From the Chicago Tribune.

A Chicago bank man who has a lovely wife told a pretty good story at his club the other day by way of illustrating the proverbial ways of women. She had said to him:

"Dear, now I'm not going to sak you for an allowance; that is vulgar. You put a couple of thousand in bank to my credit, give me a check-book and I'll run the house, elothe myself, pay the servants, and relieve you of myself, pay the servants, and relieve you of

The gentleman was struck with the idea.
'After all," he said to himself, "this marriage scrape I've got myself into promises to pan out. Dear, good little woman! How thoughtful of ber. Why, of course!" So he drew a check on his own bank, deposited it in another bank to his wife's individual in another bank to his wife's individual credit, and gave her a separate bank and check book. Womanlike she tossed the bank-book into a drawer, but held religiously to the check-book. Long before the month had expired she got a notice from the bank that her account was exhausted, and the last check had overdrawn it $1.70. "Would she kindly make a new deposit?"

The lady was in a turnum frame. There must be something wrong, she knew. She pored over her check-book, counted the stubs and the bank checks, and then she knew that the bank had blundered. She donned her new Easter bonnet and ber spring wrap, and full of the spirit of the occasion and the outrage of the bank's insult salled into the cashier at the window.

"What does this notice mean?" she asked in a voice quivering with passion."

"It means that your account is overdrawn, "It means that your account is overdrawn, madame, that's all."

"It is not, air. My husband gave me this check-book, and you see yourself that out of the hundred checks in it I naven't used fifty. There's the book, sir: see for yourself. Of course you'll have to explain this to Mr. —. I never was so insuited!"

"But, my dear madame, don't you see you have drawn out all the morey to your credit have drawn out all the money to your credit and $1.70 besides?"

"I just don't care anything about that "I just don't care anything about that My husband gave me this check-book, and here less than half of them are used. Do you mean to say I am going to lose all of those checks! Well, I'll go and see my husband about it. He'll settle you, sir, and if I have any influence with him, and I think I have, both his account and mine shall go out Dr. Oswald Seidensticker, of the University of Pennsylvania, is the guest of E. K. Martin, Esq. Dr. Seidensticker is well known as the historian of this country, and especially in Pennsylvania. His German works are of the highest order of merit historically, while as a master of German style, the doctor has few equals, and no superior in his native language. Some years ago he wrote a valuable and entertaining sketch of Ephrata and its history which appeared with illustrations in the Century, and upon which Dr. Eggleston based his very pretty story entitled "Sister Theresa" in the same magazine. The day will be intensely cold. When Saz uei Clarke is undersold. Flour a Specialty I

We have the pleasure of introducing to the people of Lanc ister an entirely NEW FLOUR, inanufactured on the latest improved system, and would request all lovers of good, sweet bread to give it a trial. We introduce this brand of Flour with these claims:

1. Equal in richness and color to any Flour in the United States.

2. Equal in strength to any Flour made.

3. Superior in healthruiness to any stone or roller Flourin the United States.

These facts can be substantiated by a fair trial of this brand—the high straight grade. Said only at

LET US TURN TO STYLE.

We're well known for our dependable clothing; and the responsibilities we assume in giving you a clear title that materials and workmanship will turn out according to our statement. We don't rest ourselves with these. We must have it what it ought to be throughout; and the best in style. In the prices it falls considerably short of custom-made; in fashion ing and shapeliness you couldn't find the difference. You expect that from Oak Hall, don't you? and the prices below everybody else's besides. You'll get both Whatever is wanted in clothing we have.
