Alfred C. Bruner, eeq. Early in 1874 effort were made to organize this lodge, when 116 en signed a petition for that object. Twenty men were selected, who were elected and initiated into Susquehanna lodge and then made application for a charter. This was granted and the lodge in-stituted on May 27th, 1884. Petitions for mbership were at once numerous. The first death occurred on November 8th, 1875. The lodge went into its present quarters on October 2d, 1878. The historian presented numerous events which were of interest to the members of the lodge. During the years of existence there were admitted 221 members, but the loss was 89, leaving the present membership 132. The total receipts of the lodge have been $12,979.10. The amounts paid for relief were $2,011.94. The total available assets of the lodge at the present time amounts to $5,384.86. The speaker gave an illustration of the good work of the lodge in their assistance of a faithfully attended to while sick and buried in a respectable manner.

On the Rhine," Cecilian orchestra. Societies," G. W. Berntheisel, M. D. The early opposition to secret societies sprang from ecclesisatical authorities and jealousy. The present crusade against the same is con ducted by a portion of the clergy. The speaker showed that it is impossible to sucessiully conduct a crusade when the parties are totally ignorant of the character and workings of the societies. The orders were classified into two kinds—the good and the evil. He advocated the crusade against those ies-in the shape of Anarchism, Nihilism, Socialism and rebellion--having for their object the overthrowing of established laws strife, discord and desolation. The speaker auded those societies having for their aim the elevation of character, the promotion of good, the prevention of and relief of distress Notwithstanding the crusade against these inding the crusade against these orders the Masons number 500,000 and the Odd Fellows number over that amount, making a total of 1,000,000 men belonging to these two orders in this country. During the past 14 years the Odd Fellows in Pennsyl-vania have paid out the immense sum of $5,395,119 for the relief of distress, and in the face of all this it is almost inexplicable to understand the motive for this crusade.

Address, "Our Order," Wm. B. Given. eq. The world is full of faiture and the tale of blasted hopes that it gladdens the heart and brightens the life to get into an atmosphere where there is no story but that of success. Success is not won in this age without some reason for it. The success of our order in this country has been marvelous and unparaticled. Its origin is not within the vell of mystery. American Odd Fellow-ship, and it differs widely from the English brand-has lived less than three score years and ten. Begun within the memory of men now living, it has grown, developed and matured within a life's brief span. In a little back room at the "Seven State" in the city of Baltimore in 1819, five men organized Washington Lodge, No. 1. To day it numbers more than a haif a million. This growth means something. It has lived long enough to convince the most skeptical that it is not of the sky-rocket order. Its path has been one of continued ascendency, its sourse one of continued, unwavering success Odd Fellowship is built upon a rock, a rock of truth, and that rock is in one word, Fraternity. The order is a vast army called from every rank of life. While Old Fellowship is the great beneficial order of the world; while its chief aim is to relieve the needy, care for the sick and bury the dead, yet its work takes a wider scope and its benefits are social, refining and elevating. No man can enter the portals without proclaiming his belief in the Deity. Integrity in the personal life and seal in the personal actions are inculcated. Our whole works appeal to the soul. It makes men more valuable citi-zens and better fathers, while its philan-thropy lets sunshine of plenty into homes, where without it want would forever dwell. there is no more eminent, honorable and seful institution enlisted in the interest of ankind than our vast brotherhood.

Two Lancaster Pishermon Suffer by Having Their Prey Stolen.

I wo well known saloon-keepers of this city had a rather rough experience on a fish-ing trip this week. On Wednesday they drove down below Intercourse, and spent several hours balting and setting one hundred and fifty outlines, which they placed in the Conestoga creek. When they went to look at the lines they found that the fish had been removed during the night by some one who had cut the hooks from the lines. They afterwards learned that the offense was con mitted by some young countrymen who were out "gigging" and they secured quite a large lot of eels, &a, from the lines of the

One of the thieves was a son of a constable in the neighborhood. The Lancaster men sayed but a few lines from the wreck and they had several fine large cels. They returned to this city very much depressed in spirits, as they had good reasons to be, and one of them is swearing yet about the mean trick they had played upon them.

Handsome Husiness Wagon.

Norbeck & Miley to-day turned out one of the handsomest business wagons ever seen upon the streets of Lancaster. It was made to the order of Amos K. Hoffmeier and will be used by him in the delivery of furniture. The wagon is substantially built and looks as if it would stand the wear and tear of years. It is handsomely finished and the mechanic in charge of the painting department proves by his work on this wagon that he thoroughly understands his business. The upper side panel is finished in imitation of old gold, the lower panel is a wine color and the running gear is cream color with tinted striping. In the bed of the wagon are several iron clasps, an idea of Mr. Hoffmeier's, to fasten furniture so that it will remain in place while being delivered. Norbeck & Miley have turned out a large number of susiness wagons within the past ten years, but this one, to all appearances, is the handsomest of the lot.

FANS OF ALL SOR ITS AND PRICKS. They are all new goods Get one; then a thermometor, and you will know when to use the Fan. We have both. You ought to have both. An Irishman once said of a thermome-ter; "If that's the thing that makes it so hot, I'll smash it; "and he did. He hadn't our advice. Buy a Fan and use that Toilet Soap. A customer said to us: "You can't get Pure Toilet Soap for those prices;" we believe you never could till now and here. Test the truth of what we say. Ordered special, we do that for you at any time, remember. Side
