THE KILLINGER PROPERTY. The Court Sets Aside the December Sale and

The testimony showed that if the property Was again put up Jacob S. Shirk and B. J. McGrann would bid $12,000 or more for it, while it had been knocked down for $11,000, re were two parties, R. A. Evans and delb Geretley, who claimed to have bid

On the part of Mr. Evans it was argued that is bid was the one recognized by the meer; that $11,000 was a fair market price for the property, and that Mr. Geratley did not make claim to having bid $11,600 until after Mr. Evans had signed the articles of agreement. The court reserved decision until this morning, when they decided to set

The King street open to the Rese.

The King street open house was to have opened this evening with the Rose Liste dramatic company, but if it opens at all it will likely be with a law suit. This formoon William A. Halbach, manager of the house, informed Frank L. Yerance, manager house, informed Frank L. Yerance, manager for Mim Linie, that he had cancelled their for Miss Lisle, that he had cancelled their engagement and they would not be allowed to open this evening. For a time there was quite a stormy scene, Mr. Yerance declaring positively that he would open, while the manager of the rink stated just as positively that he would not. While this was going on the members of the company were busy on the stage rehearing their parts for to-night.

Manager Halbach gave his side of the story to an INTELLIGENCER reporter. He says that he was imposed upon by the company, which does not come up to the representations made to him. He says that Miss Linie was lyidgidle last week and that she has drawn this company together quickly, the members coming from Philadelphia, Columbus, Louisville and other places. He says that they never had any rehearsals together until this morning, when the majority of them read their parts. He thinks they are an inferior company, and some of the members say so themselves. He says that to open his house with a poor attraction would ruin his pros pects, and the place will be locked this even-ing.

Mr. Yerance was also seen by a reporter.

He says that he will be at the theatre at o'clock this evening with his company ready to give a performance, and if he is not al owed to do so he will at once bring suit against Halbach, with whom helbolds a contrack. He says that Miss Lisle is a fine actrees, whose reputation is well-known among all theatre people throughout the entire coun-try. As for the company, Halbach has not seen them perform and he knows nothing whatever of their ability. They have not as yet given a poo show, and Halbach is trying to Naff them off without giving them any charce. As for the company being brought together from different cities that amounts to gothing nor does the fact that some of them read wer parts. What they want is an opportunity to perform to-night, and if they are not allowed this privilege there will be trouble in the abape of a law suit.

The Boston correspondent of the Philadel-phia Press says of a ball player well known here: "The Bostons appear to have made no mistake in engaging young Higgins to play second base next season. Several parties who have seen him play and who have played against him speak strongly of his merits. While he is said to be only a fair batter, his fielding and base running are spoken of most enthusiastically. He is of steady habits and very ambitious. In taking the place of Bur-dock he is following a great player, and may naturally feel a little nervous at the outset, but in no club would be receive fairer treatment at the hands of the veterans time be will
