily—A Plan to Bring Lower York County to Lancaster.

The November meeting of the board of trade was held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Tuesday evening with the president, John C. Hager, in the chair.

The roll call was dispensed with and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The following new members were received as follows: J. H. Hager, John S. Spencer, John A. Arnold, John B. Warfield, Michael Kelly, John A. Heintz, Jacob L. Frey, J. McManis, W. U. Howell, Simon A. Sorensen, Allen Guthrie, Philip Ruy, Samuel M. Myers, R. H. Brutscher, Frank Stroder, John W. The committee on publication reported an organization by the election of C. Rine Hager as chairman and Herbert W. Hartman as secretary.

The finance committee reported on the question of initiation fee and dues submitted to them at the last meeting. They concluded that the initiation fee should be $5 and yearly dues $3.

Mr. Houston opposed $5 as the initiation fee. What the board of trade wants is more members at a higher rate. He offered an amendment to the effect that the initiation fee be $3 and the annual dues $2.

Dr. Wickensham favored the adoption of the amendment. The board will be obliged to read a room, furnish it suitably, and if a book of statistics is to be issued money will be needed.

Mr. Houston withdrew his amendment and the report of the committee was adopted. Mr. Houston of the board of trade, reported that several propositions had been made to the board to rent rooms for meetings.

Mr. Wickensham stated that at Reading, Williamsport and Harrisburg the board of trade rooms are furnished nearly but not lavishly. These are open at all hours and business men are invited to use them.

Mr. Breuneman moved that the trustees be authorized to rent a room for the meetings of the board, and said room shall be kept open day and evening.

Dr. Carpenter was opposed to renting a large room. That meant a large expense. John Keller told of his travels in the West and how he had seen a room in the city of New York.

These and three places were named: a second floor of Dorsch's building, North Queen street; second floor of Shantz & Burns; second floor of H. & McNabb's store; third floor of the Kepler building.

He wears a dress, coat and hat and spends a great deal of time in the streets, and is a great deal of attention as he sits in front of the postoffice puffing at a "cut."

THE ASSEMBLED TEACHERS. COURTESY READING THE PRINCIPAL THREE OF INSTITUTE TRIP.

The Remarks of Col. Parker and Prof. Neff on That Subject—Major Henry C. Dana's Evening Lecture—The True Test of Successful Teaching.

The institute opened at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon with music. Mary Lawrence, of Elizabeth, was the committee. She was appointed by the chair to propose to the institute a course of reading by teachers, as suggested by the chairman in his opening address. The following were appointed:

Anna E. Jenkins, Fulton; Mary E. Lawrence, West; Mary E. Brown, Reading; Walter, East; Margaret S. Pyle, Drummer; E. W. Metzger, Litz; W. H. Buller, Manheim; J. K. Ritzer, Earl. Prof. Neff, in his opening address, "Thoughtful and thoughtful," he held that the mere memorizing was useless, and that it was worse than useless for a child to commit to memory a sentence that it does not understand. The great object of oral reading in the public school is almost solely for the purpose of finding out what the pupil knows. If the pupil has the thought in his mind he will read with expression; expression is the servant of thought.

It is wrong and false to suppose that only the orator or elocutionist can read a poem successfully. Any one who has the heart to make himself thoroughly acquainted with its thoughts can read the poem well. The power of expression is inherent in the mind of every child. It is the teacher's duty to help him to express his thoughts in a way that is clear and true. The teacher must inspire the pupils with a love of literature; the text books are not enough for the schools; the newspaper and the magazine should be introduced into the schools. The history of to-day among other works to be read by the pupil out of school the essayist recommended the works of Washington Irving, Longfellow, Dickens, and the poetical works of Longfellow, the sweetest of poets, and many other writers were recommended by the essayist.

H. L. Batten, of Upper Leacock, in discussing the subject, said that the books to be read by children should be of the line of business they expect to follow in after life. The reading of trashy novels should be discontinued; the newspaper should be read in the morning; the lesson read should be reviewed in the afternoon. Out of school, pupils may read the history of the United States, and the teacher should stimulate pupils to a course of general reading.

Col. Parker on Educational Tests. "Educational Tests" was the title given in the programme for Col. Parker's afternoon speech. He said that the most important educational tests there is no question; the only question is which are the best tests. He laid down the premises that they should be genuine and true; every faculty of the child should be tested; the test should be a test of the child's own work; the test should be a test of the child's own work; the test should be a test of the child's own work.

Col. Parker closed his address by answering several questions that were asked him. The most important of which was as to how should the examination of pupils for transfer to higher schools. He answered that the teacher should do so. It would not do to say to the teacher, "Here, we place this important matter in your case; you are to do it, and we will not expect you to test them in their lessons." But suppose the teacher is not competent to make a fair test of the progress of the pupil. It is the duty of the school board to see that the teacher is competent.

Major Henry C. Dana on the Great Naval Battles of the War. The lecture of Maj. Henry C. Dana in the opera house last night drew together a very large audience who listened with rapt attention to the thrilling and blood-curdling scenes described by the eloquent speaker. His subject was a recital of the great naval battles of the war of the rebellion. After paying a deserved compliment to the deeds of valor of the naval officers of the war of 1812-14, he came down to the war of the rebellion, and showed how utterly inefficient our navy was at that time; and how the world laughed at Lincoln's paper blockade of the Atlantic coast from the Potomac to the Rio Grande and the Gulf of Mexico.

The first thirty-five or forty minutes of the programme of the teachers' institute at Fulton hall this evening will be a number of selections sung and played by the high school choruses. The first selection will be "The Star Spangled Banner." The choruses will be under the leadership of Prof. Metz, instructor in music in the high school; and the instrumental music will be under the direction of Prof. Thoburn. The following songs will be sung: "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Star Spangled Banner."

CROWDS AT THE SHOW. VIEWING THE CHRYSIANTHEMUM EXHIBITION AT THE RINK.

An Orchestra Enlivens the Evening With Spirited Music—The Indications Point to a Successful Outcome of This Notable Local Floral Undertaking.

The attendance at the chrysanthemum show that opened in the Lancaster rink on Tuesday afternoon was large, hundreds of people passing in and out of the building and admiring its beautiful floral contents. Four fine juniper trees have been placed in the corners of the room, and they lend quite a forest effect to the interior of the building. Last evening Knight's orchestra discoursed sweet flowers and inspiring music was quite captivating.

The INTELLIGENCER takes great pleasure in presenting to its readers illustrations of some of the beautiful plants that appear at the show. The first is that of an Orlando. A GOLDEN DRAGON.

This is a beautiful single variety of the orange and its peculiar pink flowers are attracting a great deal of attention. It is a variety that is quite rare. A GOLDEN DRAGON.

Among the white chrysanthemums the Diana ranks high and some excellent specimens of this variety are to be seen. The chasteness of its petals as well as the striking beauty of the color are both suggestive of the name. A DIANA.
