The Weekly Intelligencer. PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING. PRICE PER COPY FIVE CENTS.

The Pig Iron Market. The Thomas Iron company is a very large producer of pig iron, and it has been in the habit for many years of announcing to the public the close of one year what its prices would be for the next year.

Reports from California say that the wine crop of 1886 exceeds that of any previous year. The San Francisco Herald asserts that the crop is 15,000,000 gallons, prominent wine merchants say it is 13,500,000 gallons, and the Chronicle promises 20,000,000 gallons.

When "Reddy" Jacobs found that the Intelligencer had published his picture, he recognized that further attempts at concealment were useless.

The supplementary report of the secretary of the treasury on the collection of duties is intended to bring to the attention of Congress the defects of the system, together with the suggestions for their remedy from the customs officers of the four great ports.

There is no probability, in view of the immense productive capacity of modern plants and the great capital invested in the business, that pig iron will have a boom, and it is reasonably certain that it will not in the future command steadily higher prices than are now indicated.

Mr. Lamar on the Indians. The report of the secretary of the interior contains a most interesting and gratifying account of the progress made in Indian affairs.

English language in daily affairs, and the mechanical and domestic arts; third, the enforcement of justice and protection by law. He urges the passage of the bill proposed by an Indian commission as suggested in his last report.

As this country with a surplus revenue has refused to pay for first rate men for the benefit of the savages, it should certainly not be guilty of the additional meanness of refusing this supervising commission.

A Lancaster Democrat has been found who desires a government appointment. Museum managers, take notice.

It has been noted advertised to in this column that under the new Democratic ticket the Second district of Lancaster county will be taken out of the Democratic ticket at the next state convention.

Young Wales, the brilliant cartoonist, whose name in 1874 was worth much of its success, and whose mournful death occurred recently, died his first career work for the New York Herald.

Dr. Murdoch, of the Pittsburg Medical college, the other day restored the column of the nose of a young woman named Mary Fox, whose nasal cavity had been completely destroyed by a cancerous affection.

The Montrose Democrat is indignant because of the impression created that many county treasurers are culpably delinquent in making their returns to the state.

Simply to see things as they are, this is poetry; for beauty, power and bliss cannot consist in what is not. Thus he who sees the truth lives with poetry.

WAYSIDE GLANCES. The New York Sun calls attention to the cheapness and excellence of its Sunday newspaper in comparison with the magazines which cost ten times as much.

It is interesting to note that the growing matter provided for three cents in the amount sold for thirty-five cents in the December Harper's Magazine.
