gular Correspondence of INTELLIGENCES. COLUMBIA, Jan. 26.—The principal topic of tion upon the streets this morning the prospects of the ice starting to move, on reports received in town the ice started move last evening at Middletown and er points. It has been reported that a n became bank full and then the and ice overflowed into the canal. The or again went into the river, opposite the sunger station at Marietta. The river ence to rise last evening and is coming up this morning. It would reire a very great body of water to move the from the dam. The ice is gorged from dam to the islands, opposite the furnaces, nd there is more los on the river now than hes been for many years. No damage is ed to occur here, but if the ice ould gorge in this vicinity much damage could result in the places above Columbia. The river is over a foot higher than it was rdsy and will continue to rise as long as weather continues up the river.

THE ICE GOING DOWN. LATER .- The los on the river commenced move about 11 a. m., and is now passing off without much damage. The high water from up the river reached here at that hour, carrying the ice over the dam. The river was very high, crossing the river tracks, but has fallen a few teet. The wharves along the river front are covered with hugh piles of ice and a few feet of water. The ice elevator of nei Filbert has been very badly damaged Very high gorges have been formed on the dam. About the time the fee commenced to move it was very close to the bridge, but all er to that structure has passed.

2:30 P. M .- The ice has jammed above the Columbia bridge and fears are expressed for is safety. For some time the railroad off. is would not allow the train to cross the bridge, but finally it was allowed to pass and got over safely. It is said the ice is piled up almost to the top of the piers and that two or more spans on this side of the river have en moved about eight inches. Election of Officers.
