regard to the alleged larceny, ids mays a is nothing in it. She had gone to a shortly before she left Lancaster, and ster Kate supposed she had worn her lets ; and after she left Lancaster Kate d the bracelets and supposed Ids had tolen them, and hence made the com-plaint of larceny. After the complaint was made Mr. Peterman, Kate's husband, found the missing bracelets in a drawer in his own house. Mrs. Peterman then wanted bdraw the complaint of larceny, but rman McGiinn would not permit it to e until the costs, smounting to about shall be paid. And thus abe, entirely count of the alleged offense, has been gred from the supportable, incarcerated in lockups and must remain locked up til Alderman McGlinn and the consta ure their costs. She has no money to enher to secure counsel to get her out on a writ of habeas corpus, and no lawyer has as yet volunteered his services. She says that be had plenty of friends when she didn't

Mrs. Peterman, Ida's mother, was to see er, and said the case could be "settled" if he would go home with her. Ida refused to do so, saying that as soon as she was released from her unjust imprisonment, the would ge back to the family of Ar. Westbrook in Steeton. She new that there is not a word firuth in Officer Dornbaugh's statement that she intended to stop in Steelton "only long enough to accumulate the wherewitha to take her further." On the contrary she says abe was much pleased with her situation Westbrook's, and she intended to remain with them as long as they would keep her.

As Ids sat on the hard couch in her cell, telling the story of her wrongs, the reporter could not help noticing the striking resem-blance which the profile of her face bore to that of the girl murdered at Rahway, as pictured in the New York Star, and reproced in the INTELLIGENCER. tegniar Correspondence of INTELLIGENCER COLUMBIA, April 11-Adam Manly, an employe of the Reading & Columbia rail-road, on Saturday afternoon was standing on the top of a house car at Reading, when the sudden jolting of the train caused him to be thrown from the car. He was brought to his home in Columbia and taken to his home on South Fifth street. An examina-tion showed that his nose was fractured, the index tinger of the right hand dislocated and bruises about the body and legs. Medical attention was given by Dr. C. F. Markel.

An Exciting Fight. Lest Saturday evening William Lutz was standing on Locust street near the barber shop of David Coleman, and was approached by William Turner, colored, who desire the loan of five cents. Upon being refuse Luiz was greeted with a volley of insulting language which ended in a fight. least Turner sought refuge in the barber shop but was followed by Luiz. The fight was renewed and Turner seized a razor, cutting Lutz on the breast. He reseived a gash about six inches in length, bu not serious. A chair was then used on Turner, who received much the worst of the fight. The colored man sought safety by leaving the barber shop by the rear entrance. The affair created considerable excitement in the vicinity where it occurred. The funeral of Miss Jennie Miller took place on Saturday alternoou and was very argely attended. The funeral of the late Martin Neil took Resigns of the Syste Casis. A meeting of the committee appointed to make arrangements for the parate of the Knights of the Mystic Chain in this city on Septamber 14, was held at Columbia on Sat-urday evening. Representatives were pre-ent from the castles of York, Wrightaville, Marietta, Harrisburg, Lebanon, Terre Hill, Lancaster and Philadelphia. William J. Wilkinson, of Tacony, past commander of the order, was elected chief marshal of the mber 14, was beid at Columbia on Batparade, and he was given power to appoint his aids. Reports were received from a number of the castles, and indications point to a large parade in which a couple of thousand of uniformed men will take part. The next meeting of the committee will be held on June 2 at Lebanon.

Fighting Game Cocks. A number of sports residing in the easter part of town had some lively cock fighting just outside the city on Saturday evening. The first battle was between a blue red and a gray. The former showed himself to be very samey and although cut almost to pieces succeeded in winning. This was the best fight of the evening. The second battle was a blue red and a black red. The blue cock won in a hard fight, stilling his opponent. The third and last fight was between a blue red and s black red tassel. The tassel bird won and the blue was killed. Arrested By an Alderman. John Wagner, who is known as "Cully," was charged with drunken and disorderly conduct before Alderman McConomy, by Lewis Souders of Mulberry street, this morning. The charge was afterwards withdrawn, and Wagner went 'to Souders' house and knocked down the latter's wife. Souders went to McConomy's office and renewed the impiaint. While there Wagner came in very drunk and began abusing the alderman. There were no police officers near so the alderman took Wagner to the station house. He had considerable trouble doing the work and was obliged to secure assist ance on the way.

Brigadler General Thomas Collins

Thomas Collins, the Reading dude who is so fond of dress, cut quite a dash upon our streets Sunday afternoon and evening. He made his appearance in a snow white military suit of corduroy with brass buttons and brilliant gold trimmings. He wore a soldier cap of the same color with the letter "U.S. A. " in the front and was attired in patent leather shoes. Everywhere he appeared he was followed by crowds who were anxious to interview him. He said that his suit was that of a brigadier general and was of the latest style. Next Sunday he will appear with an overcoat and three cocked hat. He says that he now has 31 full suits.

Amasem ents. Amassments, "Falka" by a Fine Company.-On Wednesday evening the opera of "Falka" will be seen in this city for the first time. The company is one of Col. McCaull's and is very strong. The New York Telegram says: "One of the greatest suc-cesses ever seen at Wallack's was made there last evening. "Falka" was produced by Col. McCaull, "Falka" is a peculiar opera. The score is original and sparking, and so out of the common rut of latter day opera bouffe works that the contrast in its favor is something the composer should be proud of. The airs have an composer should be proud of. The airs have an easy, graceful movement, Hungarian in charac-ter, and the libicito is very good. The contumes are beautiful, and the chorus did all that was passible and necessary to make the opera a suc
