

HAVANA ON THE MOVE.

DRAGGERS SCOURING UP AN QUARTAS AS THEY DID NEED LEAF.

Some of the Prices for Crops Recently Sold. Few Transactions in Old Tobacco—Half of the Leaf Disposed of in New York From Pennsylvania.

The INTELLIGENCER suggested a week ago that buyers were doing with the Lancaster Havana seed what they had done earlier in the season with the seed leaf crop of the country—quietly buying it up.

When there happens to be a crop of seed leaf still unsold there is quite a scramble among buyers to get hold of it, and prices are sufficiently high to attract attention.

The fine weather of the past week has brought on the young tobacco plants rapidly, and some of them are large enough to transplant if the ground was ready for them.

There is absolutely no change; a smooth one may say—everyday business is being transacted, but nothing startling, nothing exciting, nothing new, excepting here and there.

COAL MINES AND GAS.

An Interesting Report That Was Made by Miss Reporter Howard, of Ohio.

The report of Thomas H. Reporter, Inspector of the State of Ohio, that natural gas has been discovered in paying quantities in 19 states and territories and that the revenue from supplying it in Pittsburgh amounts to over $2,000,000 a year.

No record in respect of the yield of natural gas in cubic feet, but the chief of the bureau of mineral statistics estimates that the amount of coal displaced by gas in 1885 was 3,150,000 tons, valued at $1,000,000.

The area of high-pressure gas territory in Northern Ohio is the largest producing field, mainly to Hancock and Wood counties; but a high-pressure well has been recently found, also in Mercer county.

Some little of the packings of seed leaf have been sold by local packers, and it is said to have come out in good style.

J. H. Clark of Adams, Lancaster county, has sold his crop of seed leaf to Teller & Brock for 8 cents through.

The trade in old tobacco is quiet, merely because there is but little old tobacco in which to trade.
