There is so determined a party pervading the Republican voters at the very best Democratic material for cils is promptly rejected by them in or of bad Republican material. Some of these days will prevail among the people, and they will be disposed to make it easy for ir best citizens to reach their council er. The town will hardly prosper till then. A good city administration tial to its welfare, and this cannot be ad without wise councilmen. The Recan voters can hardly feel satisfied with the looks of the list they have chosen, hich has a little good material among a ed deal of second and third-class stuff.

The increase of the debt has been voted d the great responsibility of determining low it shall be expended is upon these B. We will be lucky if they get anye near right. The people have blindly afided the whole business to them, and can level the city hills or elevate the Conestoga's bed, to the amount of $125,000 worth, as it pleases them.

Speed in Vessels.

The Cameron naval bill aims principally at speed in the vessels that will be con-structed under it and there seems to be riedom in the amendment offered by Mr. tale that the contractor should receive a of $50,000 for every additional quarher knot attained by the vessel over a speed at twenty knots an hour, and a deduction of the same amount for every quarter knot that the speed might fall below twenty

The fastest man-of-war affoat is the French cruiser Milan with a speed of 18.4 rough weather, but two vessels are iding in England for the Japanese hich are to make 18 knots. These facts ake the demand for a speed greater than wenty knots seem unreasonable at first; at the speed of the ocean racers and edo boats make it evident that if we to rely chiefly upon the superior swiftass of our vessels, the superiority must be

Turkey has six torpedo boats which have a record of 20.3 knots. Austria is building everal which will be required to make 22 sand they are confident will attain 21 nots an hour. Mr. Hale's amendment ill at least give vessels of 20 knots an or, for what has been done in torpedo ats can be done on a larger scale, and be value of a fleet of vessels so far superior a speed to the war ships of other powers is ident as to need no argument.

The Philadelphia Lesson. The election of Mr. Fitler as mayor of Philadelphia is gratifying. The defeat of Mr. Keim for mayor of Philadelphia was right. The failure of the attempt to utilize the Democratic party to elect to the agoralty the worse of two Republican addates should be pleasing to all self-specting Democrats. There was no in the movement. It was one for spoils. The Democrats who sed it are typical spoilsmen. They the kind that have no national with the type of the nation.

The control of the nation.

The control has been the right life. Each in his tenvess, and it is to the right bewer of his address. Mr. Josephs to of the style state who is emphatically cast was maked that. Mr. Josephs has been condidate for United States. with the type of Democracy which of this district, and we regret to a least been presented as Mr. Randall's addition. Revertheless be has not been some and he never will be. He is not wen Mr. Randall's honest choice. His rength with the politician is simply in the control he can exercise over the beastly Democratic voting element; which is not the element that can influence the cratic party if it is to be successful present course ; and its only policy is to bowstring its Josephs. The defeat of the Keim movement is a great help to this end. Its success would have been as disastrous to the Democratic party of Philadelphia as to the city. The stone would have sunk it beyond the reach of grappling lines.

With this escape we hope that the I'hiladelphia Democracy can get out of the control of the element that made this abortive, absurd and undemocratic canvass. We trust that the party has learned to keep its hands off Republican candidates, unless it can add something to its strength by the combination : and that it cannot £nd strength in rottenness. If it had supported Fitler, Republican, against Keim, Republican, it would at least have had the consciousness in defeat that it had deserved success.

THE taxpayers determined to run the risk of a wrongful expenditure of the $125,000.

THE Young Men's Christian association has been enjoying phenomenal growth. The number of American associations has risen to about 1,100, with an aggregate mem property worth $5,000,000, 90 own the buildings they occupy, and 100 of these associations and 10 of these buildings are in Penn

In Giles county, Virginia, there have been found people who are more degraded than the savages of distant lands to whom good people send missionaries and tons of Bibles. The stories of their poverty and suffering shade, because they are coupled with an almost total absence of religious or moral principle, and yet there are no doubt people n our own county who are not much better. It may be urged that these home beathen have only themselves to blame, but even that weak argument cannot apply to the children who are growing up to be the criminals of the future. Don't keep charity at home, but let her at least begin there. There are plenty of well-to-do people in our community who often regret that they have nothing particular to live for ; they feel that their lives are being wasted and they are growing old without making the interest due on their buried talents. At the same time there are a great many drifting along through life with no chance of bettering their condition unless by some outside help. If the first class would take a little trouble they might by giving this help make their own lives happy and useful.

Money is not the most important element in the matter, but what these people usually need is the missionary help that their neighpors send to Africa or the South seas.

ALLENTOWN votes $50,000 for improve ments, but Laucaster goes it $75,000 better.

A CABLE dispatch to the New York Herald says that the alarming reports of Mr. Parnell's illness have no foundation in fact; which is good news, indeed.

The unostentations manner of departure of Meesra McArthur and Young will entitle them to considerable respect, and whether they return with both names, or concentrated by cannibalism, they will be given plenty of lory. They have ammunition for four years, though they do not expect to be absent more than three. While the pole is the main object of their expedition, if they fail to reach it. they will console themselves by gathering scientific knowledge of lands that nobedy wants. The value of scientific knowledge of the frozen zone may be very great, but would not the seal and ability that have worked in that field have resched results of greater value to the race by labor nearer home?

Ir has been observed that with Manning's departure from the cabinet, the continuity of it is broken. President Pierce alone of all the presidents kept his cabinet intact through the four years of his administration. Washington had two postmaster generals in his first term. Even during the term of Franklin Pierce there was no vice president, Mr. King having died six weeks after the term began, so that there has never been an administration that ended as it began. There were two presidents pro tem. of the Senate between 1853 and 1857, the time Mr. Pierce was president.

This was done to obviste the necessity of the insertion of a glass eye and the annoyances consequent upon its use, and to accure the natural appearance which an eye that has once been living gives. There was of course no hope of giving sight. A rabbit's eye was used because rabbits, among all the animals, alone have eyes of the same hues and with the same muscles and apparatus as man's.

The operation was first attempted by the celebrated occulist Chibret, of Paris, in May, 1885. It falled, and he advised no further attempts with human subjects. Four subsequent attempts, however, were made, and all were unsuccessful. Dr. C. H. May, of this city, instructor in ophthalmology to the New York polyclinic, became interested in the subject, and experimented with 24 rabbits, and was successful in 5 cases. He concluded that the operation could be performed with good results upon a man, and published on account of his experiments in the New York Medical Review, of May 1886. The article fell under Mr. Williams' notice. He corresponded with the occulist and came to this city, Jan. 27, to have the operation performed. This was done on Feb. 1. For a week previous the oculist had been practicing on cadavers at a medical college to become familiar with the operation. The rabbit selected was of extra size, of the kind known as the Belgian hare. He had hazel eyes, the same color as Mr. Williams'. On the day of the operation the rabbit was etherized and his eye removed. Dr. May was assisted by E. Gruening, a prominent oculist; by Dr. Wilmer, of Mount Sinal hospital, and several medical students. sac of the rabbit's eye, containing the ball, was severed from the corner and the four principal muscles, leaving the ball loose except where it was attached to the optic nerve to keep it alive until the transfer. The surgeons next turned their attention to the man and went through the same performance with him, except that through each of the muscles and the edge of the conjunctive were passed black slik threads or sutures to hold the nerve in place. The optic nerve of the rabbit was then severed and its eye transferred to the man's head and joined firmly to the optic nerve by catgut threats. Then the muscles and conjunctive were tied and the operation was complete. The eye was closed and covered with white vaseline and cotton compresses were placed over both eyes which were tightly bandsged. The operation lasted one and a quarter hours. The patient was put to bed and hot applications made to his eye every few minutes to aid the cohesion of the severed parts. Ou the second days alight haziness of the cornes was noticed. On the fourth day the growth of the muscles was completed and the rabbitt's eye moved in unison with the human.

On the evening of the eighth day a slight sloughing of the cornes was observed, and it increased so that a great portion of the iris escaped and left the eye coloriess. As the abrasion could not be healed without leaving great disfigurement, it was decided to remove the eye. This was done on the ninth day in 20 minutes, the patient being under the influence of occaline. Since the eye was removed the cavity has been kept bandsged and covered with vaseline. Mr. Williams will wait until the healing process is finished and then have a glass eye insorted. ATHLOPHOROS FOR RHEUMATISM.

A STARTLING FACT

It is not generally known that a large propor-tion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseased condition or imperiest action of the kidneys and liver; there-fore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athiophoros for rheuma-tism and neuralgis have been surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleanaing them from all irritating substances and regula-ting their action. Taken in connection with them from all irritating substances and requiring their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cute a large proportion of those who have these diseases.

For the last five years I have been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism which would cause me the most excruciating pain in my chest; was obliged to put myself under the doctor's care for two or three months at a time, and even then it was almost impossible to get any relief. The last time I was taken my son was at home, and I requested him to call the doctor, but he raid he bad heard of a new remedy for rheumatism called Athlophoros and advised me to try it. I did and you can imagine my surrheumatism called Athlophoros and advised me to try it. I did and you can imagine my surprise, was relieved of all pain after taking one bottle and have not been troubled since. It saved me quite a sum of mouse, and what is better, I was not obliged to endure weeks of suffering; would not be without it in the house. Have recommended it to others and it never fails to give relief. L. H. PATTERSON.
