If the income of each sitizen could be certainly ascertained it rould form the fittest basis for to levy; but this cannot be done. al estate bears the burthen of taxation because it cannot be concealed : but the levy upon it is grossly unequal because of the varied assessment made by many assessors in many localities. The real estate tax is a very unjust one as it is levied, not only because of the inequality of appraisement, but because no account is taken of the indebtedness upon it. The land is taxed, and the liens upon it, as well the obligations of the owner that are

His eminence, before going to Rome, sent to each one of his parish priests a note requesting him to investigate the rules and conduct of lignity of dying only at the bands of the artificial fly. The second offense against the unwritten law of the lovers of lake and stream, and of which the president has been guilty, is troiling for trout with a "gang." This deadly contrivance consists of toops, three groups of three and one single attached to a snell. To these books is affixed a live minnow, which, rigid, pierced by half dozen points and in horrible torture, is trailed slowly after the fisherman at the end of a long line. The trout sees the crippled ninnow, makes a break tor him, snaps and sets from three to five barbs in his own jaw, rom which escape is impossible. He is then reeled in by the troiler at his letsure. These two offenses are indeed serious, but angler should suspend judgment until Mr. Cleve land is heard from.

It may be that when the commission 'to revise the tax law assembles it may condude that it has little to do but to simplify our present laws and moderately d them. It would not be wise to attempt radical changes. The modifications hould be made cautiously and gradually. It is a favorite idea that an equal tax law can be made by the proper effort of human wisdom, but as it has never been done, our commission is not likely to do it.

The Fourth of July.

Mayor Fitler, of Philadelphia, has appointed a committee to arrange for an Id-fashioned, fire-works and procession Fourth of July. Certain enthusiastic Philadelphians imagine that they can retore the Independence Day of their childhood in the city where the famous declaraion was signed ; but it is very doubtful whether the great national holiday can ever min the lurid character that it had years no. Philadelphia seems to be having a ion from the over-cautious policy of cent years which effectually extinguished he fire-cracker patriotism of Young Amerm. This feature of the Fourth had bene a nuisance, and if the committee propose to keep it within bounds, and deworks that have always been a feature of the day, they may re-establish, not the old Fourth of their early days, but a holi day more in accordance with the spirit of the age.

There has been a wide diversity of opinion as to whether the fire-works method of stances, many holding that the burning of ous saltpetre precipitated patriotism in the mind of the small boy, and others t it only served to burn valuable real state and annoy nervous citizens. In this ity last Fourth of July, the advocates of be former theory kept up their Chinese rejolcings long after the patriotic small boy hould have been in bed. Now if Philaabhia can inaugurate a method of celerating the day that shall be hilarious and arous, patriotic and not idiotic. will confer a boon upon the suffering as of every patriotic community.

At my rate, let Lancaster show what it an de in a celebration of the great day, that will be at once sensible and patriotic

What the State Taxes,

The carrying corporations who do busi-tem in Pennsylvania are cagerly availing benneives of the United States supreme art decision, which declares that the te cannot lay a tax upon the gross rechipts for the carriage of goods through the state. The state will lose, it is said, six or seven hundred thousand dollars of revenue by this decision.

It seems, however, to be so unfounded hat there is a fair hope that when the Initial States supreme court is changed in a low years by the accession of better blood, he hav will be otherwise decided. That a chain should be deharred from taxing the setting the territory upon the initial territory ber territory upon her territory for goods carried through the territory. Of the emigrants who went to different ountries in 1884, five-sighths came to the United States, one-eighth went to British North Amer ca and the remaining quarter to Australia and other parts. Atter a careful examination of the causes that led to the steady flow of population from the old world to the new, he comes to the conclusion that it is regulated by the same natural laws of supis regulated by the same natural laws of sup-ply that operate in commerce. "It has been said that the ablest commerces, "It has been ever lived could not feed London for a day, yet the law of supply and demand delivers to the great city such day just what it needs of corn, meat and drink." Economic writers have attempted to compare the condition of labor in America with the condition of labor n England, but there are so many points of difference in machinery, clothing and houses, besides the main difference in food and wages, that fair comparison is impossible, and Mr. Hale is no doubt right in his conclusion that the decision of the thousands of emigrants in

From the Philadelphia Telegraph Surely there ought to be no trouble about organizing an "Anti-Corruption Society" in Lancaster for the purpose of purifying the politics of that region of "Hog" rings and "Bull" rings, etc. No county in the state "Buill" rings, etc. No county in the state has been more prolific of political scandal, and if the proposed purification society means business, it can find an enormous amount of work to do. It would, indeed, be an edifying spectacle to see Commodore "Jack" Hiestand, Reformer Ned Martin, General-utility-man Cochran, ex-Congress-man Smith, would-be-but-can't-get-there Congressman Griest, the "truty good" ex-Senator Warfel, Democratic ex-Chairman Hensel's Republican partner and would-be-but didn't get-there Attorney Gen-eral Hay Brown, and devotional Editor Geist, all working harmoniously to turn the fight as to who should stay "in" and run the rascals out. And then the after-piece-the fight as to who should stay "in" and run the mechine in the millennial future-that would be something worth going a day's journey in an old Conestogs to see. The average Lan-caster politician means well-for himself; but he is a dreadfully speckled creature-sort of a cross between a Western Democratic horse-thief and a colored Republican chicken appropriator.
