

KING STREET OPERA HOUSE.

IT WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK IN THE REMODELED HALL.

Description of the Changes Whereby the Building Has Been Converted into a Play House—To Seat 1,450 People.

By this time next week, if everything goes well, Lancaster will have two theatres. The place will be in the building on West King street, formerly used as a rink, and it will be known as the King Street opera house.

The stage is in the southern end, and to erect it, it was found necessary to take out a large quantity of earth and rock, underneath the stage are four very good sized and convenient dressing rooms.

It has all the conveniences, and for the present it will be supplied with six sets of scenery. A drop curtain bearing a picture of a scene in Yellowstone Park has also been received.

For the present, at least, wooden chairs will be used for seats. They stand upon a large platform running from the south almost to the north end of the building.

The galleries will seat about 900, so it will be seen that the house will seat about 1,450 people. The chairs have been repainted, and the manager says that if his venture meets with success he will put in folding chairs, at least in the front part of the house.

The persons connected with the management of the house are as follows: Manager, William A. Halbach; ticket seller, Frank Zecher and Harry Wingert; police officers, John Gill, John McFay and Martin DeLoraine; janitor, Martin Rutter; stage hands, George Breneman, Andrew Rutter, Pat Rooney and Edward Doebler; ushers, Harry Zahn and two others to be appointed.

Whether two theatres will pay in this city remains to be seen, but the fact that there are two will be beneficial to the public. Next week the two houses will have an excellent opportunity of showing their drawing powers, as both will have the same kind of shows at low prices.
