TO THE WASTE BASEST.

It is given out from Washington that the friends of Hon. Chauncey F. Black, have resented his name to the president for appointment on the board of the inter-state merce commissioners. The suggestion is a peculiarly happy one Mr. Black's mental equipment is of that character well suited to the consideration of affairs of state. He has the leisure for their careful consideration and thorough digestion. And, best of all, he has the clear-eyed mental vision to see the right and the courage to follow it.

Besides these qualifications, Mr. Black is a Democrat of Democrats, honored and loved by his party in the state. And if the president desires to place a l'ennsylvanian on this commission, he can make no mis take in the selection of the able standardbearer of the Democracy in the late elec med on the subject of car-heating,

Time To Halt. It is pretty generally believed that the president will veto the indigent soldiers pension bill now before him. Such an act would be only an exhibition of ordinary prudence. For the pension list of the United States for the current year, amounting to $76,000,000, represents the interest at 3 per cent, of a public debt of over $2,500,000,000. At present the interest on the funded debt is about $45,000,000, and the pension list $76,000,000, a total of $121,000,000 This represents a debt of over $4,000,000,000 at 3 per cent., and it is $1,224,000,000 higher than the war debt at its highest point. Is it any wonder that the president should interpose his veto to prevent this wasteful and dangerous use of the people's money

MASSACHUSSETS pays its governor $5,000 year, and Boston gives its mayor a salary o $10,000 per annum. Insamuch as Governo Ames has an income of $100,000 a year, it is believed that he will be assisted in keeping the well from the door by raising his salar; from $5,000 to $10,000.

Ar the January meeting of the New England Railroad club many prominent railroad managers and half a dozen or more inventors discussed the question of car-heating. It was demonstrated that the difficulties in the way of heating cars with steam from the engine are by no means so formidable as represented. One plan of this kind has been in use for five years on the Connecticut River railroad. There is a small boller under each car which is filled with the drip from the ongine. This boiler can be fired up when or if the engine is detached from the train. At Holyoke the company has pipes arranged so that the cars can be hested from a station ary boiler. Another steam-heating invention is in use on the Boston & Albany railroad and its inventor at the meeting in question stated that "the objection that steam taken from the engine would cripple it has been proved, on the Boston & Albany railroad, to be entirely baseless." He contended further "that the economy and salety to be obtained in heating from the engine are sufficient to lead every railroad to change its methods of operating its passenger service." During the discussion other plans were advo cated, such as heating with hot water and with hot air. Both of these, however, required the use of tires either in or under the care, and while the last named disposition of the stove may diminish the danger in case structive material, because of its of accident, it does not remove it.

MR. PARNELL made a strong speech in the House of Commons on Monday in support of his amendment opposing coercion and urging reform in the laws and system of government of Ireland. He pointed to the fulfillment of his prophecies so often made that coercion would never establish peaceful that coercion would never establish peaceful relations between Ireland and England and warned the government that if they persisted in their determination to crush the "plan of campaign," they would find that the work of suppression had only begun and agrarian and political crimes would revive. He asked whether the government could expect a nation three-fourths Catholic to be content to have no representation of their faith in the jury trials of their country. In suppressing meetings of late the policy of the government has been to exclude Catholics from juries. He showed that there was but little generosity in the offer of the landlords to take a half year's rent and costs when those costs smounted to two years' rent. He attached no importance to the government's declaration against the "plan of campaign," and praised the "plan" as having afforded great relief. Almost every title to Irish land was founded on wholesale robbery and confiscation, and yet the government talked of robbery of landlords. He then spoke bitterly of the system of seizing improvements made by the tenants and, reverting again to coercion, said that if the government would abandon it and let Ireland do what England could not do for her, she would show by her laws, tranquility and prosperity how unjust was the assertion that her people were no

It is well known that great numbers of Indians die from consumption, although this was not the case before they met the white man, and medical men have speculated freely as to the reason. Now, H. C. Wyman suggests through Science that change of dress is responsible. "Before he came under the influence of civilization, the Indian was clothed in garments that would not interfere with the free action of the pores of the skin." Civilization gives him clothing that impedes the normal action of the skin, and as he has not been schooled to bear it as the white man for many generations, his lunge have too much work to do, and unless remarkably strong they must succumb. " The

EXPERIENCE WITH A BILO.

The Marvellous Chespuess of the Food It Pro-Mr. George W. Koiner, a leading farmer and stock-raiser of Augusta county, Va., has ed the Ste following account of his experience with

"Last August I put up a frame building 12 by 12 feet and 12 feet high. The frame is Sinches planked up on both sides. The space between was filled with sawdust. I put in a plank floor and covered with plank, with a door in one corner at the ground. The build-ing did not cost over $20, with an estimated capacity of 30 tons. On August 23d green capacity of 30 tons. On August 23d green corn was cut. Not having planted the corn for the purpose, and only as an experiment, I selected the lightest growth in the cornfield. The corn was cut in half-inch lengths by steam power, and during the filling of the silo three men tramped the cut fodder as tight as they could pack it. The silo was only half filled full, not feeling sure that this plan of house would keep it well. The top was then covered with one and a half feet dry wheat chaff and placed loose plant, closely then covered with one and a half feet dry wheat chaff and placed loose plank, closely fitted, covering the entire top. Upon the plank was put two feet of stone. The gable-ends were nailed up and the job was completed at a cost of about $1 per ton.

"On December 5 I opened the door at the bottom made for the purpose of getting the castlage out. I found it in splendid condition, except a few inches around the sides and on top. Fearing there would be some trouble to teach stock to eat it, some of the ensilage was offered to horses, cows and hogs—all ate it at once with as much relish as if it was green clover. After feeding the ensilage —all ale it at once with as much relish as if it was green clover. After feeding the enallage a few days to cows, they increased their flow of milk, besides giving a richer quality. The stock, which have been fed upon ensilage alone, except access to a straw stack, have increased in weight and manifest an increased apetite and taste for it. It is said that green clover, cut when in bloom, makes a good ensilage as green corn. Clover that will make one and a balf tons of hay will make 20 tons of ensilage per acre, and corn that will make 40 to 50 bushels per acre will make about 25 tons ensilage.

"The use of ensilage will produce a revotons ensitage.

"The use of ensitage will produce a revolution in farming and stock-raising. The present low prices, demanding a change from the old management of stock-raising, ensitage is the one great penaces for the stock-raiser. Instead of selling wheat at less than cost of production, beef can be grown at almost half the cost under the present management. Cattle will thrive and grow through the winter as in summer, and a steer raised on ensitage during the winter months, at two years old would be about as large as at three under the ordinary regime, thus saving a year's feed. It will open up the dairy business in a new light. Milk and butter can be produced in the same quantity and cost in winter as in summer.

"Writers on the subject who have fed ensitage, claim that one acre of heavy clover or corn ensitage will feed four cows six months; if it will only keep half that number it will be a wonderful improvement upon the present way of wintering stock. Stock have been fattened upon ensitage exclusively.

"Sir J. B. Lawes, the eminent English agriculturist, after experimenting with ensitage, says it loses only one-tenth of its nutritive value as compared to its green state. Ensitage is rich in albuminoids and nitrogenous substance, and the process of fermentation which it undergoes in the sito is said to take the place of one degree in digestion.

"The idea that a sito is expensive has deterred many farmers from trying it. The above-described plan is as cheap as can be made and has proven to keep ensitage about as well as the more expensive underground plans. The sito has come to stay and will enable every farmer who uses it to keep double the number of stock and keep them much better and at less cost. It is as applicable to sheep husbandry as any other stock, and hogs are said to winter very well upon it."
