Continued Until Next Wednesday, to Produce
Process of Death.

Ten o'clock this morning was designated by Alderman Fordney for the hearing of the New Era Life Insurance company's suits against sixty ave of our citizens. Half a dosen attorneys were present to represent the defendants. Wm. Leaman appeared for J. M. Wiesting, the receiver of the company.

After a partial hearing the cases were continued until Wednesday next. The position taken by the delendants is that the persons who it is alleged were insured in the com-pany and died were not insured, that the assessments were not properly made and that it is incumbent on the company to prove the deaths of all for whom assessments are claimed. On motion of counsel for the de-fendants the alderman directed the receiver to produce at the next hearing all the proofs demanded by the defendants.

BARR LINES FOR ACTORS.

The Excellent Jane Coombe Company Has to Disband Owing to Business Troubles. The Jane Coombe dramatic company, which had been playing in rather hard luck for some time past, disbanded in this city yesterday. The party was under the management of J. H. Dobbins, and the small audiences to which they appeared at Faitin Opera house last week were sufficient to dis-courage any one. Yesterday morning the company did not leave town, and it soon company did not leave town, and a soon became whispared about that they were separating. When asked concerning the matter the actors told different stories. One said they were going to Williamsport in the evening, while another said they were billed for Lewistown, and a third placed them at Lock Haven. The truth of the matter was going, as the manager had no dates for this week. He tried to run the party into Lobanon but Hamersly's opera company got abead of him. Miss Coombs, who in private life is Mrs. F. A. Brown, and her husand had some difficulty in regard to bust ness matters with Manager Dobbins and the lady refused to play with the company any onger. Without her of course there was n use traveling, so the company disbanded The members have separated and are going in different directions. Manager Dobbins and several actors left yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Brown are stopping at a private board-ing house on East King street, having gone there from the Stevens house, and they will probably leave for New York this evening. Wright Huntington, the leading man, is at the Grape hotel, but he will also go to New York to night. Mr. and Mrs. G. Dela Barre have been engaged by Watte's Comedy company, which they will join at once in Shamokin. By to-morrow all the members will likely have left town. The Zahm Pallure, Sheriff Tomlinson has posted bills for the sale of the stock of jeweiry of E. J. Zahm on Tuesday next. By the agreement of execution creditors William Thompson, who was employed in the repair department, has been placed in charge of the stock. G. M. Zahm, one of the execution creditors, has also agreed to remain at the store. A New York creditor with a claim of $600 put in an appearance late on Monday afternoon, but as he did not have judgment, he could do nothing. A gentleman in a position to know says that Mr. Zahm's liabilities to New York and Philadelphia wholesale dealers is from $6,000 to $8,000, and that the heavy losers will be his own family. The store property has not been Mr. Zahm's for ten years. It is owned by Henry Horr.

A Swindler Arrested. An olly-tongued young fellow who represented himself to be the agent of C. Grey & Co., lightning rod men, was arrested this morning for fraud. His manner of doing business was to get farmers to sign a blank and afterwards the blank turned out to be a promissory note. A farmer named Long, of Manheim township was swindled in that way, and he caused the agents arrest. He was taken before 'Squire Hype to-day, and compromised the case by returning the promissory note and agreeing to leave the county at once.

A RELIC OF ANTIQUETY. The Handles of the Golden Censer of Phornel

Hophra Received in Boston, One of the most interesting and valuable relies of antiquity recently exhumed in the Delta of the Nile has just arrived in Boston It is the undoubtedly authentic double-armed handle of the golden censer of Pharach Hophra, found by Me, Flinder Petrie, the archmological digger of the Egyptian Exploration fund, at Tel Defenneh, in the northeastern corner of the Delta of the Nile. It is of pure, solid gold, shining and rich beyond description, curiously, intricately and labortously wrought, each arm decorated with the graceful lotus-leaf design, and is worth, at the smallest calculation, simply as gold bullion, $500. How it is known to be authentic, and the property of the late Pharach Hopbra, who died somewhere about 2,552 years ago? The answer to that question, the Transcript says, is too long to give in detail, but the lorty-third chapter of the book of Jeremiah tells how the great pessimist of Judea, Jeremiah himself, found his way to the "House of Pharach" in this same Defenneh (he called it Tahpanhes), and how some Jewish princesses, the daughters of Zebediah, took reluge in this same fortress, called the house of Pharach. The mound that marks the place, and in which this beautiful gold ornament was found, is called to this day by the Arabs the castle of the Jew's daughter. description, curiously, intricately and labort-

The Rev. Mr. Winslow, who is the American guide, philosopher, and friend of the Egypt Exploration Fund, is held in great eateem by the English patrons and managers of the enterprise, and reas managed to secure not only this reits of Pharoah Hophra, but many other interesting articles from the ruins of the Palaca Castle at Duobne that micro many other interesting articles from the ruins of the Palace Castle at Daphne that might otherwise have gone into that great grave of antiquity, the British Museum, and has them now in charge, though they are not all out of the custom house.

The Ragan Illustrated Lectures.—Mr. Henry H. Ragan's course of lectures, which will be given in Fulton opers house under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, commencing on Friday evening, is receiving merited encouragement. Every seat in the house, both down stairs and on the gallery, has already been taken for Friday evening. The complimentary notices received from the press throughout the country leaves no doubt as to the superiority of Mr. Ragan's lecture. The New York Evening Fostsays: "The pictures are of remarkable excellence, and the lecture interesting and fresh." The Chicago Evening Journal says: "It is hardly going too far to say that Mr. Ragan's illustrated lecture, given last evening steentral Music Hall, was the most interesting illustrated lecture ever given in Chicago. The views were nearly all colored and fairly erchanted the audience—applause greeting almost every change."

The Great Concert. The splendid musical con-cert at Fulton opera house on Thora'ay even-ing, in which Wm. H. Sherwood, the great ing, in which will he herwood, the great pisnie; appears, promises to be very largely attended. It will be well worth hearing.

The Troubadours.—The chart for the sale of reserved seats to Salabury's Troubadours will be opened at the opera house on Thursday, and as they will present their new piece critical "The Humming Bird," there will no doubt be a great demand for seats.
