

THE 68TH ANNIVERSARY.

CELEBRATION AT THE LANCASTER CITY BIBLE SOCIETY ON SUNDAY.

The Annual Report Read at the Services in the Church—The Presbyterian Memorial Church Sunday School Eighteenth Street—T. B. Church Edification.

The sixty eighth anniversary of the Lancaster City Bible Society was celebrated Sunday evening in Trinity Lutheran by the Moravian and St. John's German Reformed churches.

In Trinity church, Rev. C. L. Fry, the pastor, conducted the service. He read the second chapter of Ezekiel, as a scripture lesson and then read the president's annual report as follows:

President Titze's Annual Address.—Through the infinite goodness of the God and Father of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, we celebrate this evening the sixty-eighth anniversary of the Lancaster City Bible Society.

The object of this society, as stated in its constitution, is "to promote the circulation of the Holy Scriptures." The greatest happiness that can befall any man or woman is to be able to read and understand the word of God.

During the past year sixty-five copies of the Scriptures were sold, and fifteen copies were given gratuitously to the destitute. In addition to these, we have distributed tracts of the Word of God among the poor in other parts of our country or in foreign lands. For what has been done in this way there is cause for thanksgiving to God.

At the annual meeting, which by adjournment was held on the evening of the 15th of January last, the following persons were elected as officers for the ensuing year: President, Rev. J. M. Titze, D. D.; vice-presidents, Revs. Charles Reids and Thomas Thompson; secretary, D. C. Weaver; treasurer, George K. Reed; librarians, J. M. Davidson.

The executive committee consists of the above named officers together with the following persons: Rev. J. C. Fry, Rev. J. C. Keuling, D. D., Hon. D. W. Patterson, S. S. High and Dr. B. N. Kendrick. The report of the treasurer is here with submitted. It is as follows:

Financial report table with columns for Receipts and Expenditures, listing items like cash on hand, contributions, and printing costs.

Balance of cash on hand and in bank, $120.50. Total receipts, $3,014.75. Total expenditures, $2,894.25. Balance of cash on hand and in bank, $120.50.

President of the Lancaster Bible Society, Rev. Charles Reids, of St. Paul's M. E. church, followed in a most impressive manner on the fact that the Bible has survived the most stormy tempests of its life to destroy and is destined to live until the end of the world.

Rev. Dr. Titze, of the First Reformed church, was the next speaker. He said that all books the Bible is most important. But it is the word of God. It is declared to be so from every pulpit. But the Mohammedan believes the Koran is the word of God. What better proof have we than the Mohammedan? Dr. Titze then went on to show at some length that the Bible was the best evidence of its authenticity, citing many passages to prove it.

A collection was lifted in aid of the Bible society, and the congregation was dismissed with a benediction.

At St. John's German Reformed church there was a moderate attendance. The services were opened by the pastor, Rev. J. Keuling. Rev. J. Keuling, who presided, delivered an address, his topic being the spirit of truth as revealed in the Bible.

The annual address of Dr. Titze, as printed above, was read after which Rev. Keuling delivered an address on the work of distribution which is the most important part of the century by the American and British Bible societies, the difficulties encountered and overcome, and the work yet to do by those engaged in Bible distribution.

A collection was lifted for the use of the Bible society.

At the Moravian Church. There was a full congregation at the Moravian church. The services were conducted by Rev. J. M. Titze. The pastor, who also read the annual report of Dr. Titze, as printed above. Rev. E. L. Reed, of Christ Lutheran church, delivered an address on the authorship of the Bible, and Rev. C. E. Houp, of Grace Lutheran church, on the authority of the scriptures. Both were able theological discourses. A collection for the Bible cause was lifted, during which the choir sang the anthem, "Saviour Breathe an Evening Blessing."

PAINING THE EIGHTH MONTHS MILITARY. Interesting Exercises at the Anniversary Celebration of the Presbyterian Memorial Church Sunday School.

The eighteenth anniversary of the organization of the Presbyterian Memorial Sunday school was held at the church last evening, and the very large attendance present was an indication of the interest taken in this church and school by the residents of the lower end of the city.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock the evening's exercises began with the singing of "Coronation," after which the following programme was observed: Responsive reading, by superintendent and school; prayer by the pastor, Rev. Thomas Thompson; singing, "Outher Thom In"; responsive reading, "The Beatitudes"; "Give, 'Tis the Saviour's Precept"; anniversary offerings by the classes with appropriate songs; singing by the infant school; address by the pastor; singing, "We Plough the Fields"; announcement of the class average for January, 1887; collection; singing, "Standing at the Portal"; closing words, by superintendent and school; doxology; benediction.

THE RAILROAD HORROR.

CONDUCTOR AT THE WHEEL OF THE DEAD AND WOUNDED.

Conductor Bean's Statement as to the Number of People in His Train—The Ghastly Array of the Dead—Stunning Account of the Improved Morgue.

Further news from Woodstock, Vt., brings out more strongly than ever the appalling nature of Saturday morning's accident. It is another Astbury disaster with added horrors and a longer list of victims. It is by no means certain that all the passengers who were on the Montreal express train on Friday were yet been accounted for. The railroad official insist that there were not more than thirty or thirty-two people in the wreck. According to Conductor Bean's statement, made after consulting, as far as possible, the ticket agent's check list, there were thirty-five tickets sold for the two Boston cars. Sixteen of the passengers had the Pullman sleeper and the other twenty travelled in the day cars. Thirty tickets were sold on the Connecticut River roads, the Central Vermont, the Sullivan County and Vermont Valley, for points north of Bethel. Two passengers got on the train at White River Junction, making 33 in all for the two Connecticut cars. Twenty of these had berths in the second Pullman sleeping car. There were ten train hands, and the grand total of passengers consequently, according to the railroad authorities' computation, was 43. The ticket agent, E. J. Johnson, thought not to have bought tickets on the same day that they were to take the journey, or to have boarded the train and bought Pullman berths afterwards. Ten men and women escaped the wreck on the engine and baggage and postal car, which had a few seats in it. The engine, which was of the "C" class, had three dead bodies had been found or had passed through the hands of the White River Junction. E. J. Johnson. Thirty wounded persons were accounted for by Charles F. Farber, the attorney for the Central Vermont and Pennsylvanian railroads. He stated that twenty-two had gone away without giving his name. The others appear in the list of injured parties. He also stated that twenty-one were accounted for in consequence of 77, which lies closely enough with the calculation made by Conductor Bean and other railroad men. Of the thirty-two ticketed only eleven have so far been identified.

NAMES OF THE VICTIMS.

Thirty Lives Lost in the Railroad Horror Near White River Junction, Vermont. HARTFORD, Vt., Feb. 7. The following is the latest compilation of list of those who were killed in the railroad wreck near White River, Mass., Monday morning, Feb. 6. Identified by watch and ring: South C. Stewart, conductor, St. Albans; died yesterday; F. L. Weston, Springfield, Mass.; S. S. Wootcut, of Burlington, and his son; M. K. Burgess, Boston, conductor of Pullman car; Edward Rockwood, known also as Banks; of Westchester, N. Y.; Charles D. D. Marlett, of Lowell, Mass.; Mrs. D. W. Winslow, identified yesterday; Miss Borden, of Nashua, N. H.; Charles E. Bonnet, of New York City, traveling for a jewelry firm; John H. Butler, of New York; Mr. J. W. Pignin; Mr. Cassens; Mr. Stone, hotel keeper of Montreal; unknown Irish in woolen sack; three bodies discovered at nightfall; body supposed to be that of a woman, buried by no name recognition. Among the injured whose names have not been previously reported are: Jas. Lilly, of Lowell, Mass.; Charles B. Knickerbocker, of Boston, injured about the back and neck; George Lang, Montreal, right eye closed, head cut, arm and back hurt; Mrs. Boisvert, of Angeline, Canada, head bruised; Geo. Pariser, trainman, chin cut; Jos. Jannville, of Seaton, N. Y., badly bruised.

White River Junction, Feb. 7.—On one side of Main street, Hartford, is a dilapidated low-roofed frame building which is used as an improvised morgue and is filled with the victims of the accident. Hundreds of villagers and visitors yesterday sought admission to this house of death, some drawn here by curiosity, some to see the bodies in purpose of searching for missing friends and relatives. Lying on the floor were the remains of about thirty human beings, many being buried beyond recognition. The walls were hung with clothing of the dead passengers of the ill-fated train, while tables were covered with their personal articles, including hats, coats, neckties, seal-skin sashes, watches, rings, suit buttons, books and various other valuables, mixed up the pile of recovered effects. Among the property recovered which may serve as clues for identification are the remains of a chin-skin overcoat, with velvet collar, found on the body of a man, and a revolver, which was placed, another plain, one nickel plated and rubber hand, corkscrews, etc. One black flannel dress or overskirt with a waistlet and a sun of money. A check from Boston to Montreal, a watch chain and chain, a thick garter of fine quality. Besides these are a pair of gloves, a hat, a pocket watch, a seal-skin and catalogue. Mr. Brodner, of Nashua, came to the morgue to learn the fate of his daughter Della, who took the passenger coach on Friday night. No clue in connection her fate was found today. John Gaudette, of Nashua, is also seeking a brother-in-law, David Bond, of North Hero, Vt., also missing.

CONDITION OF THE SURVIVORS.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Feb. 7.—Mr. Mott says there were a number of berths not occupied in the car. He went to sleep before reaching White River Junction and did not regain his consciousness until Saturday morning, when he awoke and found himself in a room alone. He has no recollection of going down into the river and being rescued. He is not seriously injured. Jos. Jacques, of Fitchburg, reports himself as better. James Kiler, of Burke, N. Y., was also better. A. A. Wheeler, had severe bruises and his left arm is badly contused. John C. Hutchings, of Nashua, was feeling improved. Howard Smith is better and leaves for the north this morning. The other wounded persons with scarcely an exception are doing as well as could be expected. None of the passengers received injuries from the wreck have lived out of their injuries.

RARE QUANTITIES IN A CLERIC.

Choicer quarry has one of these rare charges with hard work to it, to a city church with better pay. Rev. J. Mellinger, pastor of the Reformed congregation of Brown's hill, in East Coventry, and St. Peter's, at Knauersay, has been offered the office of pastor of St. Paul's Reformed church, Lancaster, from a sense of duty, notwithstanding the fact that he is offered one-fourth more salary at Lancaster.

WENT TO LEBANON.

Rev. C. W. Stewart and Judge D. W. Patterson went to Lebanon today to attend the dedication of a Presbyterian church there. Rev. Dr. J. Y. Mitchell and others will go this evening.

STREETS BANK AUTHORIZED.

The comptroller of the currency has authorized the Shrewsbury National bank of Pennsylvania to commence business with a capital of $100,000. The officers are: Peter M. Killenber, president, and John H. Fisher, cashier.

WED AND YR.

From the Philadelphia Press. Unfortunately, no interstate commerce law can regulate the loss of life on the rail.

THE RAILROAD HORROR.

CONDUCTOR AT THE WHEEL OF THE DEAD AND WOUNDED.

Conductor Bean's Statement as to the Number of People in His Train—The Ghastly Array of the Dead—Stunning Account of the Improved Morgue.

Further news from Woodstock, Vt., brings out more strongly than ever the appalling nature of Saturday morning's accident. It is another Astbury disaster with added horrors and a longer list of victims. It is by no means certain that all the passengers who were on the Montreal express train on Friday were yet been accounted for. The railroad official insist that there were not more than thirty or thirty-two people in the wreck. According to Conductor Bean's statement, made after consulting, as far as possible, the ticket agent's check list, there were thirty-five tickets sold for the two Boston cars. Sixteen of the passengers had the Pullman sleeper and the other twenty travelled in the day cars. Thirty tickets were sold on the Connecticut River roads, the Central Vermont, the Sullivan County and Vermont Valley, for points north of Bethel. Two passengers got on the train at White River Junction, making 33 in all for the two Connecticut cars. Twenty of these had berths in the second Pullman sleeping car. There were ten train hands, and the grand total of passengers consequently, according to the railroad authorities' computation, was 43. The ticket agent, E. J. Johnson, thought not to have bought tickets on the same day that they were to take the journey, or to have boarded the train and bought Pullman berths afterwards. Ten men and women escaped the wreck on the engine and baggage and postal car, which had a few seats in it. The engine, which was of the "C" class, had three dead bodies had been found or had passed through the hands of the White River Junction. E. J. Johnson. Thirty wounded persons were accounted for by Charles F. Farber, the attorney for the Central Vermont and Pennsylvanian railroads. He stated that twenty-two had gone away without giving his name. The others appear in the list of injured parties. He also stated that twenty-one were accounted for in consequence of 77, which lies closely enough with the calculation made by Conductor Bean and other railroad men. Of the thirty-two ticketed only eleven have so far been identified.

NAMES OF THE VICTIMS.

Thirty Lives Lost in the Railroad Horror Near White River Junction, Vermont. HARTFORD, Vt., Feb. 7. The following is the latest compilation of list of those who were killed in the railroad wreck near White River, Mass., Monday morning, Feb. 6. Identified by watch and ring: South C. Stewart, conductor, St. Albans; died yesterday; F. L. Weston, Springfield, Mass.; S. S. Wootcut, of Burlington, and his son; M. K. Burgess, Boston, conductor of Pullman car; Edward Rockwood, known also as Banks; of Westchester, N. Y.; Charles D. D. Marlett, of Lowell, Mass.; Mrs. D. W. Winslow, identified yesterday; Miss Borden, of Nashua, N. H.; Charles E. Bonnet, of New York City, traveling for a jewelry firm; John H. Butler, of New York; Mr. J. W. Pignin; Mr. Cassens; Mr. Stone, hotel keeper of Montreal; unknown Irish in woolen sack; three bodies discovered at nightfall; body supposed to be that of a woman, buried by no name recognition. Among the injured whose names have not been previously reported are: Jas. Lilly, of Lowell, Mass.; Charles B. Knickerbocker, of Boston, injured about the back and neck; George Lang, Montreal, right eye closed, head cut, arm and back hurt; Mrs. Boisvert, of Angeline, Canada, head bruised; Geo. Pariser, trainman, chin cut; Jos. Jannville, of Seaton, N. Y., badly bruised.

White River Junction, Feb. 7.—On one side of Main street, Hartford, is a dilapidated low-roofed frame building which is used as an improvised morgue and is filled with the victims of the accident. Hundreds of villagers and visitors yesterday sought admission to this house of death, some drawn here by curiosity, some to see the bodies in purpose of searching for missing friends and relatives. Lying on the floor were the remains of about thirty human beings, many being buried beyond recognition. The walls were hung with clothing of the dead passengers of the ill-fated train, while tables were covered with their personal articles, including hats, coats, neckties, seal-skin sashes, watches, rings, suit buttons, books and various other valuables, mixed up the pile of recovered effects. Among the property recovered which may serve as clues for identification are the remains of a chin-skin overcoat, with velvet collar, found on the body of a man, and a revolver, which was placed, another plain, one nickel plated and rubber hand, corkscrews, etc. One black flannel dress or overskirt with a waistlet and a sun of money. A check from Boston to Montreal, a watch chain and chain, a thick garter of fine quality. Besides these are a pair of gloves, a hat, a pocket watch, a seal-skin and catalogue. Mr. Brodner, of Nashua, came to the morgue to learn the fate of his daughter Della, who took the passenger coach on Friday night. No clue in connection her fate was found today. John Gaudette, of Nashua, is also seeking a brother-in-law, David Bond, of North Hero, Vt., also missing.

CONDITION OF THE SURVIVORS.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Feb. 7.—Mr. Mott says there were a number of berths not occupied in the car. He went to sleep before reaching White River Junction and did not regain his consciousness until Saturday morning, when he awoke and found himself in a room alone. He has no recollection of going down into the river and being rescued. He is not seriously injured. Jos. Jacques, of Fitchburg, reports himself as better. James Kiler, of Burke, N. Y., was also better. A. A. Wheeler, had severe bruises and his left arm is badly contused. John C. Hutchings, of Nashua, was feeling improved. Howard Smith is better and leaves for the north this morning. The other wounded persons with scarcely an exception are doing as well as could be expected. None of the passengers received injuries from the wreck have lived out of their injuries.

RARE QUANTITIES IN A CLERIC.

Choicer quarry has one of these rare charges with hard work to it, to a city church with better pay. Rev. J. Mellinger, pastor of the Reformed congregation of Brown's hill, in East Coventry, and St. Peter's, at Knauersay, has been offered the office of pastor of St. Paul's Reformed church, Lancaster, from a sense of duty, notwithstanding the fact that he is offered one-fourth more salary at Lancaster.

WENT TO LEBANON.

Rev. C. W. Stewart and Judge D. W. Patterson went to Lebanon today to attend the dedication of a Presbyterian church there. Rev. Dr. J. Y. Mitchell and others will go this evening.

STREETS BANK AUTHORIZED.

The comptroller of the currency has authorized the Shrewsbury National bank of Pennsylvania to commence business with a capital of $100,000. The officers are: Peter M. Killenber, president, and John H. Fisher, cashier.

WED AND YR.

From the Philadelphia Press. Unfortunately, no interstate commerce law can regulate the loss of life on the rail.

THE RAILROAD HORROR.

CONDUCTOR AT THE WHEEL OF THE DEAD AND WOUNDED.

Conductor Bean's Statement as to the Number of People in His Train—The Ghastly Array of the Dead—Stunning Account of the Improved Morgue.

Further news from Woodstock, Vt., brings out more strongly than ever the appalling nature of Saturday morning's accident. It is another Astbury disaster with added horrors and a longer list of victims. It is by no means certain that all the passengers who were on the Montreal express train on Friday were yet been accounted for. The railroad official insist that there were not more than thirty or thirty-two people in the wreck. According to Conductor Bean's statement, made after consulting, as far as possible, the ticket agent's check list, there were thirty-five tickets sold for the two Boston cars. Sixteen of the passengers had the Pullman sleeper and the other twenty travelled in the day cars. Thirty tickets were sold on the Connecticut River roads, the Central Vermont, the Sullivan County and Vermont Valley, for points north of Bethel. Two passengers got on the train at White River Junction, making 33 in all for the two Connecticut cars. Twenty of these had berths in the second Pullman sleeping car. There were ten train hands, and the grand total of passengers consequently, according to the railroad authorities' computation, was 43. The ticket agent, E. J. Johnson, thought not to have bought tickets on the same day that they were to take the journey, or to have boarded the train and bought Pullman berths afterwards. Ten men and women escaped the wreck on the engine and baggage and postal car, which had a few seats in it. The engine, which was of the "C" class, had three dead bodies had been found or had passed through the hands of the White River Junction. E. J. Johnson. Thirty wounded persons were accounted for by Charles F. Farber, the attorney for the Central Vermont and Pennsylvanian railroads. He stated that twenty-two had gone away without giving his name. The others appear in the list of injured parties. He also stated that twenty-one were accounted for in consequence of 77, which lies closely enough with the calculation made by Conductor Bean and other railroad men. Of the thirty-two ticketed only eleven have so far been identified.

NAMES OF THE VICTIMS.

Thirty Lives Lost in the Railroad Horror Near White River Junction, Vermont. HARTFORD, Vt., Feb. 7. The following is the latest compilation of list of those who were killed in the railroad wreck near White River, Mass., Monday morning, Feb. 6. Identified by watch and ring: South C. Stewart, conductor, St. Albans; died yesterday; F. L. Weston, Springfield, Mass.; S. S. Wootcut, of Burlington, and his son; M. K. Burgess, Boston, conductor of Pullman car; Edward Rockwood, known also as Banks; of Westchester, N. Y.; Charles D. D. Marlett, of Lowell, Mass.; Mrs. D. W. Winslow, identified yesterday; Miss Borden, of Nashua, N. H.; Charles E. Bonnet, of New York City, traveling for a jewelry firm; John H. Butler, of New York; Mr. J. W. Pignin; Mr. Cassens; Mr. Stone, hotel keeper of Montreal; unknown Irish in woolen sack; three bodies discovered at nightfall; body supposed to be that of a woman, buried by no name recognition. Among the injured whose names have not been previously reported are: Jas. Lilly, of Lowell, Mass.; Charles B. Knickerbocker, of Boston, injured about the back and neck; George Lang, Montreal, right eye closed, head cut, arm and back hurt; Mrs. Boisvert, of Angeline, Canada, head bruised; Geo. Pariser, trainman, chin cut; Jos. Jannville, of Seaton, N. Y., badly bruised.

White River Junction, Feb. 7.—On one side of Main street, Hartford, is a dilapidated low-roofed frame building which is used as an improvised morgue and is filled with the victims of the accident. Hundreds of villagers and visitors yesterday sought admission to this house of death, some drawn here by curiosity, some to see the bodies in purpose of searching for missing friends and relatives. Lying on the floor were the remains of about thirty human beings, many being buried beyond recognition. The walls were hung with clothing of the dead passengers of the ill-fated train, while tables were covered with their personal articles, including hats, coats, neckties, seal-skin sashes, watches, rings, suit buttons, books and various other valuables, mixed up the pile of recovered effects. Among the property recovered which may serve as clues for identification are the remains of a chin-skin overcoat, with velvet collar, found on the body of a man, and a revolver, which was placed, another plain, one nickel plated and rubber hand, corkscrews, etc. One black flannel dress or overskirt with a waistlet and a sun of money. A check from Boston to Montreal, a watch chain and chain, a thick garter of fine quality. Besides these are a pair of gloves, a hat, a pocket watch, a seal-skin and catalogue. Mr. Brodner, of Nashua, came to the morgue to learn the fate of his daughter Della, who took the passenger coach on Friday night. No clue in connection her fate was found today. John Gaudette, of Nashua, is also seeking a brother-in-law, David Bond, of North Hero, Vt., also missing.

CONDITION OF THE SURVIVORS.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Feb. 7.—Mr. Mott says there were a number of berths not occupied in the car. He went to sleep before reaching White River Junction and did not regain his consciousness until Saturday morning, when he awoke and found himself in a room alone. He has no recollection of going down into the river and being rescued. He is not seriously injured. Jos. Jacques, of Fitchburg, reports himself as better. James Kiler, of Burke, N. Y., was also better. A. A. Wheeler, had severe bruises and his left arm is badly contused. John C. Hutchings, of Nashua, was feeling improved. Howard Smith is better and leaves for the north this morning. The other wounded persons with scarcely an exception are doing as well as could be expected. None of the passengers received injuries from the wreck have lived out of their injuries.

RARE QUANTITIES IN A CLERIC.

Choicer quarry has one of these rare charges with hard work to it, to a city church with better pay. Rev. J. Mellinger, pastor of the Reformed congregation of Brown's hill, in East Coventry, and St. Peter's, at Knauersay, has been offered the office of pastor of St. Paul's Reformed church, Lancaster, from a sense of duty, notwithstanding the fact that he is offered one-fourth more salary at Lancaster.

WENT TO LEBANON.

Rev. C. W. Stewart and Judge D. W. Patterson went to Lebanon today to attend the dedication of a Presbyterian church there. Rev. Dr. J. Y. Mitchell and others will go this evening.

STREETS BANK AUTHORIZED.

The comptroller of the currency has authorized the Shrewsbury National bank of Pennsylvania to commence business with a capital of $100,000. The officers are: Peter M. Killenber, president, and John H. Fisher, cashier.

WED AND YR.

From the Philadelphia Press. Unfortunately, no interstate commerce law can regulate the loss of life on the rail.

BIG SALE OF SECURITIES.

FIGURES THAT SHOW THE MARKET PRICES OF SOME OF THE POPULAR SECURITIES THAT HAVE THEIR ABIDING PLACES IN CITY AND COUNTY OBTAINED AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE YESTERDAY.

Figures That Show the Market Prices of Some of the Popular Securities That Have Their Abiding Places in City and County Obtained at the Franklin House Yest.

Jacob B. Long, broker, through Sam Matt Friday, auctioneer, sold the following securities at the Franklin house this afternoon for the administrators of John H. Swarr, deceased: Five shares of Fulton National bank stock to Menno P. Swarr at $198.75 per share. Ten shares of same to E. J. Kendig at $197. Five shares of same to same party at $195.75. Five shares of First National bank of Mt. Joy to Jacob R. Harshy at $150 per share. Five shares of Northern National bank to B. L. Hess at $137.50. $1,000 Quarryville railroad, 7 per cent. bonds at $110.75 per $100, to George K. Reed. $1,000 of the same bonds at $111, to the same purchaser.

Mr. Long also sold for other parties the following stocks: Fifteen shares of Fulton National bank stock, at $196.50, to J. W. B. Bauman. Ten shares of Northern National bank stock, at $137.50, per share. Five shares of First National bank stock, to Levi Howell, at $115.50. Ten shares of same stock, to E. H. Harshy, at $115.50 per share. Ten shares of same stock, to John D. Herr, at $115.75 per share. Six shares of same to B. F. Montgomery, at $117.25 per share. Five shares of Lancaster County National bank stock to A. E. Hersey at $118.05 per share. Five shares of same stock to Ephraim Harshy at $118.05. Ten shares of same stock to Jacob S. Shirsh at $118.25. Five shares of same to E. L. Metzger at $118.05. Twenty shares of same to James R. McNaughton at $115.95. Five shares of Western market stock to Wm. Z. Sauer at $7.90. Five shares of same stock to same purchaser at $7.40.

THE STRIKE SITUATION.

New Workmen Doing the Work Satisfactorily Along the New York Tracks.

New York, Feb. 7.—West and South streets, which lay along the river front, were crowded yesterday with the strikers who were endeavoring to-day to watch the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men were handling freight almost fully as well as the strikers could. At the pier of the Jersey Central railroad 200 American clerks were handling the freight, and the Pennsylvania railroad piers, 27 and 29 North river, matters were going on smoothly. Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the president of the New York & New England railroad, when called upon by the United Press reporter to-day said he had heard reports that assembly 40 of the Knights of Labor intended to hold their annual convention at the foot of the piers at which they had been employed previous to the strike. They saw little to encourage them. At most of the docks the new men