LANCASTER, MAY 5, 1887.

The Kentucky Convention. The Kentucky convention affords an agreeable picture of the harmony now prevalent in the Democratic ranks. Kentucky is a typical Democratic state. It is Democratic all over, and the party ticket there is elected when nominated. There is therefore no restraining influence of the fear of defeat to control the party there to the modification of its beliefs and its feelings. But it is fortunate in having able and sensible leaders, and it is fortunate for the party at large that the convention they control meets at this early period to give expression to Democratic sentiment. The declaration of support to the national administration and of confidence in it is made very strong and hearty; and it is clear that there is to be no defection in the Democratic column in the country because of the determination of the administration to support the civil service law. Kentucky has been one of the most pronounced localities in its affection for the old doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils; and the attitude which the party in convention now takes towards a Democratic national administration which sustains and enforces a law that greatly modifies this doctrine, is significant of the cohesion of the party in the nation. Wise leaders in Kentucky proclaim party unity and harmony in following the course which the president has taken with the evident approval of the nation. Mr. Watbeen reduced to submission. Mr. Carlisle, one of the party's wisest counsellors, is of them, and doubtless his influence has been potential in securing the unanimity which is so evidently the party licy. He proclaims the manifest doctrine that a party minority must yield to a party majority, or abandon the party councils ; a doctrine which he will find effective when occasion arises to settle the party upon its revenue policy.

terson, one of his strongest critics, is among these Kentucky leaders, and has

The convention makes a strong declara tion in favor of a reduction in the way tariff, and such modification of it as will lessen the taxes on the necessaries of life Kentucky states the Democratic position on the issue, and the minority of the party, who do not subscribe to it, are likely led upon at an early day, in Mr Carlisle's language "to submit or go their way." Kentucky may have been the readier to yield its views on the civil service question, because of its knowledge that it was on top in the tariff issue. The convention swam out of the civil service difficulty rather awkwardly by declaring itself in favor of "honest civil service reform; which it declared to mean the faithful per formance of public duty. It is evident that Kentucky-is a slow convert to the new doctrine, and that it takes it only to keep along in company with the administration

Seeking the Sea.

The Pennsylvania Steel company is preparing to smelt its Cuban ore at the seaside. Obviously its profit in this comes from the saving it makes over loading the ore on cars and carrying it to Harrisburg. The company seems to have determined that it is cheaper to carry the fuel to the esaside than to bring the ore to the fuel in the interior, or to its present site, which has been supposed to have great advantages as a place for a great manufacturing industry There are many considerations entering into the question of the relative cheapnes of manufacturing sites, and there is al ways room for a great difference of opinion in the matter.

The idea of the steel company seems to be a good one, since they save over a dollar in railroad charges, and further cost in handling them over. If they had a foreign market for these goods their project would be still better. Perhaps they look forward to this in the future day of free trade. Meantime they can bring the railroads to reason in their freight charges by having two strings to their manufacturing bow, one being by the free sea waves.

It is to be noted that Congress will not be inspired to see any great need of taking the present duty off foreign ores, by the exhibitions of the Pennsylvania steel company's readiness to establish more furnaces to smelt it at the present duty. In truth there does not seem to be any need just now for taking off the duty on ore, which appears to be strictly for revenue, of which it produces a goodly sum, in the current demand for steel ores, which are the only ones im ported, and which can be laid down on the Eastern coast cheaper than the Northwestern steel ores, in whose development now speculation is so rampant.

Important Meeting of Councils.

The meeting of councils last evening was sely interesting because at it were read the reports of two experts on the improvement of the water supply and ewerage facilities of the city. They throw much light on these now burning stions, and will be a bright lamp wherewith to guide councils' feet in their ex-

Common council did wisely in referring the extra bill of ex Solicitor Johnson to the finance committee of councils. They will give it hasty burial. It always was an ulrageous bill. terly settlements with the finance commit-tee in defiance of law, and now he boldly holds back in city funds the amount of a STREET DAY DI THE TRANS bill which he cannot prove against the city. Councils have shown great tenderness toward this ex-official in the long toleration they have given him. Let him disgorge and promptly.

> Pine Tree and Lone Star States. Governor Ross, of Texas, has written a etter opposing prohibition on the ground that it is against the genius of free institutions, impolitic and unwise. He challenges comparison between Texas and prohibition Maine and proceeds to say some very unpleasant things about the Pine Tree state. Maine, he says, has more paupers than Texas, although she endeavors to relieve herself of the burden by driving out her poor as wanderers and outcasts. Her labor troubles show the discontent of the working men, her towns are not growing and crime is on the increase; whereas Texas is growing rapidly in wealth and population, spends more money for educational purposes, and in short, is in a most blissful condition generally. This will be news to many people who have imagined that in certain parts of the Lone Star state people were suffering so desperately from drought that government aid was necessary. Texas suffers from want of water and Maine, according to

Ross, from too much. License in the Senate.

The state Senate fears to take a too strong gulp of high license, and has voted to retain the present distinction between the beer and whisky license, making the charge for beer $200 in cities of the first three classes; in other cities $150; in boroughs $100 and in townships $50. The whisky license is raised to $400 in the cities where the beer-seller pays $150. Evidently the Senate believes that beer is a better beverage than whisky; about which there may be two opinions in these days when pure beer is hard to get.

There is one amendment to this liquor legislation which is very much needed; and that is the imposition of a penalty upon adulterated beverages. There would be vastly less evil flowing from liquor drink ing if the liquors drunk were sound. Good beer is wholesome and so is good whisky. taken when needed and in moderation. The state when it licenses their sale ought to see to it that adulterated articles are not sold. It can forbid or control the sale and when it permits it, should see to it that it is honestly conducted.

Ir the queen's jubilee passes without a dynamite outrage of respectable magnitude the enemies of Ireland will be sorely disappointed, for bardly anything could do mor harm to the frish cause than a few dynamite bombs operated by a fanatic. It is an aggravating state of things that places the fate of a people at the mercy of men of this stamp, and t is bard to argue the sanity of any man who thinks that the blowing up of several great oulidings on the queen's birthday would help the cause of home rule.

MRS. MARGARET C. ARTZ, a former resident of Frederick, Md., has died in Chicago leaving an estate of between $400,000 and $500,000. In the event of her only daughter dying without issue the whole of her estate is to go to founding a public library in Frederick. When is Lancaster's turn coming?

THE commissioner of the general land office has sent to the secretary of the interior reports from the surveyor general of New Mexico on several land claims covering vast tracts in New Mexico. Both commissioner and surveyor general unite in urging Congress to reject these claims, because the cialmants "have failed to show title, either in law or equity." There are four of them, aggregating 171,605 acres, which will in all probability be restored to the public domain, NEXT Saturday will be Memorial Day the South. Why not do away with these sad celebrations, recalling the bitter heart burning of the past ?

FROM the correspondence on the fishery question laid before the Canadian Parliament it appears that Secretary Bayard offered a fair solution of the three-mile limit problem by accepting the principle of such a limit which should close bays having a width of ten miles at the mouth. This is certainly a very liberal concession, but it does not seem to have satisfied the Canadians, who appear to want the line drawn from three miles outside the farthest head-lands regardless of the variations of the coast line.

MORALIZING on the growth of cities the Chicago Inter-Ocean sees danger abead, just as Thomas Jefferson did when he called great cities great sores upon the body politic. As proof that the rapid growth of cities peculiar feature of the age, it roters to London with its five millions. Two hundred years ago it had a smaller population than Unicago. Now it is as large as all New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, Cincinnati and San Francisco put together. Since the century began it has increased more than fivefold. More people live in it than in the whole of Holland, than in Sweden, than in Portugal, Ireland or Canada; a million more than in Scotland. The chief cities of Russia have doubled within twenty years; the population of Berlin is three times as great now as it was in 1850. In our own country the facts are similar. In 1790 onethirtieth of our population lived in cities of s 000 inhabitants or over, and now fully one

But conditions have changed so radically since the days of Thomas Jefferson that there is not much fear of any great danger to "the body politic" from the building of great The government of these great masses of humanity has become more scientific, and the masses have become more easy of control. There is still danger that the worst element, by the strength of their union, will gain the upper hand as they did in Paris after the stere : but such a state of atlairs brings it own remedy, and the risk of it is more than balanced by the great advantage that men gain by association. In the cities alone are lound the triumphs of art in all forms that tend to refine men, the schools and libraries that help development of brain, the excite ment and stimulus to constant effort.

REV. MELVILLE BOYD, of All Saints Episcopat church, Pittsburg, would not sup-port James G. Blaine for the presidency two years ago. As the majority of the vestry men were Republicans, this was a perilous proceeding. They antagonized all the move ments he set on foot. The rector's salary was reduced, and an attempt was made to remove him. The congregation would not have this, but voted, instead, to remove the objecting vestrymen. This was done, and since then the church has raised $10,000 to pay off its debt, increased Mr. Boyd's salary to $2,500 a year, and has a good balance in the treasury. So much for standing by principie. THE action of the Philadelphia Press on the Billingsley bill suggests that the Press would add to its strength and repute if it would always tell the truth, when the truth is clear, even when it does burt its party. It cannot lead its party and march at the head of the people at the same time, as it ought to know. The horses are not mated, and do not have the same paces. When the Press admitted that the Billingsley bill was slain by the Standard Oil company its candor should have sufficed to compel its confession that the leaders of the Republican party were the

All this may be considered remarka-ble when it is known that Susanna Medora souly twenty-seven years of age-sworn to CANON WILBERFORCE, of England, called on the president last Monday. He also met Mrs. Cleveland, and is enthusiastic in his admiration of that lady. He speaks of her as "a magnificent woman." "She was evidently intended by nature to be the queen she has become. She must be a great help to the president in the discharge of the heavy duties of his high office."

SENATOR LELAND STANFORD has presented to his brother, Josiah Stanford, the celebrated Warm Springs ranch in Southern Alameda county, Cai. On the death of Josiah Stanford the ranch is to go to his three children. The property is valued at $250,000, and was once one of the most noted health resorts in the state. Of late it has not been opened to the public. Grapes and olives are the pro ducts of the ranch.

This tertible disease, pneumonia, has become the Monster of American life. It is sudden, severe and fatal. It comes without warning and strikes down without mercy. Physicians say it must be thrown from the system on its start, and that there is nothing equal to pure spirits for this purpose. Old Groff Spring Distillery.

Situated on East Orange street, between Orange and Chestroul, one square east of reservoir, Lancaster, F.
I have just erected a new distillery with all of the latest improved machinery for distilling FURE MYE WHISEY.

This Distillery has been erected at the ismous old Groffstown Spring, which has been no'ed for its plenteous and unfailing supply of the purest water. At it our grandisthers drank when they were boys, and it has never been known to run dry even in the hotiest weather. From this spring all the water used in the distillery is obtained, the pump drawing from it twenty-five gallons a minute.

Besides my own distilled Whisky, I also handle

Brandies, Gine, Wines, &c. Call and be convinced.
