That Conspiracy to Kill.

The Philadelphia Press says that Rufus Shapley holds the same view that the MTELLIGENCER maintains in regard to the sency of the meeting of the Senate to ritness its president's signature to the revenue bill. This opinion was communicated the Press reporter to Attorney General Kirkpatrick, who, after consultation with ernor Beaver, declared that it was not and. No reason was given for this opinsave that the Senate could only be ed together to consider executive busiwhile this was legislative business. We consider this reason to be a very poor one, and it intensifies our suspicion that this state administration is hostile to the one bill, and has deliberately plotted for its destruction. It is being penned in a very small hole, which will be a hot when it undertakes to have revenue bill, that is universally deed. fail for the reason given for its The declaration that the great sate of Pennsylvania cannot find a remedy for an omitted signature to a law, which is puts the state in too ridiculous a plight to patiently endured. Governor Beaver overed that the president of the Senate had not signed the revenue bill and he ediately proceeded to make this failure effective in killing the bill. Evidently he did not love it. Clearly he wanted it killed, and he refuses now to call an extra session, though the legislators offer to serve for nothing, and although he says an extra session is the only cure. And he refuses the simple solution which we have suggested in the assembling of the sione. He declares he cannot asmble it save for executive business. Even though this be so, which it is not, what is the signature to a law but an executive act? The governor says he cannot sign because the president of the Senate has not; wherefore then can he not call the Senate together that its president may do this executive act in its presence as the constitution requires, so that the governor may perform the executive act of signing and making the bill a law?

We are not sure but that the president ness his signature. It does not seem material how the Senate assembles so that it gets together and organizes and witnesses the signature of its president to the law already passed, which signature has been accidentally or wrongfully omitted. Mr. Shapley declares his decided conviction that the signature was maliciously omitted through a conspiracy hired by the corporations whom the bill taxes. This spiracy could not have been made effective without the action of the governor, in detecting the omitted signature and giving it a fatal influence not legitimately due to it. How could the conspirators know that the governor would note the omission, or that, if he did, it would cause him to withhold his signature, when if he had signed and had the seal of the comconwealth put upon the law, the courts would have maintained its validity? Mr. hapley's accusation strikes high; but ere seems to be plenty of powder to send It high and scatter it wide.

It is to be noted with interest in this connection, that the governor expresses a poor opinion of the virtue of the slain revenue bill. The Philadelphia Times reports him as saying that the insurance comdes, whose taxes it reduces, are at the ottom of the pressure for the extra ses-

He further says that the assessments in the counties have already been made for this year and the act would be of no financial value to them until next year. He objects to the law that it would provoke much tigation from the powerful interests that it affects. He declares that it would have been a failure so far as producing a greater state revenue is concerned. It is therefore very evident that the governor was not an enthusiastic admirer of the new bill and that he knifed it without regret if not with absolute pleasure. His judgment may hontly be against it; though it would be strange, were it so, since the epinion of the people, outside the exporations, seems to be unanimously for it. But the fact probably is that the overnor's judgment has been controlled, at his act dictated, by the powerful chiefs his party, who have secured the same from the corporations that they ob-ed from the Standard Oil company for Ring the Billingsley bill. The gathering sets point clearly to the concussion of President Smith's signastages carefully arranged, by Republican

A Great Educational Event.

Mext week will witness one of the most rable educational events in the history his city, namely, the contennial exercises Franklin and Marshall college. farmy of consumers; and during com-moment week holds of strangers are at-sted to our beautiful town, their pres-ce stimulating the business and social life of the city.

In the intellectual advantage of the college to the town the field is so broad that curate measurement is difficult. But it is certain that Franklin and Marshall college diffuses ever-broadening waves of cul-ture over this city, the effects of which reach into every variety of life in our midst.

There is, then, every reason why Lancastrians should desire to see next week's centennial exercises crowned with a glorious success; and all the indications preshadow this most desirable result.

Serious Charges.

The Harrisburg correspondent of the New York World says in speaking of the failure of the general revenue bill in the last legislature, "that three senators and a clerk were given $75,000 by the various corporations who will profit by the bill's defeat." The Philadelphia Times in moving for an extra session of the legislature to repair the blunder, asks Governor Beaver whether he is going to permit fraud to triumph by failing to call an extra ses-

Here are two distinct allegations that the bill was defeated by fraud. They are made by responsible newspapers, and they throw upon the legislature an odium which it should be quick to cast off, if the charges have no foundation. Let the Republican legislators force the accusers to give the names of the accused. Until this is done, the stigma of fraud will rest upon every member of the last legislature.

WHEN Wheeler allied himself to the fraudulent regime of Hayes, he took a short cut to oblivion.

DR. McGLYNN is going stark crazy. At the Academy of Music, New York, on Sun-day night, he is reported as declaring that if the people are not satisfied with his peaceful agitation they will get "their bellyful of reorms such in came through the French

THE indications for the Delaware peach crop this season range from fair to good.

VASSAR COLLEGE girls do not live en-tirely on sentiment and culture. The report of the treasurer shows that the young ladies have eaten during the past year, among other things, $4,000 pounds of fresh mests, 8,000 pounds of smoked mests, nearly 5,000 pounds of turkeys, over 4,000 pounds of chickens, nearly 4,000 pounds of fish, 32,000 clams, 141 gallons of oysters, 230 barrels of flour, 14,000 of butter, 95,000 quarts of milk 25,000 pounds of sugar, 30,000 oranges and lemons, 10,000 bananas, over 1,000 bushels of potatoes, and 100,000 buckwheat cakes.

BLAINE dodged a meeting with O'Brien before leaving New York for Europe. His disposition to dodge is the best reason why he will never secure the presidency.

THE York Gazette has abundant confidence n the honesty of newspaper patrons in York county when it thus speaks:

So send on your names, or hand them to your postmasters, cash or no cash, and we will send you the Gazette promptly and regularly; and if you do not worry more than we will about our pay for it, you will not lose much sleep about the matter, for a year or two, anyway.

LANCASTER cremationists are making a name abroad, Dr. M. L. Davis has been elected an honorary member of the Cremation society

THE bids of rival companies for the privilege of building elevated roads on certain streets in Philadelphia serve to indicate the value of the franchise which the city gave away so freely to the street railway companies. The Consolidated Transit company offered $250,000 in cash and $10,000 a mile on the rail-way built. The Philadelphia & Northeastern ompany had previously offered 3 per cent. of its gross annual receipts, and although they claim that this would be better than the offer of their rival, they now agree to replace it with a still better bid; they will give $500, 000 in cash and $10,000 for every additions mile of road constructed. In the light of New York's experience there is grave doubt whether Philadelphia does well to permit the building of elevated railways; but if the city is in such wild haste for rapid transit that cannot wait for the best and eafest article it does well to hold the privilege of building at as high a figure as possible.

BICYCLE clubs are now called "Bi" clubs. It is no wonder that a Frenchman said Americans gain two hours a day by clipping

THE Scranton Republican declares that the western half of the population of the state is now represented by five out of the seven judges on the supreme bench, while the eastern half has only Judges Paxson and Green. It insists therefore that the new man on the supreme bench shall be an Eastern man, and the Republican thinks that Hon. Alfred Hand, of Lackswanns, would fill the bill. The Wilkesbarre Record suggests Judge Rice, of Luzerne, for the vacancy because he would be a specialist in the law of coal mines and mining, and because he is only 40 years of age.

It is interesting to read what these journals hink on this important question; but the thought of Governor Beaver on the subject is vastly more significant, for he has the arpointing power. With sensible men the claim of section should have no effect. Give us a good supreme court judge, no matter where he comes from. The court is sadiy in need of stronger judicial timber.

HENRY GEORGE mays that if Lord Lane downe really owns ninety-five thousand acres in county Kerry, Ireland, he has a right to do as he pleases with his tenants. O'Brien was wise in steering clear

THERE appears to be a great deal of rich picking around the Philadelphia municipality and we note that John Wanamaker bobs up serenely whenever the dinner bell is rung. He seems to have a taste for blood since he sat around the carcass of the Reading with such wolves as Louber Welsh and Sammy Shipley. He not long ago appeared as a bidder for the gas works and now his company wants the streets. They happen, how-ever, to have made their bid somewhat inadequate, and will need to put their hands

It will be a great mistake for Philadelphia to sell the right to rapid transit on her streets. She should keep it in her hands and require the payment of a certain portion of the grow receipts and all of the net receipts over ten
