THE CITY ELECTION.

The Republicans Carry Seven of the Nine Wards.

THE DEST INCREASE GETS A BIG MAJORITY.

Big of the Nine Wards Vote for It and It Gots Majority of 608 -An Average Republican Majority of About 800 on the School Board Tieset-A Quiet and Orderly Election.

The election in this city yesterday was one of the quietest that has been held here for years, and has resulted in the regular Repub-lican victory. The Republicans carried their ticket in seven of the nine wards. The new city council will stand on joint ballot-Republican, 28; Democrata, 8.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon indication ointed to a very light vote. After that hour, however, there was a heavy poll, and the number of votes cast will equal the off-year city election vote: The debt question brought out many others who would not otherwise have voted. It was believed that a majority vote would be cast against the increase, but to the surprise of even the iriends of the measure the vote shows a majority of over els hundred in its favor. For an increese of the debt was carried in als

The contest for ward officers was not very spirited in any of the wards except the Second, Seventh and Fifth. In the First ward the withdrawal of Eberman as candidate for alderman early in the day stopped an exciting contest for that office. In the Fifth ward the Republicans, but the majority was too much

In the Seventh ward the Republicans made a great effort to beat Knapp council, Merringer for constable, Garvin for assessor. Schwebel was man centered upon to beat Knapp, but he was unable to get there, although he ran some fifty votes ahead of his ticket. The fight against Merringer and Garvin, on the part of the Republicans, was aided by the treschery of a few Democrata, but their scheme in the distribution of bogus tickets was detected early in the day, and the harm that might have been was prevented.

In the Eighth ward there was considerable scratching. Some Democrats who were liou of a constable, worked openly for Peter Ritchie, Republican, an ex-member of the police force, instead of John Roerich, the oney had been collected for Ritchie by the politicians through the city, and this was freely spent in his interest. The game did not work, however, and Roerich was seted by a majority of 164. The Republican forces in the Ninth ward were led by Jake Bertz, and some others of his kind, and they worked hard. "Chuck" Boas, the Republican constable, led his ticket. There was very little excitement on the streets. All the newspaper offices were closed and Centre Square was simost deberted by mine o clock.

The Tra Increase Voted.

Much interest was feit everywhere last night over the result of the vote on the proposition to increase the debt $125,000 for water works and sewerage improvement. While there was no special effort apparent on the surface for or against it, the Republicans as a rule voted for it, perhaps influenced by the consideration of the partisan advantage the expenditure of the money would give them. There was a general belief that the measure would be beaten, and considerable surprise would be beaten, and considerable surprise was manifested in the result which is given below.

Tuesday evening the body of Mrs. Ellon Strickler, residing on Old Second street, Philadelphia, was brought from that city to Lancaster in charge of Undertaker J. Lewis Good, and taken directly to the crematorium and privately cremated. Her ashes were sent to her friends in Philadelphia to-day.

MANNING'S RESIGNATION.

WORK OF THE TREASURY DEPART MANT BAYOND BIS STREETH.

The Regret That His Recessory Action Co the President—The Correspondence Be-tween Mr. Cleveland and the Secretary of the Treasury.

There was a foolish rumor in Washingto that Secretary Manning had resigned on account of some disagreement between himself and the president. The correspondence made public sufficiently contradicts this report. Mr. Manning resigns, he writes, because the work of the treasury is beyond his attempt.

strength.

That is the plain truth of the matter. Th secretary was overworked and of late he he gan to worry—a sure sign that his faithful labors were telling on his health. Friends isbors were teiling on his health. Friends near enough him to advise began to urge him some weeks, when first his spirits seemed to fiss, to resign at ones, and it is known that he had the matter in contemplation for some time past.

Mr. Manning is not seriously ill, but he requires entire rest from the continuous work and the constant excitement of public life. He ought to go to Europe and remain for half a year at least away from all exacting labor and far out of the atmosphere of politics.

It is understood here that while the lat of April is fixed as the date at which the president will accept Mr. Manning's resignation, the name of his successor will be sent in to the Senate during the present session. CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE PRESI your kindness.

I have not spared myself in the endeavor to comply with your wish and to contribute to the support of the policies which have illustrated your administration. The approaching end of the Forty-ninth Congress marks a period in your own term of office and in the divisions of our political calendar. If a change must occur in the heads of departments and at your council board, it is clear that your personal convenience and the public interests are best subserved should it occur now.

Moreover, the financial situation is to be seriously different from that which opened before us when the present Congress entered upon its life and upon the opportunities created by a transfer of the people's trust to new hands. In this most critical condition the circumspect execution of a wise fiscal policy, or of administrative reforms in the collection and disbursement of our colossal revenues, is not alone demanded, though labors such as these have exacted and exhibited the sbillites of our foremost statesmen since the constitution of the government. But there is also an exhausting round of daily administrative tasks which, however, subordinate and clerical, an efficient secretary of the treasury cannot or should not evade. These are tasks beyond my present strength.

I therefore submit to your considerate judgment that in asking release by the fourth of March, or as soon as you may select my judgment that in asking release by the louring of March, or as soon as you may select my successor, I fulfil a duty to my family that may now be permitted to outweigh the duty of accepting longer that assignment of public

Returning to the ranks of that great party which has called you to its lead, I shall still hope to follow its fortunes under your successful guidance with a fellow citizen's loyat pride.

Very respectfully yours,

DANIEL MANNING.

THE PRESIDENT, Executive Mansion.

THE PRESIDENT ACCEPTS.

Daniel Manning, Secretary of the Tree My DEAR SIR—Your formal letter of re-signation, which I have received, though not entirely unexpected, presents the reality of a severance of our official relations, and a severance of our official relations, and causes me the deepest regret. This is tempered only by the knowledge that the frank and friendly personal relations which have unbrokenly existed between us are to still continue. I refer to these because such personal relations supply, after all, whatever of comfort and pleasure the world affords, and because I feel it to be most superfluous to speak of the aid and support you have given me and the assistance you have furnished to the administration of the government during the time you have directed the affairs of the exacting and laborious office which you now seek to surrender. Your labors, your schievements, your success and your devotion to public duty are fully seen and known, and they challenge the appreciation and gratitule of all your countrymen.

Since I must at last relinquish my hope of your continuance at my side as counseller.

Since I must at last relinquish my hope of your continuance at my side as counsellor and co-laborer, and since I cannot question the reasons upon which your request to be relieved is based, it only remains for me to accept the resignation you have tendered, and to express my profound thanks for all that you have done for me in sharing manifully my labors and perplexities of the past two years.

fully my labors and perplexities of the past two years.

I feel that I may still ask of you that the first day of April next be fixed as the date at which your resignation shall take effect, and that you will so regulate what remains to you of official duty in the meantime as to secure that measure of freedom from vexatious labor which you have so justly earned.

With the earnest hope that in any new path of life you may hereafter follow there may be followed to you more of comfort and of ease than a conscientious discharge of duty here permits, I am, very sincerely, your friend.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

SHAMELESS TOUNG WALTERS.

Teresa Troxell, a young woman of much beauty, but of doubtful reputation, lives in Easton, Pa. Recently E. P. Walters, a member of one of Easton's best families, became infatuated with Miss Troxell, and went openly to live with her at her house. The entreaties of his family to leave the woman were of no avail, and or Estarder both Welwere of no avail, and on Saturday both Walters and Miss Troxell were arrested on criminal charges recognised by the statutes of Pennsylvania. To go to the justice's office Miss Troxell dressed as if going to some grand reception, and Walters did the same. The woman carried a bouquet of choice flowers, and Walters were a delicate boutonniers. They were driven to the office in stylish carriage, drawn by two handsome white horses. The turnout made a sensation in town, and crowds of curious people followed it to the court room.

which norms. The turnout made a sensation in town, and crowds of curious people followed it to the court room.

After a hearing, Walters was held in $600 to answer the charge against him, and the woman in $600. In company with a policeman Walters went out to find ball. Miss Troxell waited at the justice's. As the young man and the policeman were going up the street they met Walters' brother Samuel. Walters assuited his brother, knocking him down by a blow with a heavy umbrella, when the policeman interfered. Samuel Walters swore out a warrant for his assailant's arrest on charge of assault with intent to kill. Chief of Police Linton also arrested him for fighting in the street. He settled the last mentioned charge by paying a fine, but was held to answer on his brother's charge. Walters found bondemen in both cases. He and Miss Troxell returned to the latter's house in the same magnificent style in which they left it.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14, 1837.

Mr. McConony—Dear Sir: My husband has got into some trouble, and as you were the man he was taken before I thought that I would write you a few lines asking you for God's sake to do all you can and let him off —it is his first offense of the kind, so therefore be easy with him. I am lying sick in bed and I have two bables, one is eleven months old and the other will not be three weeks old until Wednesday; so if you would see the securer and tell him how I am effurated I think that he will drop it, as it will not benefit him much and it will be such a benefit to me, for he is all the support that I have, and if he will not push it God will reward him if nobody else will. For God's sake see what you can do for him; if not for his sake, do it for the sake of his family, and God will reward you. I suppose you know who the accused is; his name is John Heenan.

I remain yours respectfully,

Mrs. JOHN HEENAN,

Rutland bar, and son of ex-Judge Barrett, of the supreme court, was fatally injured. A board that lined the alide on one side had become split and loosened, and the narrow end projected into the slide pointing upward. Not knowing this, Mr. Barrett, his wife and Mrs. Charles P. Harris mounted a toboggan and descended the chute.

Mrs. Barrett was in front and passed the splinter unharmed. Mrs. Harris, who was in the centre, came in contact with it, sustaining a long and deep gash on the inside of one thigh. It then ensered one of Mr. Barrett's thighs on the inside and came out from his back above the hip; having penetrated the abdomen and ruptured the intestines. It threw him from the toboggan and he was taken up impaled, the board projecting several inches at each end, but he was con scious. Medical aid having arrived the board was removed and the man was taken to his home, where he now iles under the influence

Water Dear in Maine.

What promises to be a vigorous war against some of the water companies of Maine has began, the opening news being the introduction of a bill by William H. Looney, one of the Portland members of the House of Representatives. Whatever may be the fate of that bill it will lead to discussion and probably to porations.

It is charged that there are poor families of that city whose water supply costs more than their bread. In many tenements, it is said, the price charged for water is more than the state, county and city taxes assessed on the premises. A family consisting of three persons must pay from $35 to $40 a year for water. It is said that $40 was demanded for the right to use one hose to sprinkle a small garden last summer, and it is charged that the price of water furnished to some small manufacturing establishments have been advanced 400 per cent.
