The River Very High. During yesterday and last night the Susebanna river here has been rising very rapidly and the water is now about five feet above low water mark. The wharves along the shore are almost completely submerged, although very little damage has been done. The high water has put a stop to the shipping of coal at the Rsading & Columbia coal chutes. A lot of wood was lying along the shore, near the chutes, and the water begun rising so fast that the owners were compelled to work from twelve to three o'clock this morning to get the wood out of danger. A number of row boats were swept from their fastenings but were caught before they went down the river. Flenty of drift wood is floating past the town.

LARCENT OF OLD IKON. shonest Helper Who Helped Himself to His Employer's Property.

months past the Penn Iron company has been systemstically robbed of large quantities of old iron, taken from their premby parties unknown. About a month ago Officer Barnhold was put earthly possibility of an outlook in the upon the track of the thieves, and has kept a watch on the premises He obtained sufficient formation to warrant the arrest of Louis Roitsnyder, who lives at No. 527 East Chest-nut street, and who has been for some time past employed at the Penu iron works as a helper.

Yesterday Officer Barnhold, accompanied by Officer Weaver, visited Reitsnyder's premises, Barnhold having a search warrant and Weaver a warrant of arrest on charge of larceny. Wesver knocked at the front door, and Reifenyder, on learning that he was wanted, skipped out of the back door and fell an easy prey to Barnhold, who was there awaiting him. He was taken into custody and the premises were searched. Quantities of iron, consisting of car springs, pig metal, heavy iron pipe and scraps of iron of various kinds were found in the ceilar, in the yard, and a barrel full in an outhouse. On being questioned as to where he got the iron Reif-sayder tried to make explanation but was soon tripped up and contradicted himself, and after trying to fasten the offense on his essed that he had taken some own son, confessed that he had taken some of the iron, and that other workmen had done the same. Reifanyder was locked up for a hearing before Alderman Deen, the time for which has not yet been fixed.

The iron, some of which was lound on a lot adjoining Reifanyder's, was identified as belonging to the Penn iron works, and was leaded on a waren and laken to the works.

leaded on a wagon and taken to the works, and was leaded on a wagon and taken to the works. It weighed 319 pounds. It is said that Reifsanyder sold a wagon load of old iron to John Fesgley the day that Blaine made a speech at the park, and sold another wagon load two weeks afterwards. It is believed that a great deal more iron has been stolen from the Penn works, and that Reifsnyder is not the ifsnyder owns the house he lives in, the title being in his wife's name. The house is a very good one and very comfortably furn-ished. Reifsnyder and his family have heretofore borne a very good name.

MAGGIE MITCHELL.

Astonishing Work of An Actress Who Is Few of the good-sized audience who saw daggie Mitchell skipping about the Fulton opera house stage last evening were aware this fact that fifty-four summers had come and gone since her natal hour. Her vivacity in spite of years is most astonishing, and the namer in which she sustained her long dancing periods told of wonderful physical powers. Only a close scrutiny of her face, and a slight harshness occasionally noticeable in the voice betrays that she is not a young woman, and one must have a sharp eye and a quick ear to detect these slight im-

The play of "Maggie, the Midget" is The play of "Maggle, the Midget" is crudely constructed and seems to have been framed only for the introduction of the specialities of the actress. It has no plot to speak of. The support last evening was even enough; but was nowhere specially strong, except in the characters of Lycurgus Potts and Mrs. Glorvina Potts, taken respectively by Mr. R. F. McClanin and Miss Marion P. Chifton. Frequent applause marked the presentation of the play and twice the curtain was rung up in response to warm applause.

A Cost Stolen.

This morning a cost was stolen from a house on West King street, and word was ent to Officer Boas. A tramp was arrested on sont to Officer Soas. A tramp was arrested on suspicion. He denied the theft, but admitted that he had thrown away a coat that was given to him. He took the officer to the place where the coat was and it proved to be a good one. The man was then taken to the house where he got the coat and the lady raid his story was true. He could give no reason for throwing away a good coat and he was locked up on the charge of vagrancy. His name is Frank Murray and is a well known burn. It was a companion of his who stole the coat.

THE MOTHER OF THE JAMES BOTH Shows She Is Made of the Same Material

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Zereida Samuels, mother of the James boys, was in this city yesterday. The old lady looks as hale and hearty as she did 10 years ago, when her sons, Frank and Jesse, were the terror of express companies and travelers, and when every movement of hertravelers, and when every movement of her-self and family was watched with curiosity. In regard to the Adams Express company robbery, and that humorous correspondent of the daily papers who signs himself "Jim Cummings," Mrs. Samuels said: "I do not know whether Jim Cummings is dead or alive and I don't want to know. I don't know who committed this robbary. know who committed this robbery, but although Jesse is in his grave and Frank's whereabouts and daily life are known every day, these scoundrels still want to lay the robbery on the James boys. It's the same old story. After Jesse had been hunted down and shot in the back of his head by a treacherous assassin, who is not only allowed to escape scot free, but is applauded and rewarded for his cowardly murder, the dead man cannot be allowed to rest in peace in his grave but must be blamed for the next robbery that occurs. If Jesse were alive Jim Cummings nor none of his class would write letters to papers blaming the robbery on him or his brother. I don't know who this 'Jim Cummings' is, but I suppose his case is like a good many other cases where the man who cries 'stop thief,' the loudest will bear the most watching."

GREAT CINCINNATI FIRE.

A Hall Million Dollars Lost and One Man Missing.
CINCINNATI, Nov. 20 -About 15 minutes efore 3 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the third story of Mack Stadler's wholesale clothing store on the south side of Third street, between Vine and Race, and gained headway before an alarm was sent in. It soon spread to Fechneimer Bros.' wholesale clothing establishment next door. The loss is estimated at $200,000. The Burnet house is directly opposite it and many of the guests arose and dressed and prepared to leave, but t did not become necessary. At 4:10 a. m. the dividing wall fell and Peter Kuhel, of the "Fours," Captain Halstead, of company , and two other firemen, names not yet learned, were precipitated into the ruins, falling from the sixth floor to the cellar. At 4:30 Kuhel was got out. He was not much hurt. Captain Haistead could be heard talking through the ruins. The men are doubtless dead. One man is missing and it is feared he has been killed. The two buildings were entirely gutted while the clothing house of M. H. Garlas & Co., adjoining on the west, was damaged heavily by water. Loss $500,-000. Mack Stadier & Co. have $260,000 insur-ance on building and $45,000 on stock. M. & S. Fechheimer & Co. $35,000 on building and $205,000 on stock. Four firemen were injured by falling timbers, none fatally. The cause of the fire is unknown.

BRIGADIER GENERAL MILES. Talks About the Effect of the Capture of Geronimo and His Band WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. - Brigadier General Miles, commanding the department of Arizona, has arrived here. In an interview respecting the recent surrender of Geronimo and his band of renegade Apaches, the veteran Indian fighter said : " I feet that Geronimo and his followers are finally disposed of and they appear to be perfectly satisfied that they have been properly dealt with. The surrender was an absolute surrender." "Which," suggested the interviewer, "is the same thing as a capture ?" "It is so regarded by military law," replied the general, adding, "the only ob-ject that a band of warriors could have in surrendering absolutely and throwing themselves on the mercy of their captors is the hope that for doing so their lives may be spared. But, of course, I could not grant them a pardow. That lay with the president. It was with him to do what was right with them. Now they have all been banished from their home, everything has been taken and they have been removed to a place hundreds of miles away, where there will be no future. The general is here on furlough-not on official business, and will return to his after spending a few weeks with his family.

Kaulbars Makes a Demand.

Goldmark's New Opera Produced.

VIENNA, Nov. 20.—Goldmark's new opera 'Merlin," was produced for the first time in the Imperial opera house last night. The theatre was densely crowded by an audience largely composed of notable persons and the opera was enthusiastically received. At the close of the performance the composer was called upon the stage and expressed his gratification at the favorable reception of his work. The music of the opera is decidedly Wagnerian.
