LANCASTER, JUNE 2, 1887.

The Mayor's Message.

The message of the mayor shows the city to be in a good condition in all its desents, with the debt being yearly reseed through the sinking fund, and suffident moneys in the treasury to keep the My department in good order. The water supply is being carefully improved and the sowerage wisely considered. The fire de-partment seems fairly efficient, and there is no longer complaint of the lighting of the streets. The outlay upon the streets is kept within the appropriation; which is, of ourse, well. But it would be well if the mayor's recommendation that the stones used for macadamizing be properly broken and that a stone crusher be purchased, should be promptly met. It is unaccountable that the city has been so long without s machine to crush stones to a proper sees. It is not a sufficient reason that the appropriation for street purposes did not allow of the expenditure. It is not spary that the machine should be paid for out of the appropriation of a single year when it will do the work of many years. It will save its cost in a year's work, sesides giving us, what we do not now have, stones properly crushed. It is absurd to put upon the streets the large stones that are now laid there.

The mayor makes some very sensible suggestions relative to the proposed improvements of the water and sewerage stems, and he may be relied upon to see that the money appropriated for these objects is carefully used. He calls the attention of councils to the need of adapting the ordinances to the new charter under which we are to sit in 1588, and which will require considerable readjustment to meet

Quay's Threat.

United States Senator and Secretary of State Quay has made a very notable statement at Harrisburg in connection with the failure of the revenue bill, which he says quite possibly failed from sinister action: and he takes occasion to declare that he and those who act with him are not content with the favor shown to corporations in the supreme court decisions, and that they propose to change the court; the removal of two members only being needed one of whom will be taken out this year and the other next year; meaning Judges Mercur and Gordon.

That talk, if it came from a politician of ordinary standing, would have little significance, because it is of a sort that men are wont to indulge in; but coming from a leader of Quay's prominence it is significant. It is generally supposed that he has a large power to do what he threatens; and when he thus raises his voice against the supreme court, against corporations and against sinister legislation, it is more than the voice of the idle wind.

But while realizing this, we are not at all bound to believe in the sincerity of Quay's declarations. They have evidently been made with malice aforethought. Apparently Judges Mercur and Gordon are to have the hatchet. Seemingly Quay is seeking cover under an anti-corporation blanket. But that he should abuse officers of the legislature for sinister action and the supreme court for corporation subserviency, while it may be a sign that he proposes to turn over a new leaf, is such an obvious case of Satan reproving sin that we may be permitted to doubt whether it is one of sincere conversion.

And we doubt still more when we note the injustice of the aspersion upon the supreme court of the state. We have in past years found that this court was very subservient to corporation influences; but of late years it has been far less so; and Judge Gordon, whom Quay marks out for slaughter, has been a judge of marked independence and esty. We cannot say that Chief Justice Mercur has not been an undue friend of corporation interests, for he has seemed to be ; and if Mr. Quay, and his friends desire to show their hostility to corporations, they can do it by dropping the chief justice who certainly has not been their enemy.

But the interesting question is as to what Quay is driving at. Very few people will give him credit for sincerity in his new role of corporation hater. It is an obvious fact that it is a popular cry to ake; and it is just possible that Quay, sing safely seated as senator for six years. be siming to tack with the Republiship on to the Democratic course, and rive to take the wind out of our sails. So an a wrench of the old bark will be my to shiver its timbers; and we await with curiosity the effect of the new departupon the crew. The old stagers will be cautious about changing their ngs; for they know well enough that heir party has no go in it except as the poration boat. After the demonstra-is made by the last legislature of its ar subserviency to Standard and Tracion influences, it is hopeless for it to seek to convince the public that it is as virtuous ss Senator Quay paints himself and his nds. If he is so stout a foe of corporanow, it is a pity that his conversion not come a little earlier so that he that have saved his party's record in the re that has just gone; and the with it.

lution of councils. Under the head of councils in the city dignet, section 20, page 56, is found the provision of the act of May 23, 1874, declaring that "no ordinance shall be passed, except by a two-third rote of both councils, and approved by the mayor, giving any extra compensation to any public officer," etc.

A councils' resolution to have the mayor draw his warrant has no effect. It must draw his warrant has no effect. It must be by ordinance passed by a two-thirds vote of both councils and approved by the mayor.

If this would not stop the Johnson raid on the city treasury, section 2 under the head of solicitor in city digest, page 164, would do it. This ordinance of May 4, 1872, declares that the $300 salary of the city solicitor " shall be a full recompense for the discharge of all his duties, now or hereafter imposed upon him by acts of assembly or ordinances."

It is clear that this ordinance cannot be repealed by a joint resolution in Johnson's case. It can only be changed by another ordinance : and that under the law must be passed by a two-thirds majority, to increase the compensation of an official.

Let It Be Tested. The Lancaster & Millersville Street Railway company operate their line under a lease from the Lancaster & Reading Narrow Gauge Railroad company. The latter corporation got a most remarkable franchise from the legislature in the act of April 3, 1873. Sections 3 and 4 of this act

That the company (the Reading and Narrow Gauge) is hereby authorized to use, pass over and occupy such streets and alieys in the city of Lancaster as may be required in the construction of its roads and their branches and connections, without any other authority than is herein granted, and to connect with any railroad now constructed or hereafter to be constructed.

hereafter to be constructed.

That the said company is hereby authorized to construct railroads from the city of Lancaster, to or near any point within the county of Lancaster, and occupy and cross with all roads any street, public or private road or turnpike road at grade.

It is a wonder that the legislature did not grant to this corporation the privilege of tearing down, without compensation, all buildings that in any way interfered with its plans. Surely no one will contend that the vast privileges given by the legislature without concurrent assent on the part of the city could be enforced. If there is any such doubt, let it be promptly tested. Let the Millersville company be ordered to conform their gauge to that of the Lancaster city street railway, at least on the two North Queen street squares, from the railroad station to the monument. If councils have not this power over city affairs, they are poor indeed. In any event no third track must be laid to distigure North Queen street and endanger the lives of those who travel with vehicles thereon.

Our College Commencement.

The invitations have been issued for the centennial commencement of Franklin and Marshall college on June 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16. They are specimens of the fine work of the INTELLIGENCER job department and will attract special attention because of being printed on paper over one hundred years old. The paper was found in the loft of the old paper mill of J. M. Wilcox & Co., near Philadelphia, and it was a most appropriate idea to secure it for this centennial anniversary.

Lancaster feels a just pride in the historic institutions that are about celebrating their joint anniversaries. Franklin and Marshall college has done a wonderous work for good in this city by elevating the standards of intellectual taste, and educatng some of its most able professional men. There should be in every Lancastrian's heart a warm feeling for the venerable college where ripened an intellect like unto that of the revered John W. Nevin. And every citizen should do what in him lies to make this centennial celebration of Lancaster's great institution of learning the beginning of a higher and broader era of development.

THE rapid advance in the price of coffee attracting a good deal of attention in the business world at this time. It is almost as serious as would be a rise in the price of

THE recent brake tests at Burlington, lows, demonstrated that electrical agencies properly applied, furnished the best known means for avoiding serious shocks when engthy trains were stopped in a short distance. On the other hand, the tests fur-nished evidence, by the partial disarrangement of the electrical appliances used by some of the various brake systems, during the tests, of a danger which might naturally be anticipated, and it is still a question whether a reliable method of using electricity in connection with continuous brakes ap plied to freight trains can be devised.

THREE Pittsburg men amused themselves on Decoration Day by pulling down an American flag erected in front of a barber shop. The men were arrested on a charge of malicious mischief, and in default of $300 each were locked up. Not long ago a party of young French army officers, attached to the cavairy school at Saumur, also amused themselves by tearing down the flags of the republic flying from a bridge. The local papers simply treated the matter as a good joke, and it did not seem to occur to any one that anything had been done deserving punishment. This striking contrast illustrates the wide difference between the people of the two republics, and does not increase the respect of Americans for French ideas of government. Evidently the flag is not there regarded as the sacred symbol of authority, for even if the popular sentiment had then been opposed to the government represented by the tri-color, one would have thought that the officers of the army would feel bound to accord it due respect.
