If there are any places where industry has flourished by railroad favor, overcoming natural disadvantages, it is right that these industries should wither under a just law giving to all the people in the land the rights which the God of nature has given them, and which the managers of railroads should not have the power to

We concede that legislation is not a panacts for all our national and state woes, and that there is a vast deal too much of it asked for and given than is for our good. I in But still it is true that judicious legislation is needed. We cannot get along without laws. Men must be controlled; and the la obvious that when a class of men put in possession, by the state, of great power to do good or ill to the people, they limited and controlled by the law the exercise of that power. Such class are the railroad managers, conling railroads chartered by the state to party the people and their goods, and centrally being without competition in local business. They are not enpetition for public support will suffice to induce them to just conduct; but they are shiph has through all our English civilizaion been deemed a public business, that required its conductors to treat impartially the public that it served and to carry for all at a like charge; and this has been the mon law since the memory of man eth not to the contrary. The business is recognized as a public mployment, and there is no license in its actors to refuse their service to any,or to charge one more than another for a like erylce. And when the railroads engaged in this business under a charter which gave them great privileges and powers, it especially was established that they were public servants engaged in the discharge of a a duty and needing to be held tightly riaw to its impartial and honest adminusly ; and it became the duty of Congress ek to bind them, as they have sought to do in this inter-state law.

Anyone who is disposed to deny the wisom of this attempt, or the right of Congrees to make it, seems to us to have clearly met his bearings. The law may be open to icism in its details, but in its scope, ad in the advisability of its undertaking to establish a national control of the railis, it is beyond the reach of condemna-

AT the Civil Service Reform association banquet in Philadelphia on Tuuraday, President Wayne MacVesyn responded to the first toast "The President of the United States." He congratulated the association because the occupant of the presidency had done so much for the success of civil service reform. "I mk you," he sald, "to drink to the health and long life of President Cleveland." It was a noble toast to drink to.

In a scathing assault upon the Pritadel-phia Press the Pittsburg Disputch quotes the editorial comments of that journal on its recent peculiar collection of opinions on the inter-state commerce law. The Press said that "long haul freights geared to short haul charges close every market west of the Alleghenies to the products from this state and where the new rates do not time them they fill shippers with protound uncertainty as disastrous to trade."

tainty as disastrous to trade."

To which the Dispatch replies:

"In the three columns published by the Press there are thirty-one complaints which give any details as to the nature of charges which cause the complaint. Of that number six of the complaints are that the shippers can not learn what the rates are, which is the fault of the railroads and not the law. Twelve of the complaints indicating an advance of rates show that the salvance is on traffic within the state, which is causille the effect of the law. The same number appears in which the advance, instead of being long hauls geared to short haul charges, as the Press declares, shows that the short haul has been increased contrary to the tendency has been increased contrary to the tendency of the law."

Farther, the Disputch dade only one case of advance in rates that is a legitimate result of the law, the advance from Pittsburg to the Pacific, which is offset by reductions to local points on the Western roads. These interviews, though undoubtedly colored to suit the monopoly complexion of the Press, show that twenty nine shippers liked the laws.

That the Press colored them unfairly we know from its report of what Mr. A. H. Peacock, of Lancaster, said. It puts him down as denouncing the law, when he simply denounced the railroad's stupid construction of it, and thinks the law itself is most likely to prove beneficial in its ultimate of-

The bicyclist can carry three days' rations on his machine, and an expert rider can make an average of 60 to 70 miles a day in carrying messages or dispatches. The best thing recently said about bicyclists is that by Rev. Dr. Logan in Stranton the other day. The doctor holds that the bicycle is "a means of grace," because a man must be sober in order to ride one successfully.

Cremation in Germany

On Wednesday last a meeting took place of the members of the Berlin branch of the Cremation society, at which the following of cremations at Gotha during the past eight years reached 400 on the 18th of February last; there were 18 in 1879, 16 in 1880, 33 in 1881, 33 in 1882, 46 in 1883, 69 in 33 in 1881, 33 in 1882, 46 in 1883, 69 in 1884, 76 in 1886, end. 95 in 1886. Of these 400 bodies 260 were of the male and 140 of the lemnie sex; 125 bed resided in Gotha, 33 in the immediate vicinity of Gotha, 54 in Saxony, 100 in Prussia, (inclusive of 35 in Berlin,) 19 in Bavaria, 14 in the city of Hamburg, 7 in the Grand Duchy of Hesse, 11 in Wurtemberg and Saden, 22 in the smaller German states and Switzerland, and 34 bodies had been sent to Gotha from abroad. According to their respective vocations 38 of the 260 males were capitalists, 11 retired officials, 21 merchants, 45 public functionaries. 28 physicians 11 offi. 45 public functionaries, 23 physicians II offi-cers of the army, 3 clergymen, 5 architects, 9 artists, 14 artisans, and the remainder stu-dents, manufacturers, farmers, and boys under age. Of the 146 females 33 were widows, 48 age. Of the let females 33 were widows, 48 married women, the remainder spinsters and girls. With regard to the religious saiths of the incinerated, 193 were Protestants, 132 Catholics, 40 Israelites, and 24 Freethinkers and disaidents. The notifity was represented by 31 members; among the officers of the army there were several generals, and of the public functionaries and scientists there were several names of high reputs. The columbarium at Goths is at present crowded with turns, and the city authorities are about to collarge the recoptacle. An international congress of cremation societies is to take place at Milan in September next, at which the Berlin branch will be represented by seyeral delegator.

The milk of the mother, drawn from the after by the calf, is the best and most natural food that a calfean have, but cono mical and other considerations come in to prevent this natural method of bringing up prevent this natural method of bringing up calves, although it may be practised by breeders of pure blood stock. Among the daisymen the cream or a considerable part of the milk may be desired and so natural methods must be supplanted by some scceptable artificial one. It is better, if a calf is to be raised, to learn it to drink, and to do this as soon as possible after it is dropped; then, safter it gets a good start by the use of full new milk, its feed may be gradually changed by substituting aktim-milk and tinseed or flax-seed grued, or it may be also fed with catment. substituting skim-mitk and linesed or flaxseed gruel, or it may be also fed with cetmeal, ground reasonably fine, with the huils boited or sifted out. The only point to be considered is, to secure a ration that is as rich as the mew milk of the cow. Boil a pint of flaxesed or oil meal in ten or twelve quarts of water and then mix this with skim-milk in the proportion of about one part to three, feeding blood warm. Use occasionally a little catmest; if there is a lendency to soour for two or three meals, give in the milk a quart of common wheat flour. Pee meel is good with skim-milk. In this way the richness of the milk removed by skimming is restored, and even its value increased if desired.

Now look at onice humbers. Texas and Illinois take the tend. In the former there are 1,058.816 horses. They are small and largely of Spanish origin and find a market at from twenty to seventy dollars each. In the latter there are 1,059.247, but they are more valuable and larger. The favorite breeds are the French draught, the Crydendals, the Engiths anires and the Creveland bays. New York hes can stay-five millions of dollars, while the million bores of Texas are worth compared to brutes, with they are more wall only a little more than thirty-three millions of dollars.

As for mules, the meanest of brutes, with tots of total deprayity in their hind legs and a very evangelical expression of countessance the country tolarates 2,117,141 of them, and their value is one hundred and sixty-system millions of dollars. There are no mules to speak of in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island of Connecticut, probably because the old fabriched Paritanism didn't care to chare its total deprayity with the brute creation and kept it all for itself.
