WHERE IS THE BEST TIME EVERY WITH UNARYING SUCCESS?
 From the Country Gentleman.

Although the cost per acre of seeding to clover is not large, the aggregate amount of money spent for clover seed every spring counts up into the millions. As the question, "When is the best time to sow?" has come up in the farmers' meetings, it has been asked in the agricultural papers times without number, I am convinced that a majority of farmers have not settled the question. I should wonder at this were it not for the fact that I farmed for 25 years before I could answer that question to my own satisfaction. When I was a boy the farmers of my neighborhood all said, "If you sow clover seed early and it sprouts and then freezes it will be killed." For the last ten years I have sown clover seed early with varying success, and now advise always that this be done. Yet I am not sure that the farmers were wrong in their advice, for if the seed was sown during a warm open spell of weather, so that it would lie on the surface and sprout there would be danger of a freeze killing it. I am sure, however, that the seed may be sown with perfect safety, any time in February or March, if sown on a frozen surface when a thaw is sure to follow before night. There are always during these two months bright, clear mornings, when the sun is sure to thaw the surface before the day is over so the farmer's sowing, has been asked in the agricultural papers times without number, I am convinced that a majority of farmers have not settled the question. I should wonder at this were it not for the fact that I farmed for 25 years before I could answer that question to my own satisfaction. About twenty years ago I discovered a little secret on my part, and the doctors pronounced it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians, but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number of the one or two specialists the medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what S.S.S. had done for other similarly afflicted persons, which led me to try it. There were few permanent cures, but have thin or bare spots on them, which will be greatly improved by its use, and, as if you will now as directed I can warrant a good catch of grass. If the land is poor it will be advisable to give a light top dressing of manure, even five or six loads, and mix to the acre will greatly help. It adds much to the beauty as well as the yield of a pasture to have a good stand and uniform growth all over it, and there are doubtless many pastures with spots needing just this treatment.

SPECIAL NOTICES.
 Glad to Hear It.
 "For several months I endured a dull pain through my lungs and shoulders; lost my appetite and color, and could with difficulty remain on my feet. By several health reformers I had been told that 'Dr. Hager's' was the only medicine for my ailment. I purchased a bottle of Dr. Hager's, and in a few days I was enabled to get on my feet. I have never yet seen so good a medicine for my ailment. For sale by H. H. Cochrane, Druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen Street, Lancaster, Pa.
