terming the tracks are still flooded, ing the running of trains. But lit-lowever, has succeeded in passing the mariendes of ice which line the river of married or ice which line the river, the that, as soon as the water recedes, it will be resumed. The condition of the morth of Washington, where the flood water, is of such a nature that the road s greases, is of such a nature that the road is threatened with similar danger of a week igo. Considerable ice and many logs are descending the river, and unless they have a clear passage, the barriendes will be forced forward the tracks again blockaded with lee. However, there is a possibility of this langer being avoided, namely, the destruction of the gorges causing the sudden rise.

Will the Columbia Fire company have a

Will the Columbia Fire company have a new steamer, or will their old one be rebuilt? is a question that is agitating council, members of the company and citizens in general. It will be decided to night, when council and the company will confer on the subject. That it is advisable to purchase a new engine is beyond question, for it can be bought at a very little more than will be required to rebuild the old engine.

British Bercesus.

The London Globe comments as follows on the law's delay" in America: "After "the law's delay" in America: "After sentences have been passed in America the law of the republic holds as a first principle that every possible chance should be given to a suspect to prove his innocence. The law will not take a mean advantage of a suspect simply because circumstances are cruel toward aim. In a few years the witnesses might begue the points of their evidence, or die, or become aldermen, or in some other way make themselves unworthy of trust. The prisoner himself in the interval might succumb to high living or old age, but that would be his own look out, and the law would only pity his misfortune in thus untimely dropping off when there was a good prospect of a flaw being discovered in the supreme court to favor an entire retrial. In no part of the world has orime a better chance of excepting with impunity than in the great republic."

The Next Senate.

From the New York World.

The chances are that after the 4th of March the Republicans will have but 39 votes a the Senate. This will leave the Democrate if the Senate. This will leave the Democrate if the Senate, and the admission of Turple, Indiana, will effect this result. The main interest in the situation centres in the fact that the poculiarly independent Riddleberger as it in his power to decide whether the Republicans shall have a majority or not on any five question. The other members of the arty can be depended on, but Riddleberger with the properties of the sense that is due him. diseases & Clay Miller, wife and childs Wednesday & Clay Miller, wife and child; Richard Bilokenderier, wife and child, lernet Carpenter, Harry Demuth and a few others left Lancaster for the purpose of seeing the great ice gorges in the Susqueleina river. They went by rail to Columbia at Port Deposit road as far as Fite's Eddy. The ice in many pasce is piled up almost "as high as a bouss," and a solid gorge extends from Washington borough. The railroad for miles was covered with water and great blocks of floating ice, and the progress down the river was very slow in consequence.

On their return from Fite's Eddy, the party learned on reaching Safe Harbor that the river was rapidly rising above that point and it would be unsale to attempt to go turther by rail, as the ice and water were two or three test deep on the tracks. Demuth, Carpenter and Shertz, went by rail down the river, crossed over to Oxford and thence to Philadelphia.

A GREAT BIG BRAN STORY.

Showing the Evils of Coming to Myberante To-R. E. Best, a furrier of Rondout, N. Y., has become the possessor of a bear skin which, he says, he has never seen equalled in his thirty-six years of furrier experience. The skin measures from snout to tip of tall seven fest, and it is noe feet in width. Where the measures twenty-seven inches across. hair is thick and long.

The bear was killed in the town of Denning

The bear was killed in the town of Denning, Ulster county, last Monday. It is unusual to find bears at this season of the year, as they seldom venture out of their holes till after midwinter. This shaggy monster, however, was prowiling around the locality known as The Forkes, situated near the junction of the east and west branches of the Neversink.

Tracks were discovered near the house of Tracks were discovered near the house of John Moore who, accompanied by several well-known hunters of that wild region, started on the trail. They followed the bear tracks for miles along the Neversink, thence tracks for miles along the Neversink, thence across to Willowemoc and over the mountains to Fall Brook. The anow was deep on the mountains, but the crust was not strong enough to bear the weight of a man, so at every step they went through. After traveling about twenty miles the hardy hunters were forced to camp out for the night. Early in the morning they started on the trial again, and before many miles had been traversed, bruin was discovered on the west side of the ravine of Flat Brook. A man named Black leveled his carbine—a seven shooter—and fired, but the ball did not strike in a vital portion of the body, and the wounded brute turned angrily on his assailant. The degs of the party, three in number, distracted the bear's attention some-ing one of the beast's fore legs, but even with its broken leg the bear trotted along so rapidly that the nearest hunter had difficulty in keeping up with it.

At one time two of the dogs grabbed the bear's hind legs and were dragged a considbear's hind legs and were dragged a considerable distance without perceptibly diminishing the brute's speed. A third dog caught one of bruin's fore legs in its teeth and the enraged animal turned on its tormenter, seized the canine and bit one of its paws nearly through. With a cry of pain the dog dropped in the snow and the bear trotted on unconcernedly. The hunter whose dog had been injured hurried up, vowing vengeance on the formidable animal. The bear, bieseding from several wounds, turned on the hunter, who, knowing it a question of life or death, dropped on one knee and aimed carefully. The shot was a telling one. The bear staggered and was a telling one. The bear staggered and at last fell to the ground. Eleven bullet holes were found in the skin, one ball hav-ing traversed the entire length of the body. The carcass weighed 400 pounds, and Moore, who killed pineteen bears last season. says it was the largest animal of the kind ever

MISS FAT HAS JUST RETURNED FROM AN EXTENDED TOUR THROUGH.

Mise Fay is positively the only lady in the world who has the indorsement of the Royal Scientific Society of London, Kugland, they having for three months tested her in every conceivable way that human ingenuity could suggest, and at the finish of their investigation presenting her with a parchment certifying to the effect that the illustrations given in their presence were beyond human aid. Such scientists as Professors Crooks, Tyndall, Varley, Sargent, Cox and the Duke of Edinburgh—some claimed odic force, some electricity or magnetism, and still others supernatural power. Mise Fay calls it Spiritualism. You call it what you may.

Spirit Forms, Hands and Faces Materialized so plainly as to be recognized by persons in the audience. Tables will ficat in mid air. The Spirit Hand will answer any question. Twenty to thirty communications will be received for persons in the audience. Heautiful flowers will be materialized and passed to the ladies in the audience by hands plainly seen, and other tests of this remarkable power never before witnessed in any scance in America. remarkable power never before witnessed in any seance in America.
