

INTELLIGENCER

PUBLISHED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR
(Weekly excepted.)A WEEK, FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR, FIFTY DOLLARS DELIVERED BY CARRIERS IN LAW-
TON AND ALL ADJACENT PLACES. SAMPLE
ONE DOLLAR. REMITTANCE ALLOWED TO ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT.

ADVERTISING RATES:

| | 1 in. |
|------------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|
| per Day. | $ 60 | 75 | 100 | 125 | 150 | 175 |
| per Month. | 1 10 | 125 | 150 | 175 | 200 | 225 |
| per Year. | 1 10 | 125 | 150 | 175 | 200 | 225 |
| per Day. | 1 10 | 125 | 150 | 175 | 200 | 225 |
| per Month. | 1 10 | 125 | 150 | 175 | 200 | 225 |
| per Year. | 1 10 | 125 | 150 | 175 | 200 | 225 |

The Weekly Intelligencer

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.

ONE YEAR, EIGHT DOLLARS FEE MYSTERIES, CLUBS OF THE STATE, AND A COUPLE FEES FOR PERSONS GETTING UP GAMES.
RECOMMENDED FROM EVERY PART OF THE
STATE AND COUNTRY. ALL ANGSTHOMS LETTERS
WILL BE CONSIDERED FOR THE WASTE BASKET.
Address all Letters and Telegrams toTHE INTELLIGENCER,
Intelligencer Building, Lancaster, Pa.

LANCASTER, JANUARY 21, 1871.

Non-Political Municipal Movements.

The Philadelphia Democrats seem to be having a great deal of difficulty in getting their license card.

He might have required that all punched license cards be returned by the bar-keeper, after he has made his last punch, to the clerk of the orphans' court, who would keep record thereof.

In this way would be obtained a self-regulating account of the drink bill of the state.

And as the license is issued to the individual new office, and it is doubtful if any of the county buildings in the state would have quarters large enough to accommodate the rush for license pasteboards. But that is not to the point.

Representative Callaghan might have combined a great statistical scheme with his license card. He might have required that all punched license cards be returned by the bar-keeper, after he has made his last punch, to the clerk of the orphans' court, who would keep record thereof.

In this way would be obtained a self-regulating account of the drink bill of the state.

And as the license is issued to the individual new office, and it is doubtful if any of the county buildings in the state would have quarters large enough to accommodate the rush for license pasteboards. But that is not to the point.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

Licensing the Drinker.

All reform agitation brings to the surface of affairs a number of cranks. One of these latter is on top in the proposed liquor reform by state legislation.

His name is Callaghan and he is a representative from Westmoreland county. He has prepared a measure, to be soon offered, providing that every person who wants a drink must exhibit to the bar-tender a properly prepared license duly signed, sealed and certified.

If Mr. Callaghan had been a man of any ingenuity, he would have arranged for a license card calling for a certain number of drinks, the card to be punched by the bartender according to the number of "smiles" he has gulped down. Then he might have provided under stringent penalties, that such cards should be worn always in full view on the owner's hat to prevent mistake. It is true that the selling of such cards would call for an entirely new office, and it is doubtful if any of the county buildings in the state would have quarters large enough to accommodate the rush for license pasteboards. But that is not to the point.

Representative Callaghan might have combined a great statistical scheme with his license card. He might have required that all punched license cards be returned by the bar-keeper, after he has made his last punch, to the clerk of the orphans' court, who would keep record thereof.

In this way would be obtained a self-regulating account of the drink bill of the state.

And as the license is issued to the individual new office, and it is doubtful if any of the county buildings in the state would have quarters large enough to accommodate the rush for license pasteboards. But that is not to the point.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.

The author of the interesting experience in Paris school are given. A thrilling story in the Parisian fumoirs, and a good one for the more substantial literary meal that goes before.

The career of the thirteenth president of the Lancaster school board is given in detail. The history of the new theatre and the lively theatrical war about to be precipitated are pungently related. Then there are some interesting morality figures from the coroner, points for the housekeeper and a hundred other good things that no Lancastrian can afford to miss. Send your order in early.

A SOUTHERN editor charges the head of an estimated contingency fund with the dreadful crime of wearing socks that cost $1.75 a pair. The South is certainly picking up.

The State Board of Agriculture is a unit against the repeal of the oligomaritime law, which proves that this organization has much to learn.

The Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will keep up the high standard of excellence achieved by this journal. "Uncle" has a scathing review of a New York religious-literary publication that pretends to be the best in the land.