A Severe Storm

Shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon Lancaster was visited by a heavy storm of rain accompanied by lightning and thunder. The rain fell in torrents for nearly an hour, and for a few minutes there was a fall of hail. The lightning was very vivid, and was followed by such loud and rapid peals of thunder as to show that it had struck several sees in and adjacent to the city. About fifteen of the magnets of the telene company were burnt out and as many ree put out of service. The Edison lighting company had a number of their safety plugs burned out, but no damage was done except the temporary stop-page of some of the lights. John P. Schaum orts half of his lights out and the postoffic also suffered in the same way.

Not a Lancaster Joke.

The Pittsburg Dispatch says:

"It is understood that one of the waiters at the Lancaster depot restaraunt resigned on Tuesday afternoon because he was not permitted to wait upon her majesty the queen of the Sandwich Islanda. Another darkey waiter was allowed to carry dispatch. waiter was allowed to carry dinner to her majesty in the car, and the favoritism was too much for the first waiter."

It is not likely that the queen depended upon the restaurants along the line for her meels. If she did, she received none in Lanpaster for it so happened that her car did not pass through this city. It came east to Har-risburg and then passed down the Northern Central railroad. The funny Dispatch man will have to locate his joke in some other

"What fools these legislative mortals in New York;be," mid a representative German toan intelligences reporter. "They passed an absurd law making it an offense to drink beer while listening to music. Now they are arriving at their senses and one branch of the legislature has assented to a repeal of the offensive clause. The wonder to me is how so many fools get into the legislative assemblies of the country."

blies of the country."

"I think there is a great field open for some dramatist," said the Irish patriot, R. J. Houston, "to write an Irish play that would take like a prairie fire under a July sun. Just look at the materials for contrast. Put on one side the rich landlord living with his horses, his dogs, and his mistresses in Paris off the rents squeezed out of his hard-work-ing tenants. Then piace on the other side an eviction scene in which a poor family is being driven into the storm because they declined to pay increased rent for an increased value which their own labors had brought about. The alternation of these two pictures could be made dramatically intense. Besides they would educate the public mind of this country to a knowledge of the Irish question better than all the speeches and resolutions tha could be written. Fame and money await the playwright who seizes upon the golden opportunity that is presented by the present

"I see," said a leading member of the bar this morning, "that nearly all of the prominent candidates for county offices have signed a pledge not to take any illegal fees. That pledge has been taken before and was invariably violated. It is not worth the paper it is written on. I, too, have taken s pledge," continued this attorney, "and it is that I will not allow any of my clients to pay one cent of illegal fees to any of the officers, after the first Monday of January. If any of the county officers charge illegal fees, I will on my own responsibility prosecute such offi-cer in every case where illegal fees are charged."

The attorney means what he says. every other member of the bar would take a similar pledge the practice of taking illega fees would be speedily broken up.

SIX CRUTS DAMAGES. The Bell Suit Against the Hallroad Company

Still on Trial. The jury in the Fetter-Schmidt suit about the right to a pump after a few minutes deliberation found in favor of plaintiff and assessed the damages at six cents. J. Hay Brown and Coyle for plaintiff; McMullen and B. F. Davis for defendant.

The testimony for the defense in the suit of Maria E. Bell against the Pennsylvania railroad company occupied the attention of the court and jury all of Friday afternoon and this morning. The evidence was to the effect that Bell received his injuries through his own carelessness and the railroad company were not responsible for the same; that Bell was very much under the influence of liquor, that there was a light displayed at the Landisville station and the tracks could be seen plainly, and the train that struck Bell could be seen approaching for a distance of half a mile and if he failed to see it and get out of the way his negligence alone was the and the whistle blown.

Counsel began the argument of the case at 2:30 o'clock. It will be given to the jury this evening. Granted Separate Earnings
