WM. R. KREIDER WITHDRAWS.

A Change in the Combination For Commissioners Decided Upon.

William R. Kreider, candidate for prothonotary, asserted positively that under no circumstances would he withdraw. This morning, however, he did withdraw, and the reason given is that the contest has narrowed down to a fight between Hartman and Mentzer. His withdrawal will not affect the general result. Some of his votes in Warwick will go to Mentzer, but Hartman will be the gainer in the city.

The only change made in the combinations on Monday night was Derrick being bounced from the Bull Ring, and the substituting of David S. Landis, of this city. Mr. Landis' name adds strength to the combination.

In the Hog Ring combination Hershey has been dropped and Gingrich substituted. Hershey's friends are greatly disappointed at his displacement at this late hour, and they will still make a strong fight for him.

CARE FOR THE CIRCUS.

But He Only Saw the Station House and the Depot.

Among those who attended the circus on Saturday, was a young man who came from the lower end of the county. Upon alighting from the train at King street, he proceeded to get drunk and soon became noisy. By 9 a. m. he was in the station house. In the evening a friend went around and asked the mayor to let the young man out in order that he might take the train. The mayor discharged him on payment of costs, and said to him, "Young man, I suppose you have enjoyed yourself heartily to-day. May 30th will be Whitsuntide, and the same kind of a crowd will be in town again Would be pleased to have you come up."

With an angry look the young fellow replied: "Yes, I had a h—ll of a time. I did not see the circus or even the parade, but only saw the station house and depot."

Attempt to Blow Up a Safe.

On Saturday night burglars made an unsuccessful attempt to break into the vault and blow up the safe in Amos Hollinger's tannery, in West Lampeter township, a short distance south of Lancaster. A part of the masonry of the vault was broken, but the burglars were either scared off or gave up the job as hopeless before making any serious impression on it. They left behind them some powder and fuse, and took with them from the office a coat, some small coins and a few other articles. They were evidently after money, but would not have got any even if they had succeeded in breaking into the vault and blowing up the safe, as there was nothing in it but the books and papers belonging to the tannery.

Memorial Day Arrangements.

The regular weekly meeting of the Memorial Day committee of the Grand Army posts was held on Monday.

It was decided to ask the children of the public schools to donate flowers with which to decorate the graves, as was done a year ago.

The secretary was directed to notify all organizations intending to participate in the parade to report to him before next Monday evening.

The committee on music for the evening's entertainment reported that the choir of the Duke street church, Dr. Witherow leader, had volunteered for the occasion.

Fine Fat Cattle.

John S. Mann, the well-known Manor farmer, now has at his farm one of the finest lots of fat cattle ever seen in this county. There are fifty-five in the herd, and they weigh from 1,600 to 1,800 per head. Mr. Mann has sold them to a Philadelphia dealer and they will be taken away this week. A number of people have visited Mr. Mann's farm to see the stock, and they speak in the highest terms of them. Mr. Mann has a great reputation as a stock feeder, and it is surely sustained by this fine herd.

Returned to Court.

Jacob Hartman, of the Eighth ward, charged by Heyman Eberhart with larceny as bailee and felonious assault and battery, was heard by Alderman Barr on Monday evening. The subject of the larceny was dismissed. The felonious assault case grew out of Eberhart's attempt to remove the horse from Hartman's stable. This case was returned to the August sessions and Hartman entered bail for his appearance.

Official Visit to Wilmington.

On invitation of the Crocker Filtering company, of New York, through their secretary, Mr. Williams, the water committee and committee on sewerage and water supply and Clerk Edw. S. Smelts, accompanied by J. M. W. Geist, editor of the New Era, Superintendent of the Water Works J. Halbach and City Regulator S. C. Slaymaker, left on the 6:05 train this morning to visit and inspect the works of the above company at Wilmington, Delaware, and the working of the machines for filtering.

JAMES GOWEN'S POVERTY.

The Remains of the Once Wealthy Contractor Buried at the Expense of His Friends.

Quite a painful sensation has been created in building and other circles by the development of the fact that Colonel James Gowen, the once wealthy contractor, born in Strasburg, this county, and cousin of ex-President Franklin B. Gowen, of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad, died in such a condition of poverty that had it not been for a subscription hastily started by Tom Moran, one of his friends, he would have been buried by the city of Chicago. As it was, the knowledge of the financial condition in which his widow was left become known to his friend in time to enable him to collect about $250, with which the undertaker's bill was paid and a lot purchased in Graceland cemetery.

None of those who knew him in his last days imagined that he was in so desperate a plight. The greater portion of his fortune of $200,000, which he made in the numerous and gigantic engineering enterprises with which his name was connected, was sunk some ten years ago in his Michigan scheme to control the biggest lumber mill in the world, and what was left barely tided him over many years of ill health. Like his Pennsylvania cousin, his head was filled with big schemes. The crib at the water works, the government works at Harper's Ferry, the Hoosac canal, are all monuments to his ability as a contractor, while a death in dire poverty remained to him as the result of his latter scheme and only failure. He leaves a widow and adopted son, who are entirely without means of support.

Two Handsome Teams.

Mr. Samuel Clarke, the West King street tea and coffee merchant, has placed upon the town for the delivery of goods, two handsome teams. The wagons, which are beauties, were built by Philip Doersam and D. A. Altick & Sons. The harness was made to his order by E Kreckel.

The Trial Swept Away Wealth.

From the Chambersburg Valley Spirit.

Mrs. J. P. Angney, or Mrs. J. P. Andrews, as she is known in the West, writes a Chambersburg friend that she is now without money, that all she possessed was given to her husband. She says that she is heart broken, and can hardly realize the position, in which her "noble husband" has been placed. It is said that all the money Angney had remaining from that received from his wife was expended during his trial in Washington recently.

To the Public.

Recognizing the fact that the contest for the Prothonotary has narrowed down to two candidates, and that it would be futile for me to longer remain in the field, I hereby withdraw my name as a candidate, and tender my sincere thanks to my numerous friends for their generous support.

Amusements.

Gilmore's Band—P. S. Gilmore's great band of fifty musicians will be at the King street theatre for two performances next Monday, and there is no doubt that there will be a large crowd in attendance This will be the day of the meeting of the return judges, and that will bring many people to town. Persons living in the country would do well to secure their seats at once. The Boston Globe says: "Mr Gilmore was received with the warmest tokens of appreciation, and the concert throughout was most enjoyable. Popular melodies that reach the heart of the masses and classical music appealing the highest critical taste, were given without stint. The music was vivid, interesting, sufficient in ornament and graceful in execution, and every strain was caught and treasured with an intelligent and ready sympathy by the audience. All the solois's were encored, and to one member of the band these responses were despotically required and given." The sale of seats opens to morrow morning at 8 o'clock

Package Party This Evening.—A package party under the auspices of the Knights of St. John, of this city, will be held this evening at Fulton hall, on the second floor. The Recital.—This evening the Cecilian society will entertain its contributing members and others upon invitation at Fulton opera house.

Haverly's Minstrels On Thursday evening Haverly's minstrels will be here, and as they give an excellent show they should draw well. The season is fast drawing to a close for indoor amusements, and this company will probably be the last at the opera house. They were here recently and gave the best of satisfaction.
