Neatness in Dress at Home From the Brooklyn Magazine.

The importance of neat and tasteful house dressing cannot be over-estimated. The matron who appears before the members of her family in a shabby, soiled wrapper, and trouble to make one at all—that "it is so March.

March more comfortable." has little idea of May...... the possible consequences of such a course. Could she but realize that her dress is an evil example to her daughters, and one produc ive of consequences that will reach far beyond her own span of life; that her husband and some cannot fail to draw comparisons be-tween her dress and that of the ladies they meet in other homes, and that these compari-sons cannot fail to decrease their respect for her, she might be induced to give more at-tention to her personal appearance. Not even the burden of care and constant emsyen the burden of care and constant employment can furnish a sufficient excuse for careless personal habits, for few things are more important to the well-being of a family. There is an old saying to the effect that an untidy mother has disobedient children; and while neither parents nor children may realize the why or wherefore of it, yet there is always a lack of respect and an indifferis always a lack of respect and an indiffer-ence to the authority of a mother who takes ence to the authority of a mother who takes no pride in her personal appearance. And it is not the mother alone upon whose shoulders rest the burden of responsibility for home neatness and order in dress; the father has his duties to look after as well, and should never fall to insist upon the younger members of the family presenting themselves with well-kept hands, clean faces, neatly-brushed hair and orderly dress, at least at every meal where the family assemble.

Mile. Rhea To-night.—This evening Mile. thea plays "The Widow" at the opera house ad the indications are that she will have a large audience. Wherever the lady has been she, as well as her company, is highly praised, while the play is said to be very funny. She appeared in Harrisburg on Wednesday evening and the newspapers speak about her in words of great praise. The Furiot says: "'The Widow' in the drama is much like the widow in real life, though the splendid acting of Mile. Bhea and the excellent company at the opers house lest night year. at company at the opera house last night may have just the least bit exaggerated the matter.

Of the cast praise would be superfluous. Mile, then sustained her world-wide reputation as a finished actress and accomplished artist. In the opening scene her anguish is simply heart-rendspening scene her angulab is simply heart-rend-ing and throughout the various stages of re-covery from bereavement are so finely drawn as to mark her a mistress of the work. Mr. Arthur Forest, is the character of Charles De Norancey, a kind and indulgent husband, but a victim to jealousy, was equal to the difficult role. In fact he divided the honors of the evening with Mile. Ehea."

Groy & Siephens. — Lovers of sensational drams will be pleased to learn that the Gray & Stephens company will open here on Monday at the opers house. During the week they will present their well-known plays, introducing the great trained dogs.
