SAMUBL PASCO.

Biography of the Newly Elected Benator From Florida

The new Senator from Florida, Hon. Samuel Pasco, of Monticello, who was creen by the legislature on the 19th of May, after a prolonged contest, resulting for a time in a dead-lock, is remarkable for having served as a private, and private only, during the civil war. "Confederate Brigadiers" in Congress can usually be found in abundance without elaborate search; but Private Pasco, of the Third Ftorida Infantry, has a somewhat novel war record for a United States constor. He was not, however, by birth a Southerner, ner war record for a United States senator. He was not, however, by birth a Southerner, acr indeed an American. A native of London, England, his parents emigrated to the British Provinces when he was about ten years old and thence to Charlestown, in the suburbs of Boston. There he was fitted for college and entered Harvard in the year 1854. He was a quiet, unpretentious student of good capacity, without ranking among the highest. He did not reside in the college buildings, but with his family. Upon graduating in 1858, he went to Florida and taught school at Waukeeman, meanwhile studying law. Two years later the war broke out and he college in the same of the first state of the time employed as a cierk at regimental or brigade beadquarters, but managed to do his chare of fighting. A co.nrade recalls an act of gallantry on his part in bringing off a mortally wounded companion from under fire at Jackson, Miss., in 1863. At Missionary Ridge, towards the close of that year, he was wounded and captured and was sent as a prisoner to camp Morton, at Indianapolia, where he was head till the end of the war. Returning on his liberation to Florida, he began the practice of law at Monticello, in the office of Colonel Dill, whom he succeeded in business. There, in 1892, he married Miss Jossie Denham, and they have six children. Mr. Pasco became clerk of the county court and also city clerk in Monticello, a trustee of the scadency, captain of the local military company, grand master of Masons, and past of the academy, captain of the local military company, grand master of Masons, and past grand master of the O to Follows. But his first promise or in politics dates from the Hayes cauvass of 1876, when he was made committee, of which he had aiready for some ne been a member. In 1880 and 1884 he was sandidate for nomination as governor, but therew in favor of Gov. Biexham in the first instance and Gov. Perry in the second this conciliating spirit served him well, since during the long struggle for the effice of sensior, when both these gentlemen were candidates with Mr. Pasco for the Democratic nomination, and the contest had lasted many days, he again withdrew, but was at length taken up again and received the unanimous Democratic support. Two years ago he was elected a member of the state constitutional convention, and was chosen its presiding officer, gaining much credit for his quiet common series ways, and last November, being elected to the lagislature, he was chosen speaker of the House.

Bob Ingersoli's Latest. New York Letter to Cincinnati Enquirer.

There is no wittler story-teller than Col. "Bob." Ingersoil. His application of old stories is never at fault. He was at a dinner the other day where a new Yorker, who has a wide reputation as an after-dinner speaker. was somewhat disappointing to the guesta. Col. Ingersoil had a neighbor at the table

Col. Ingersoil had a neighbor at the table who leaned over and said:

"Colonel, how in the world did Blank come to have such a reputation as an afterdinner speaker? It does not seem warranted by what he has done to night."

"That reminds me," said the colonel, " of a Georgian who came up to Illinois after the war and wanted to sell his 'uniform.' He asked around at several places, 'Do you want to buy a uniform? 'Finally some one seked him what grade of uniform it was when he said: 'It was a private's uniform in Georgie, but I reckon it mout do for a cunnel in Illinois."

She (blushingly)—Oh! That's what company means?
He (emilingly)—Yes. And if you consider me as your company I should like to consider you as my misery.
She (wonderingly)—Your misery?
He (triumphantly)—Yes; because, you know, misery loves company.
She (demurely)—I see. We'll admit, then, that you are company and I misery. But don't you think misery a very disagreesble name for a girl, and that it ought to be changed—say to company.
Then he popped.

After Governor Gorden, of Georgia, had finished his address at Nashville the other day a large number of ladies were presented to him. "Among these," eye a local paper, "was one who is quite a belie in local scolery for her beauty as well as her wit and madenly accomplishments. Governor Gorden chaited in most pleasant conversation for a few moments, then shook hands, in bidding farewell to the ladies, until he came to the mineteen-year old beauty, when he put her face between his hands and turning up as pretty a pair of lips as post ever dreamed of. The young lady bluebed alightly, but could, of course, take no offense. It was truly an act of homage on the part of greatness to beauty."

Course of Mis Popularity. From the Philadelphia Leiger.

It is continually becoming clearer and surer that Grover Cleveland, as president of the United States, is strongly intrenched in the good will of the people. He has done right—that's one reason; Mrs Cleveland is another.

Piccase and Death Force their way into many a household that might be protected from their inroads, by the simple precaution of keeping in the house that benign family medicine and safeguard of health, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Particlarly where there are children, should it be kept on hand, as a prompt femody for infan-tile complaints, in their outset easily conquerable, but which, if allowed to engraft themable, but which, if allowed to engraft them-scives on the delicate childish organism, are not easily dislodged, and speedily work griev-ous mischief. Irregularity of the bowels, indigestion and billiousness are aliments of common occurrence in the household. Children, living in mariarious regions are more liable to be attacked with chilis and fever than adults, and the ravages of that fell disease in their system are speeder and more serious. In remote localities, far from pro-fessional aid, it is especially desirable.

"PYROLOID"

COLLAR AND CUFF Possesses many advantages over any libe article heretofore offered to the public, among which we would enumerate:

1. Perspiration will not affect them.

2 the turn down collars are as pliable as lines and can be worn with a cravat, which can be readily adjusted while on the neck.

3. Even to the practiced eye they present the appearance of the finest laundried lines, and do not differ from it in color.

4. They can be easily cleaned with a metacloth on the surface, for by so doing they can be made to last many weeks in all seasons, and of an actual test have been worn for two meatics without seriously affecting their outward copearance.

5. They are far more economical and combertable to wear than either lines or any substitute heretofore offered.

6. Unlike the waterproof inbrice which consists of a stiff and unyielding chemical compound, they are free from any liability to combustion, and do not burn any more freely than ordinary texture, or felted fabrics. Those who have given them a trial will not be without
