Frightened at the Cars.

This afternoon four horses belonging to Benjamin Bair, of Robrerstown, bitched to a load of manure, were being driven along Chestnut atreet, opposite the Pennsylvania railread station. The animals frightened at the Columbia train, which came rushing in, and jumped upon the pavement, taking the wagon with them. The driver and several others managed to get control of them before my damage had been done beyond the breaking of several bricks in the corner of ster house. When the wagon was stopped the front wheel was against the Iron railing which surrounds the entrance to George Boehringer's barber shop. For a se it looked as though the horses were going to get away.

ENIONIS TOWPLAN SERVICE.

Accousion Thursday Was Recognized by Lancaster Commundery, No. 13. Lancaster Commandery No. 13 Knights Templar, held religious services in their hall Thursday evening appropriate to Ascension Thursday. The attendance of Sir Knights was fair, and there were many of their lady friends in the congregation.

After the Sir Knights in full uniform had rehed in and taken their sests, the service began by the singing of Kolschmar's Te Deum, by a select choir, lad by Sir Knight Wm. B. Hall, and consisting of the following voices: Misses Mazie Locher, Gussie Diffenderfer, Mary Sener, Sallie Schaubel, and Mesars, H. B. Gibson, Wm. J. Drepperd, George Hambright and Walter A. Heinitah. Prof. F. W. Hass presided at the organ.
The singing of the Te Deum was followed by a recital of the Lard's prayer, led by Sir Knight Rev. J. Y. Mitchell, who was prelate for the occasion.

The 24th pealm was read by the prelate and responses made by the Sir Kulghts. The choir sang "Gioria Patri," the 47th pealm was read with responses and then the choir sang Dudley Buck's "Gloris in Excelsis."

The prelate read the first lesson, 2d Kings, second chapter, from the first to the fifteenth verse. This was followed by Dudley Buck's Bonem Est" by the choir. The second esson was read from St. Luxe, 24th chapter, rom the 41th verse to the end.

" God Be Mercitul" was sung by the choir and the Appetie's creed was recited, after which the choir and congregation sang the Hymn of the Ascension.

Sir Knight Rev. J. Y. Mitchell preached a brilliant sermon from the text found in Fxodus 17th chapter, 15th verse: "And Moses built an altar there, and called the name of it Jehovan Nissi; the Lord my "Coronation" was sung by the choir and Sir Kuights, and the assemblage was dismissed with a benediction.

The services were impressive throughout. The stuging was of a superior character, the eadings and responses were admirable, and Sir Kuight Mitchell's sermon is regarded as one of the best he ever delivered.

HAFERLY'S MINOTEBLO. They Play to a Good-vired Audience and Give Satisfaction Last evening Haverly's minstrels appeared n Fulton opera house for the s cond time this eason. The audience was of good size, but the hot weather had a telling effect upon it. The company was almost the same as when it appeared here before. There were ten end men in the first part with E. M. Hall and George Gorman on the outside chairs. The vocal and instrumental music was very fine. Fred Malcoim sweetly rendered "My Jack is a Satiot"; and "Baby's Laughing in Her Sleep," by J. B. Curran, was also very pretty. Master Percy, a little boy who has recently joined the company, opened the first part He appeared in a full dress suit and sang several pleasing songs. The statue clog o the Gormans and five other dancers was ex cellent, the different p c'ures being well given. The same party also did well in a song and dance. The Quaker City quartette by their stoging, instrumental music and imitations made the hits of the evening and were re peatedly encored. E. M. Hali has few U any superiors as a banjo player, and he was given an old-time reception, which was just as warm as the weather. The show closed with an oppretts entitled "King of the Fijis," which contained plenty of good music and handsome costumes. Fred Malcolm's make-up as Princess Sunbeam was really wonderful The company surely pleased. They went from here to Reading, and will go to Pitts burg on Monday. Col.
