Mr. Samuel Zahin, who has been prospecting in Florida for several weeks, returned to Lancester Saturday evening. He says he had a very pleasant time in the land of flowers and oranges. He visited not only San Au-gustine, Jacksonville, and other fashionable ss, but struck out into the interior and the west coast of the peninsula, much of which is a sandy desert in the dry season and pretty good for boating in the wet season.

Mr. Zahm states that most of the paper cities in Florida run by northern speculators, are frauds, unworthy of patronage. There is good land in the state, but the paper cities in which speculators are selling town lots don't own any of it. Mr. Zahm made a small purchase of land in the pennaula, and thinks he will buy more. As it is in Pennsylvania so is it in Fiorida—good land sells for good prices and poor lands don't. Mr. Zahm thinks the coming orange district will not be in the vicinity of Jacksonville or ban Augus. tine on the east coast of Florida, but will be two hundred miles further south and further is land, if not the western coast, where the temperature is not so severe as to kill the orange trees as they were killed a few years ago in the present orange district. AT THE THEATER.

"The Lights O' London " Greeted by a Large Audience-The Variety Company. Saturday night the very popular play the "Lights O' London" was given in Fuiton opera house by a company under the management of Litt & Poore. The audience was large and the people were pleased, as the members of the company, which is a very large one, were strong in their parts. The character of Squire Armylage was well taken by Mr. Charles H. Poore, and Archibald Foster did well with the part of Harold Armytage. Sam Hemple, the popular comedian, had the character of Joseph Jarvis, which he has played over 600 times The scenery used in the production of the

This comparison is not too courteous to the chivairie hero of Gii Blas' quaint creation, but t ts-the moral. Having read "a sharp attack on the Equita-ble," I can say, without fear of contradiction by any self-respecting insurance official or agent, any self-respecting insurance official or agent, that it is by its specious falsity and distorted deductions, unworthy of a serious reply, except to this one bold question: "If More Anon" (the anonymous acreen of this man) was guilty of falsification why did not Mr. Special (myself) prove this from the official record and then brand him as a falsifier?" My answer is: that hoping Robert Holmes would see his error and mend his ways, I did not wish to be harsh by reminding him that he is by the special records of the ing him that he is by the special records of the Court of Quarter Sessions of Bucks county, Pa., (Doylestown, September, 1830, a convicted "falsi-for,") for, by that record, Robert Hotmes, of Reading, agent of the Mutual Life, of New York, was arrested, tried and found guilty of "libelous misrepresentations" of a life company in good standing.

Knowing these facts, and that, five years later, the Chronicle, of New York, August 27, 1885, one of the leading insurance papers of the country, had published "Holmes, pilloried for public contempt," as "a studious and persistent compiler or writer of abusive and delusive leaflets, circulars, and pamphiets," it was not necessary for my pen to brand him as "a falsifier" or to take further heed of his reprehensible practices unless the officers of the Mutual Life should endorse his false assertions by their stient acquiunless the officers of the Mutual Life should endorse his false assertions by their stient acquiseence. By a happy coincidence, "A Hearty Tribute to the Equitable," and the 27th ANNUAL STATKMENT of this SOCIETY appeared in the same issue with this "sharp attacs," and are active evidence of the unequalled strength and good standing of the Equitable in Lancaster
All policies issued by the Equitable are Incontestable after three years. It is a sad comedy for an agent of the Mutual Life to charge any other life company with contesting death claims.

other life company with contesting death claims, especially in Lancaster, where few have forgotten the action of the Mutnai Life with the estates or beacheristies of the late Jacob F. Frey and the late Major E. W. Shenk. See Lancaster, Della Frances Lancaster, Della Fran easter Daily Examiner, March 29, 1883

it is a serious crime to livel and misrepresent the character and charter of a great life assurance society. The IRON hand of the law "has already convicted" a faistfier, and may do so again with full penalty.

The character of the Equitable says "The insurance business of the company shall be saydened.

The charter of the Equitable says." The insurance business of the companyshall be conducted on the vutual plan." This charter is easily investigated by any policy holder in its entirety—not by mullitated extracts.

Apropos of this, an editorial in the New York Commercial Bulletis, Jan. 17, 1862, says: "Any rival agent who endeavors to make capital for himself on so slim a foundation as this, proves himself a mere busgier, in life insurance work. Misrepresentations, as a general thing make. Misrepresentations, as a general thing, make very poor foundation for permanent success This has been proved true in life insurance bu-siness especially. And the use of misrepreses-tation by an agent or the attempted procure-ment of business by such practices must, in the end, react disastrously upon the management and credit of the company."

The Equitable, by its agents, well know the penalty for success. The reactive effect of malicious misrepresentations are well shown by the official record—that the Equitable has passed the official record—that the Equitable has passed and leads all competitors by unequalled surplus, Income and Amount of Business, and its unapprouched record for promptitude in payment of claims. Its "Non-Forieting" and "incontestable" Tomine system is the most popular and productive. The dividends paid to policy holders of 18 year Toutine for the payment of the Equitable, for example, are larger than it hose paid by any other company on any kind of policy issued at or about the same time. The possession of its

" Red Book " by any other than an agent of this society is an evidence of im, being storen prop-erty. No insurance man should seriously or dele-nively demand that any insurance company should hold present Cash resources squal to in-surance at risk—or, should account Cash dis-bursements equal to Insurance terminated, by reinnantily reinquishment. As to Kober Holmes, of Reading, Pa., the sgent of the Mu tant Life, of N. Y. all fair-minded people will endone my declining any further notice of convicted "faisifier." J. L. BUTLER, special Agent,
