reity Julia Imprisoned For Shoating Har Alleged Paristan Hasband.

Alleged Partition Hashand. In a Paris police court a remarkably pretty little blonde English girl named Julia Roths-child, nineteen years of age, who had gone i brough Gretna Green marriage coremony with Henri Montane, a rich Frenchman, was sentenced to fiften days' imprisonment for shooting and wounding her "bashand" with a revolver.

aboding and wounding her "hasband" with a revolver. Montane, who is a spiendid looking failow, tweaty-two years old, six test high, with black eyes and Henri IV beard, met Jalin at the Alhambra, London, and fell head aper beels in love with her, and a few days affer-ward they were married at the registrar's office. The couple came at once to Paris and lived at Montane's an aptuous massice, No. 34 Rue Montane, Here the most exciting seense took place, which caused constantation in the entire seighborhood. Montane, who served in the French merchant marine, is a man of very eccentric disposition. From the evidence given in 6 ourt by seven witnesse-who, of course, were testifying under cath—is appeared that Montane had all the electit bells in the bouse removed and replaced them with re-volvers, rities and cannons. A complete arsonal was established on each floor of the unstion. A six-pounder brase cannon fired once summoned the builer; fired twice it called the cook; three times, the condamas.

once summoned the builer; fired twice it oalled the cook; three times, the condimen. Fire discharges of the revolver in rapid suc-cession brought the chambermaid should ap-pear with hot water. No condice were slowed to be blown out, but were to be st-tinguished by pistol shots. All the servants were provided with revolvers, and from morning till night there were constant can-boneding and revolver shots. On April 20 Montane's mother, who had not been informed of the marriage, appeared on the scene and was received with a milute of twenty guns. Muns. Montane's mother, who had not been informed of the marriage, appeared on the scene and was received with a milute of twenty guns. Muns. Montane replied by insisting that the marriage was not binding in France, and that Julie be sent back to London. Julis and Heart then quarreled. Julis, furious and raging, simed her revolver at Henri and fired six balls at him, wounding him twice in the arm and shoulder. ulder.

A Warden's Opinion of the Fishway.

Fish Warden Alonza E. Brady, of Harris burg, who is at Columbia inspecting the new Rodgers' fish ladders, says in a letter : "We et the gill net on Saturday, a number of interested fishermen being present. The net was placed in the water immediately above was placed in the water immediately above the fishway. This morning about 6:65 we went out and upon arriving found two fishermen standing on the fishway. The net was lifted and one shad found. The men accused somebody of putting the shad in the net. I then determined to stay on the fish-way all day and night so as to be sure the nets had not been tampered with. Before 12 o'clock 1 lifted the net and found one shad allve. One of the fishermen, Thomae Wilson, acknowledged that the fishway was a success as he was present and saw the shad caught."
