A literary light of some prominence writing from Paris at one time, after having seen and heard Hyacinthe, says "he is a grand orator artist, having been brought up in a great oratorical school, of which he and Emile Ollivier were the foremost representatives, and if I were of his faith and belief I should say of his style,"C'est la splendeur du vrai." Pere Hyrcinthe is cosessed of a singularly fine head and the profile is one that would look best repeated on a medallion. Pere Hyacinthe (Charles Loyson) was born at Orleans in 1827 ; after pursuing his course of studies in the college of Pan, he entered the college of St. Sulpice. Four years alterwards he was ordained a priest and became also professor of theology in several schools, devoting his whole time and attention to his life work thus set before him. Subsequently Father Hyacinthe was attached as a working priest to the parish of St. Sulpice in Paris, but he # soon made himself a monk and entered the convent of the Carmelites in Lyons. From the years including the dates of 1864 until 1869 he was the most celebrated preacher even heard at Bordeaux Nantes and in the Notre Dame, of Paris. He was suspected of entertaining and uttering too liberal religious doe trines and finally became exerminunicated from the priesthood by the pope. Father Hyscinthe soon after this (in 1879) made a royage to the United States, and on his return to France married an American lady. Persecution compelled him to seek refuge in Switzerland for a time, when he established an Old Catholic church at Geneva, and it was stated that although deprived of the was stated that although deprived of the right to celebrate the ceramonies of Catholic worship, he was permitted to assist several times in the services of the Galican church. Liberal priests and biabout authorized him so to do; they recognizing that his aim was not to destroy, but to glorm the Catholic church. Bara Uncertainty and the catholic church. was told to " rejoice, and be exceeding glad, for the noise the press is sure to make about the matter will remove the bushel under which circumstances have placed the father's light ever since he burned the torch at Hymen's altar." Pere Hyacinthe has extraordinary conversational eloquence, and, as his wife says, the wings of his soul are so little draggled that he can soar up into the seventh heaven and take his interlocutor with him.

LIGHT DRINKS AND DISHES.

Wool and the Like.

In Shakespeare's day the usual fare of suntry gentlemen was " four, five and six when they have but small resort." nnar was served at eleven in the morning apper at six, but was generally protracted to a late hour, and there was always the posses ino not infrequently buttered ale, Bristol milk, and lamb's wool. For the posset, as used in ancient times : Beat up well the yelk feight eggs with refined pulverized sugar and a grated nutmeg; then extract the juice of the rind of a lemon by rubbing sugar lumps on it and put the sugar with a piece of chanamon and a bottle of wine in a sauce-pen. Place it on the fire, taking it off when it boils; then add a single glass of cold white wine, put the liquor into a spouted jug, and pour it gradually among the yelks of eggs. Keep altering well while the Hquid is pour-ing in. If it be not ewest enough add sugar ; and, lastly, pour the mixture as awiftly as possible from one vessel to another until it yields a fine iroth. Observe, if the wine be poured boiling hot among the eggs, the mix-ture will curdle and the posset be spolled. The beverage must be drunk hot. Lamb's wool was made of roasted apples, bruised and mixed in sie, nutmeg, mik or wine. On the 1st of November, it was an ancient Celtic practice to indulge in a feast called La Mas Ubbal, the day of the apple-fruit. Hristol mik was mik punch. But-tered ale was composed of sugar, cinnamon, nd a grated nutmeg ; then extract the juice ancient Celtic practice to indulge in a feast called La Maa Ubbal, the day of the apple-fruit. Bristol milk was milk punch. But-tered ale was composed of sugar, cinnamon, butter and beer brewed without hops. Ale was universally popular with all classes. Begarding the subject of wines, American home-made wines may be added to the wine-cellar without at all being regarded as plebeian by their foregn neighbors. The four requisites for fermentation are sugar, malic acid, vege-table extracts and water. For a sweet wine the cork should not be closed until the sound of fermentation has nearly ceased. If a dry wine, a barrel must be in readiness which has been subjected to the fumes of sulphur; drwn off the wine in it, rack it off, clearing, it with isingiam and both sen ones of cinnamon and the same of coriander. Pound all well to-sure, an eighth of an ounce of cinnamon and the same of coriander. Pound all well to-of the beat brandy. Cork it up for three weeks, shaking it everyday; then let it settle made entirely of peach, apricot, nectarine or plaum stone kernels. If almonds are used the made entirely of peach, apricot, nectarine or flaum stone kernels. If almonds are used the made entirely of drinks which could be made entirely of peach, spricot, nectarine or plum stone ternels. If simonds are used the invor is not so fine. There is a variety of drinks which could be made at a moderate expense infinitely better than poor or intoxinciting wines and liquors ; presist lemons free from pith, cut them up in small pieces and put them in a bottle with two cloves, half a pint of hot water, and place in a stew-pan with boling water ; let it for the stew-pan with boling water ; let it bend back near the fire, but do not let it boil, for two hours ; then take half a pint of lemon place in a stew-pan with boling water ; let it bend back near the fire, but do not let it boil, for two hours ; then take half a pint of lemon place in a stew-pan with boling water ; let it without this, use sugar, which will make the same granget than others. When those used are repuent than others. When those used are repuent than others. When those used are repuent, and also it using lime julce, more similare must be used. This will be the imple lemonade, which, if desired, will nate also a fine punch by the addition of ne pint of capillaire, half a pint of lemon pint

Accident At a Railroad Crossing. About noon to day, David Weitler and a companion of Mountville, were driving down North Prince street. In crossing the Pennsylvania railroad, one wheel of their wagon caught in the track, and a spindle was broken off. Both men were thrown out and Weidler was dragged for about a hundred feet and run over by the wagon before the horse was stopped. He was pretty badly bruised but no bones were broken. When the accident occurred a freight train was coming toward the crossing and it was fortunate that the horse got out of the way in time with the wagon.

Pontz Not Yet Out of Danger.

Alexander Leibsley, charged with the attempted murder of George Pontz, was taken from prison to the court room this afternoon, with a view of having him admitted to ball. Dr. Foreman, the attending physician of George W. Pontz, would not say that the injured man was out of danger and Leibsley's counsel decided to postpone the application to admit to bail until Monday, and Leibsley was taken back to jail by Officer Heiss.
