The men who now clamor the loudest for things are the very men who should tear the blame for permitting our defenses fall so far behind the age that our coast a now at the mercy of almost any navy. The Republican leaders in Congress seem taink that the twenty-one million appriation for army and navy guns and fortifications is, their especial plume, that they can get a great deal of credit the country by claiming all the glory 11. Considering that the bills passed the to without opposition, there is not ry substantial foundation for this claim ; Mr. Reed, of Maine, hastens, upon the ent of their introduction into the done, to ask their immediate conderation, without the usual reference the appropriation committee, and thinks he did a very smart thing in drawing the resistance of the Democratic leadto any such hasty performance.

Gress Stupidity.

The fire on Wednesday evening, whereby the engine house on East King street, occupied by No. 3 company and truck A, was heavily damaged by flames and water, was ridiculous in one phase and quite serious in another. It would be laughable to think of a building specially devoted to fire prevention uses quietly burning while two firemen were on duty, if it were not for the fact that the tax-payers will have to pay for the fun. vas returned without opposition. For in the inscrutable wisdom of the fire committee of councils, it was decided not to place any insurance on the building. They, good men, regarded it as absurd that a building filled with fire apparatus, and occupied by men whose exclusive duty it was to fight fires, should be insured. They thought that a $7,000 building owned by the city was too cheap a property to bother about when surrounded by guards such as those enumerated. And now when the taxpayer looks at the mournful wreck, and thinks of the loss that he must pay, what wonder that he complains of the numbskulls that are allowed to control the municipal administration.

If fires are going to break out and burn disastrously in the abiding place of the fireman, the city had better take out policies of life insurance on the employes of the fire department ; as they seem to be in great danger of cremation in their engine

A Departure. Mr. Corbin has departed from the regul lation laid upon themselves generally by railroad presidents and has met a committee of the dissatisfied employes of the Reading road. Their conference has resulted in agreement and the policy of arbitration is established in the administration of the affairs of this company. It is understood that in case of future difficulty, conference is to be used between Mr. Corbin and a representative of the workmen, and that if they do not agree, an umpire will be called in whose decision will be final.

The railroad presidents generally hold up their hands in horror at such a frank confession of the propriety of their meeting their employes in consultation in case of difference between them. But when the employes stand together on one side it is not very reasonable to say that they should not be conferred with.

It may be soon necessary for firemen to insure themselves against burning up while asleep.

A BILL has been introduced in the legisisture providing for the appointment of a state archieologist. The business of this officer would not be very heavy, as the only antiquities we possess are a few mounds, vast quantity of stone arrow-heads and weapons, and an occasional trace of a prehistoric man. There are rocks in the beds of our rivers on which the archeologist might waste some time, but how many of their hieroglyphic inscriptions are the work of enterprising boatmen anxious to please tour-ists it will be bard to tell.

THE coal and freight handlers' strikes seem to have reached their final stage and the strikers are bitterly counting the cost, but the eighty-four men who began the movement by the strike at Elizabethport, N. J., against a reduction of wages have at least the satisfaction of knowing that they have bailled the coal barons. The Port Richmond men work at the old rate, and their brethren of Elizabeth port have only the glory, as work at the latter point will probably be abandoned. The result in New York does not appear doubtful, as the new men are rapidly becoming skilled in the work of freight-handling and crowds of the old men are seeking em and hasty, headlong and unconsidered ployment. So the strike has served to fix the narket value of the labor, but at what er ions cost has this fact been determined. It ertainly is a method of research and costly to oth sides, but there is room for hope that by sad experience the employers and organized laborers will learn better how to arbi

> It would seem an easy matter for the leaders of the men to have learned beforehand that there was pienty of surplus labor ready to rush to any vacancy and that the skill to handle freight was not so difficult of acquirement. On the other side, the employers have deserved censure for their peremptory tone in dealing with their men and having lost many times the sum at issue in the first dispute will learn better manners in future.

In the New York legislature a bill has been ntroduced that no employer shall 'coerce or compel" his employe to agree not to enter a labor organization. The penalty for doing this is to be imprisonment or a fine, or both. It is sheer waste of time to even talk of such a project. Every employer who has the money to pay wages for service has the right to make any conditions whatever with his workmen, and the workmen can agree to them or not, just as they choose. The later market is an open market. No man has a right to go to this market and "compet or cerce" any laborer to do anything he doesn't

IT cost the state $4,000 to inaugurate Gover. nor Beaver, who at once signed a bill to make Philadelphia taxpayers $12,000 poorer annually. Is the game worth the candle?

THE proposed conference of Central and South American states with this country will be regarded with distrust by the weaker nations, who have vivid recollections of our unfriendly policy towards them in the past, and more especially of Mr. Biaine's attempt to force the United States into the position of an arbitrator between Chill and Peru. Mr. Blaine was outwitted and battled as he deserved to be, but the impression left by his conduct is not such as will inspire trust in the disinterested wish of the United States to draw the nations of the Western hemisphere together in closer sympathy, and to lesser the danger of war by providing for arbitration. An arbitrator who has once claimed the office An arotrator who has once claimed the once by a threat will hardly be chosen to fill it by the voluntary action of his neighbors, and Mr. Blaine's miserable diplomacy has made it very difficult to establish a decent respect for our country in the minds of our southern

ANDREW D. WHITE, when a student in Germany, stiended the lectures of Von Ranke, the historian. In a recent article Mr. White says of Ranke: White says of Ranke: "He had a habit of becoming so absorbed in his subject as to slip down in his chair, holding his finger up toward the ceiling, and then, with his eyes fastened on the tip of it, go mumbling through a kind of rhapsody, which most of my German fellow students contessed they could not understand. It was a comical sight—half a dozen students convenient are a like decay. dezen students crowding around his desk listening to the professor as priests might listen to the sityl on her tripod, the other students being scattered through the room in various stages of discouragement."
